Holiday Traffic Deaths Surpass All Predictions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation ended its three-day observance of the New Year at midnight Sunday, breaking all previous traffic death records for the holiday and surpassing the worst fears of traffic experts.

Highway accidents during the 78-hour period claimed 453 lives, passing the New Year's high mark set during a four-day holiday in 1955-56 when 409 persons died. The previous three-day record was 374 in 1959-60.

Before the holiday started, the National Safety Council estimated that between 300 and 360 persons might be killed in traffic.

California, with 69 fatalities, recorded the highest number of deaths and broke its three-day New Year's record toll of 46, set in 1960.

Experiment Ends With Boat At Lake Bottom

FLINT, Mich. (UPI) —Approximately 100 feet of water separate James E. Bailey from the boat he took all summer to build—but he really doesn't care.

Bailey, his young son Gregory, 5, and his father-in-law, Keith H. Day, 56, are all alive to tell how the boat, which ran on three skis and was powered by an 80-horsepower motor, got to the bottom of Silver Lake, 18 miles south of here.

The trio went to the lake Sunday to test the airboat. After zipping around for some time, they hit a patch of ice which could not bear the weight of the boat and crew. As the ice cracked and the boat began to submerge, Bailey, 27, tossed his son to firmer ice.

He then jumped into the icy water to pull his father-in-law to the surface.

Another iceboater noticed their plight and threw a rope to Bailey and hauled the two men out of the water.

Day was taken to Hurley Hospital for observation. Bailey and his son went home.

All three had a story to tell.

Ousted Fountain Chief Asks for Clarification

Ousted Fountain Police Chief William Soltwedel has asked for clarification of "charges" against him made Dec. 28 by the Town Council.

This was his latest legal move for reinstatement. Soltwedel and two patrolmen were fired Dec. 21 by the Council. He will be given a public hearing Jan. 11.

Said Soltwedel's attorney, Paul Evans, in a letter to the Council:

"I am sure you recognize that the foregoing request for clarification is absolutely essential to enable Marshall Soltwedel to prepare for the hearing. . .Without such clarification, the hearing would be a mockery.

"Please advise by Jan. 6, or it must be presumed there is no real intention of giving Marshall Soltwedel an opportunity of hearing."

Evans' letter specifically ask the Council to clarify their following allegations against Soltwedel:

". . .in what way Marshall Soltwedel failed to properly train or supervise either Marshall Miller or Marshall Nugent (the two patrolmen who were fired.)

". . .the dates and times when Marshall Soltwedel failed to enforce any town ordinance.

". . .when, as to time and date, Marshall Soltwedel failed to police, patrol and protect the park and its improvements; what and when any acts of vandalism or malicious mischief occurred therein; and the manner it is alleged officer Soltwedel could have prevented same.

". . .when, as to time and date, Marshall Soltwedel failed to police, patrol and protect the business district; what and when any acts of vandalism

Reds Seek to Enlist U.S. Youth, FBI Chief Warns

By HALE MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (UPI) —FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says the Communist party is trying to increase its influence in the civil rights movement and step up its recruitment of American youths.

Hoover made the statements in a report to acting Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach on FBI activities during 1964. Warning that the Communist party is a continuing threat to the nation, Hoover said:

"The party is making every effort to increase its influence in the racial struggle and continues to promote the false impression that it is a legitimate political party.

"It has assigned priority to a recruitment campaign aimed at gaining new members from the ranks of America's youth. To implement this program, it initiated a new national Marxist youth organization last June — the W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America.

"Chapters of this group have already appeared on several college campuses."

Hoover did not name the colleges.

The 70-year-old FBI chief said his agents had been active in civil rights law enforcement, investigating 960 cases during the year. This represented a "sharp trend upward," he said.

He cited the FBI arrest of 21 persons in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers in Mississippi. He also noted that FBI investigations were conducted into alleged po-

Starling, Sparrow Lead in Local Count of Birds

The Starling, a pesky bird that took Horace Greeley's advice, led the list Dec. 27 when the Aiken Ornithological Society conducted its Christmas bird count.

Members counted 1,108 of this species, the first time this bird has topped the list in the 14 years the group has taken the local census.

In second place was the House Sparrow with 825 noted, and a close third was the Oregon Junco with 726 observed.

A Red - Headed Woodpecker, seen in Bear Creek Canon, was a newcomer to the Christmas count list. There are a few of these here during the summer but they normally migrate sev-

Rep. Ford Defeats Halleck for GOP House Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP)— Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan was chosen to lead House Republicans in the 89th Congress today, unseating Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana.

Ford, 51, backed by younger members who wanted a "fresh, forceful image" for their party, defeated Halleck 73-67. Halleck, 64, had held the job for six years.

Ford gave up the post of chairman of the party conference in order to challenge Halleck for the leadership.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin won Ford's former job.

In nominating Ford for floor leader, Rep. Elford A. Cederberg, R-Mich., said "millions of Republicans are awaiting our decision and hoping House Republicans will provide them with a fresh and forceful image."

Cederberg also predicted Ford's election would improve the prospects for Republican gains in Congress in 1966. The shattering defeat they suffered in last November's elections helped overturn Halleck.

In the contest for the conference chairmanship, the vote was 75 for Laird and 62 for Rep. Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey a member of the liberal oriented- Wednesday Club, a group of about 20 House Republicans.

Rep. Paul R. Fino of New York had announced his candidacy but withdrew to leave the contest between Frelinghuysen and Laird.

Laird was considered by some liberal-wing Republicans to have identified himself too closely with Sen. Barry Goldwater's forces in the fight over the party platform at the Republican Convention in San Francisco last summer. Laird was chairman of the Platform Committee.

State of Union Message to Be Televised

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson may take the wraps off some tax-cut and budget secrets in his State of the Union message tonight.

The President was still putting finishing touches on his annual message, to be delivered personally at a joint session of the Senate and House at 9 p.m. EST. The speech, which the President hopes will set guide marks for the work of Congress in the busy year, will be broadcast live by television and radio networks.

Johnson was departing from tradition in making it an evening speech. Most presidents have addressed Congress during the noon hour but Johnson wanted to get maximum television and radio exposure in unveiling a preliminary blueprint of what

Cooley Urges Education For Private Enterprise

The bias in academic circles against business enterpreneurship or speculative undertaking was soundly criticized last weekend by Prof. Oscar W. Cooley, associate professor of economics at Ohio Northern University.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Rampart College trustees in Denver, Cooley cited instances in his own experience when entrepreneurs were pictured unfairly — the relation between Antonio and Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice," works by Sinclair Lewis which ridicule the American businessman, and the attack by Thorstein Veblen, who exalted the engineer at the expense of the entrepreneur.

"In their view to aspire to the cloth is holy," Cooley said, "to aim at medical school is sacrificial, to want to be a lawyer is positively noble, but to become a profit-making businessman is low and vulgar.

"And the light thrown on the businessman from the American pulpit is, generally speaking, anything but flattering. 'Honest business' at a 'fair profit' our clergy tolerates. But the suggestion is made that the one who uses it does not understand how the profit system works.

"I can think of no greater service a college could render today than to create in the eyes of young America a new and truthful image of the business entrepreneur. If growth and self-development is a worthy goal of life, the freedom and challenge of business entrepreneurship should recommend it as a worthy vehicle to that goal.

"Far from aspiring to become profit-seekers, many college students apparently fear they would be corrupted by taking even a salaried job in business. An article in the 'Wall Street Journal' for Nov. 10, 1964, relates how comparatively unpopular business jobs are with college graduates. Of last spring's Harvard grads, only 14 per cent plan business careers, down from 39 per cent five years ago. Amherst College reports that although 45 per cent

Russia Says It Will Aid North Viets Against U.S.

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko warned today that Russia would aid North Viet Nam in the event of American military action there.

Russia and Red China made similar offers of unspecified aid to North Viet Nam last year after U.S. planes bombed Communist bases on the Gulf of Tonkin in retaliation for a Red attack on American warships.

Gromyko added: the Vietnamese, should be left "to settle their internal affairs."

The assurance of Soviet aid to the Hanoi regime was part of a Dec. 30 letter from Gromyko to North Vietnamese Foreign Minister Suan Thui which was summarized today by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Another U.S. Soldier Dies in Viet War

By MICHAEL T. MALLOY

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist guerrillas have killed a U.S. military adviser and put 78 government soldiers out of action in a counter-attack near the scene of the disastrous Binh Gia battle 40 miles southeast of Saigon, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the ambush Sunday night caught a column of Vietnamese Rangers, tanks and armored personnel carriers as it passed through a rubber plantation three miles south of Binh Gia.

An American enlisted man was killed in the ambush, the spokesman said. The Vietnamese casualties were 11 dead, 27 wounded and 40 missing.

The new action was announced as Vietnamese military leaders sent marines with fixed bayonets into Saigon streets to disperse anti-government demonstrators. The Saigon leaders also postponed a showdown with their Buddhist-supported leftist foes by postponing the court-martial of 20 anti-government student leaders.

The attempt by anti-government leaders to stir up new violence in the capital failed when their followers ran away without even throwing a stone at the Vietnamese marines who confronted them.

The marines had no problem with the small crowd of demonstrators. They dispersed the students without once using their bayonets.

Most of the demonstrators, who had been chanting anti-American and anti-government slogans, ran away when a line of 20 marines balanced a long roll of wire on the points of their bayonets and advanced on the crowd like a living barbed wire fence.

The demonstrators numbered

Malaysia Says It Will Be Ready to Fight Indonesia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The Malaysian government announced today it is prepared to retaliate against Indonesia "under the rule of hot pursuit when and if forced to."

Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman met with his Cabinet in emergency session following Indonesia's announcement that it is withdrawing from the United Nations.

Rahman announced that in view of the "mounting threat" from Indonesia, the Cabinet also decided to:

1. Ask Malaysia's allies in the British Commonwealth to send reinforcements if necessary.

2. Inform the United Nations "on the seriousness of the threat of more intensive Indonesian attack and request the United Nations to assist us in defense of our nation in the event of such a happening."

3. Establish more training centers to expedite the expansion of Malaysian armed forces.

The withdrawal from the United Nations by Indonesia," said Rahman, "follows a series of actions by that country in defiance of world opinion, the rule of law and the United Nations.

"The existence of small independent sovereign nations like Malaysia is being threatened by aggressive bullying and expansionst tactics of our neighbor."

"For this reason," Rahman said, Malaysia is prepared to take retaliatory action under the rule of hot pursuit when and if forced to do so for its own existence."

Malaysian and British Commonwealth forces have heretofore confined their operations to Malaysian territory and waters.

A British-aided military buildup already is under way in Malaysia.

Filipinos Plan New Campaign Against Huks

MANILA (UPI) — The government launched a massive assault today against Communist "Huk" terrorists in Pampanga Province, a principal center in the recent outbreak of anti-Americanism in this country.

About 2,000 troops moved into the province Sunday to hunt down Red "liquidation squads" blamed for a series of killings in Pampanga in the past two weeks.

It was not certain whether there was any connection between the renewal of Huk activity in the area and the anti-American outbreak, which included an attempt to bomb a U.S. Air Force elementary school.

The focus of the anti-American campaign moved today to Manila, where youth groups had obtained government permission for "peaceful picketing" outside the U.S. embassy to protest the killing of suspected Filipino pilferers on U.S. military bases in the Philippines.

Rescue Work Continues In Flood-Stricken Areas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Northern California's emergency food airlifts and temporary housing will stretch on for weeks in the aftermath of the Christmas week flood, the Air Force and Red Cross predicted today.

Gloomy prospects for northern California contrasted with a brighter forecast in the West's four other flood-distressed states — Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Nevada.

Oregon Red Cross officials reported that most of their state's 8,000 temporarily homeless families were moving back to their homes.

Washington, Idaho and Nevada weathermen reported their states have returned to a normal wintertime basis. Washington State received a heavy snow blanket Sunday.

A driving blizzard stranded an estimated 1,000 skiers and motorists at Sierra Nevada resorts Sunday and motorists continued to have uncertain luck on inland northern California snow-choked highways.

55 Mexicans Die as Church Roof Collapses

PUEBLA, Mexico (AP) — Fifty-five Mexicans were killed and 63 injured when the roof of a new Roman Catholic church collapsed Sunday at Rijo, 80 miles southwest of Puebla.

The concrete roof crashed during a Mass to dedicate the building. About 300 persons were inside.

Officials said a preliminary investigation indicated defective construction had caused the tragedy. The building was of brick and concrete.

Among those killed was the priest officiating at the Mass, Father Ezequiel Alvarez Ortega, whose brother designed and built the church. Police said the brother would be questioned.

"It happened so fast nobody had a chance to run," said Alfonso Escamilla, 15, one of the injured survivors.

"I heard a roaring noise and looked up and saw the center part of the roof coming down. I was pretty near a door, but I didn't have time to get out."

Officials said most of those who escaped injury were seated at the back of the church where the roof had not been completed.

Rijo is a town of 5,000. Many of its people work in a nearby sugar mill. Five tractors from the mill plowed away the debris as rescuers dug out the injured and the bodies.

Jury Selection Begins for Preston Trial

Jury selection for first degree murder trial of Glenn "Hook" Preston started in District Court this morning with Judge G. Russell Miller on the Bench.

The district attorney's office has indicated that defense counsel's anticipated motion for a directed verdict of acquital will not be contested.

Preston, 54, Rt. a merchant policeman, fatally shot Harris Junior Orin, 44, 608 Bonfoy Ave. Dec. 24. According to a sheriff's report, the deceased man was attempting to break into the Gulf Filling Sttion at Praire Road and Platte Avenue.

When Preston went to investigate he was promptly knocked to the ground by a heavy pair of pliers wielded by Orin. Orin continued to beat Preston over the head and in the ensuing struggle Orin was shot twice and died some hours later.

Sukarno May Try to Form 'Rival U.N.'

By ANTOINE YARED

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian President Sukarno is expected to try to form an organization of young nations as a rival to the United Nations.

It is believed here that Indonesia's opposition to the seating of Malaysia on the U.N. Security Council was only a pretext for quitting the world organization, which the Indonesians claim has "degenerated into a mere tool" of the United States and Britain.

Sukarno is thought to envision Indonesia taking the lead in a new organization of what he calls the Nefos — new emerging forces — as against the Oldfos —old established forces. He has had no success with such ideas in the past.

In 1963, Sukarno got little support when he withdrew Indonesian athletes from the Olympic Games and set up the games of the new emerging forces — Ganefo.

Nor did he draw much support last October at the second conference of nonaligned nations in Cairo when he said their approach was outdated and should be replaced by his concept of the new emerging forces.

However, Sukarno might propose a regional grouping similar to the Organization of African Unity that would not require

Hawaii Too Expensive, U.S. Soldiers Complain

By MALCOLM BARR

HONOLULU (AP) — The Government Accounting Office has suggested that if the Army can't operate a mountain recreation resort for servicemen in Hawaii at less cost, it should close it.

This would leave, in effect, only one major recreational area in the state for the 120,000 military people and their families who are stationed here. It evoked severe — though off the record — criticism from officers and enlisted men.

"If they take much more away from us, we'll have nothing left to be taken," was a comment typical of many.

Most Hawaiians took only an academic interest in the recent GAO assertion that the Kilauea rest and recreation area on Hawaii Island —200 miles southeast of Honolulu — went in the red by $850,000 in 1963.

But the controversy brought to mind another military facility that has aroused state officials

Ousted Fountain Chief Asks for Clarification

Ousted Fountain Police Chief William Soltwedel has asked for clarification of "charges" against him made Dec. 28 by the Town Council.

This was his latest legal move for reinstatement. Soltwedel and two patrolmen were fired Dec. 21 by the Council. He will be given a public hearing Jan. 11.

Said Soltwedel's attorney, Paul Evans, in a letter to the Council:

"I am sure you recognize that the foregoing request for clarification is absolutely essential to enable Marshall Soltwedel to prepare for the hearing. . .Without such clarification, the hearing would be a mockery.

"Please advise by Jan. 6, or it must be presumed there is no real intention of giving Marshall Soltwedel an opportunity of hearing."

Evans' letter specifically ask the Council to clarify their following allegations against Solt wedel:

". . .in what way Marshall Soltwedel failed to properly train or supervise either Marshall Miller or Marshall Nugent (the two patrolmen who were fired.)

". . .the dates and times when Marshall Soltwedel failed to enforce any town ordinance.

". . .when, as to time and date, Marshall Soltwedel failed to police, patrol and protect the park and its improvements; what and when any acts of vandalism or malicious mischief occurred therein; and the manner it is alleged officer Soltwedel could have prevented same.

". . .when, as to time and date, Marshall Soltwedel failed to police, patrol and protect the business district; what and when any acts of vandalism

Reds Seek to Enlist U.S. Youth, FBI Chief Warns

By HALE MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (UPI) —FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says the Communist party is trying to increase its influence in the civil rights movement and step up its recruitment of American youths.

Hoover made the statements in a report to acting Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach on FBI activities during 1964. Warning that the Communist party is a continuing threat to the nation, Hoover said:

"The party is making every effort to increase its influence in the racial struggle and continues to promote the false impression that it is a legitimate political party.

"It has assigned priority to a recruitment campaign aimed at gaining new members from the ranks of America's youth. To implement this program, it initiated a new national Marxist youth organization last June — the W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America.

"Chapters of this group have already appeared on several college campuses."

Hoover did not name the colleges.

The 70-year-old FBI chief said his agents had been active in civil rights law enforcement, investigating 960 cases during the year. This represented a "sharp trend upward," he said.

He cited the FBI arrest of 21 persons in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers in Mississippi. He also noted that FBI investigations were conducted into alleged po-

Starling, Sparrow Lead in Local Count of Birds

The Starling, a pesky bird that took Horace Greeley's advice, led the list Dec. 27 when the Aiken Ornithological Society conducted its Christmas bird count.

Members counted 1,108 of this species, the first time this bird has topped the list in the 14 years the group has taken the local census.

In second place was the House Sparrow with 825 noted, and a close third was the Oregon Junco with 726 observed.

A Red-Headed Woodpecker, seen in Bear Creek Canon, was a newcomer to the Christmas count list. There are a few of these here during the summer but they normally migrate sev-

Rep. Ford Defeats Halleck for GOP House Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP)— Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan was chosen to lead House Republicans in the 89th Congress today, unseating Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana.

Ford, 51, backed by younger members who wanted a "fresh, forceful image" for their party, defeated Halleck 73-67. Halleck, 64, had held the job for six years.

Ford gave up the post of chairman of the party conference in order to challenge Halleck for the leadership.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin won Ford's former job.

In nominating Ford for floor leader, Rep. Elford A. Cederberg, R-Mich., said "millions of Republicans are awaiting our decision and hoping House Republicans will provide them with a fresh and forceful image."

Cederberg also predicted Ford's election would improve the prospects for Republican gains in Congress in 1966. The shattering defeat they suffered in last November's elections helped overturn Halleck.

In the contest for the conference chairmanship, the vote was 75 for Laird and 62 for Rep. Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey a member of the liberal oriented- Wednesday Club, a group of about 20 House Republicans.

Rep. Paul R. Fino of New York had announced his candidacy but withdrew to leave the contest between Frelinghuysen and Laird.

Laird was considered by some liberal-wing Republicans to have identified himself too closely with Sen. Barry Goldwater's forces in the fight over the party platform at the Republican Convention in San Francisco last summer. Laird was chairman of the Platform Committee.

State of Union Message to Be Televised

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson may take the wraps off some tax-cut and budget secrets in his State of the Union message tonight.

The President was still putting finishing touches on his annual message, to be delivered personally at a joint session of the Senate and House at 9 p.m. EST. The speech, which the President hopes will set guide marks for the work of Congress in the busy year, will be broadcast live by television and radio networks.

Johnson was departing from tradition in making it an evening speech. Most presidents have addressed Congress during the noon hour but Johnson wanted to get maximum television and radio exposure in unveiling a preliminary blueprint of what

The bias in academic circles against business entrepreneurship or speculative undertaking was soundly criticized last weekend by Prof. Oscar W. Cooley, associate professor of economics at Ohio Northern University.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Rampart College trustees in Denver, Cooley cited instances in his own experience when entrepreneurs were pictured unfairly — the relation between Antonio and Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice," works by Sinclair Lewis which ridicule the American businessman, and the attack by Thorstein Veblen, who exalted the engineer at the expense of the entrepreneur.

"In their view to aspire to the cloth is holy," Cooley said, "to aim at medical school is sacrificial, to want to be a lawyer is positively noble, but to become a profit-making businessman is low and vulgar.

"And the light thrown on the businessman from the American pulpit is, generally speaking, anything but flattering. 'Honest business' at a 'fair profit' our clergy tolerates. But the suggestion is made that the one who uses it does not understand how the profit system works.

"I can think of no greater service a college could render today than to create in the eyes of young America a new and truthful image of the business entrepreneur. If growth and self-development is a worthy goal of life, the freedom and challenge of business entrepreneurship should recommend it as a worthy vehicle to that goal.

"Far from aspiring to become profit-seekers, many college students apparently fear they would be corrupted by taking even a salaried job in business. An article in the 'Wall Street Journal' for Nov. 10, 1964, relates how comparatively unpopular business jobs are with college graduates. Of last spring's Harvard grads, only 14 per cent plan business careers, down from 39 per cent five years ago. Amherst College reports that although 46 per cent

Russia Says It Will Aid North Viets Against U.S.

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko warned today that Russia would aid North Viet Nam in the event of American military action there.

Russia and Red China made similar offers of unspecified aid to North Viet Nam last year after U.S. planes bombed Communist bases on the Gulf of Tonkin in retaliation for a Red attack on American warships.

Gromyko added: the Vietnamese, should be left "to settle their internal affairs."

The assurance of Soviet aid to the Hanoi regime was part of a Dec. 30 letter from Gromyko to North Vietnamese Foreign Minister Suan Thui which was summarized today by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Another U.S. Soldier Dies in Viet War

By MICHAEL T. MALLOY

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist guerrillas have killed a U.S. military adviser and put 78 government soldiers out of action in a counter-attack near the scene of the disastrous Binh Gia battle 40 miles southeast of Saigon, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the ambush Sunday night caught a column of Vietnamese Rangers, tanks and armored personnel carriers as it passed through a rubber plantation three miles south of Binh Gia.

An American enlisted man was killed in the ambush, the spokesman said. The Vietnamese casualties were 11 dead, 27 wounded and 40 missing.

The new action was announced as Vietnamese military leaders sent marines with fixed bayonets into Saigon streets to disperse anti-government demonstrators. The Saigon leaders also postponed a showdown with their Buddhist-supported leftist foes by postponing the court-martial of 20 anti-government student leaders.

The attempt by anti-government leaders to stir up new violence in the capital failed when their followers ran away without even throwing a stone at the Vietnamese marines who confronted them.

The marines had no problem with the small crowd of demonstrators. They dispersed the students without once using their bayonets.

Most of the demonstrators, who had been chanting anti-American and anti-government slogans, ran away when a line of 20 marines balanced a long roll of wire on the points of their bayonets and advanced on the crowd like a living barbed wire fence.

The demonstrators numbered

Malaysia Says It Will Be Ready to Fight Indonesia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The Malaysian government announced today it is prepared to retaliate against Indonesia "under the rule of hot pursuit when and if forced to."

Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman met with his Cabinet in emergency session following Indonesia's announcement that it is withdrawing from the United Nations.

Rahman announced that in view of the "mounting threat" from Indonesia, the Cabinet also decided to:

1. Ask Malaysia's allies in the British Commonwealth to send reinforcements if necessary.

2. Inform the United Nations "on the seriousness of the threat of more intensive Indonesian attack and request the United Nations to assist us in defense of our nation in the event of such a happening."

3. Establish more training centers to expedite the expansion of Malaysian armed forces.

The withdrawal from the United Nations by Indonesia," said Rahman, "follows a series of actions by that country in defiance of world opinion, the rule of law and the United Nations.

"The existence of small independent sovereign nations like Malaysia is being threatened by aggressive bullying and expansionst tactics of our neighbor."

"For this reason," Rahman said, Malaysia is prepared to take retaliatory action under the rule of hot pursuit when and if forced to do so for its own existence."

Malaysian and British Commonwealth forces have heretofore confined their operations to Malaysian territory and waters.

A British-aided military buildup already is under way in Malaysia.

Filipinos Plan New Campaign Against Huks

MANILA (UPI) — The government launched a massive assault today against Communist "Huk" terrorists in Pampanga Province, a principal center in the recent outbreak of anti-Americanism in this country.

About 2,000 troops moved into the province Sunday to hunt down Red "liquidation squads" blamed for a series of killings in Pampanga in the past two weeks.

It was not certain whether there was any connection between the renewal of Huk activity in the area and the anti-American outbreak, which included an attempt to bomb a U.S. Air Force elementary school.

The focus of the anti-American campaign moved today to Manila, where youth groups had obtained government permission for "peaceful picketing" outside the U.S. embassy to protest the killing of suspected Filipino pilferers on U.S. military bases in the Philippines.

Rescue Work Continues In Flood-Stricken Areas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Northern California's emergency food airlifts and temporary housing will stretch on for weeks in the aftermath of the Christmas week flood, the Air Force and Red Cross predicted today.

Gloomy prospects for northern California contrasted with a brighter forecast in the West's four other flood-distressed states — Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Nevada.

Oregon Red Cross officials reported that most of their state's 8,000 temporarily homeless families were moving back to their homes.

Washington, Idaho and Nevada weathermen reported their states have returned to a normal wintertime basis. Washington State received a heavy snow blanket Sunday.

A driving blizzard stranded an estimated 1,000 skiers and motorists at Sierra Nevada resorts Sunday and motorists continued to have uncertain luck on inland northern California snow-choked highways.

In the flood zone, many homes surviving the rampaging waters are unliveable, the Red Cross

55 Mexicans Die as Church Roof Collapses

PUEBLA, Mexico (AP) — Fifty-five Mexicans were killed and 63 injured when the roof of a new Roman Catholic church collapsed Sunday at Rijo, 80 miles southwest of Puebla.

The concrete roof crashed during a Mass to dedicate the building. About 300 persons were inside.

Officials said a preliminary investigation indicated defective construction had caused the tragedy. The building was of brick and concrete.

Among those killed was the priest officiating at the Mass, Father Ezequiel Alvarez Ortega, whose brother designed and built the church. Police said the brother would be questioned.

"It happened so fast nobody had a chance to run," said Alfonso Escamilla, 15, one of the injured survivors.

"I heard a roaring noise and looked up and saw the center part of the roof coming down. I was pretty near a door, but I didn't have time to get out."

Officials said most of those who escaped injury were seated at the back of the church where the roof had not been completed.

Rijo is a town of 5,000. Many of its people work in a nearby sugar mill. Five tractors from the mill plowed away the debris as rescuers dug out the injured and the bodies.

Jury Selection Begins for Preston Trial

Jury selection for first degree murder trial of Glenn "Hook" Preston started in District Court this morning with Judge G. Russell Miller on the Bench.

The district attorney's office has indicated that defense counsel's anticipated motion for a directed verdict of acquital will not be contested.

Preston, 54, Rt. a merchant policeman, fatally shot Harris Junior Orin, 44, 608 Bonfoy Ave. Dec. 24. According to a sheriff's report, the deceased man was attempting to break into the Gulf Filling Sttion at Praire Road and Platte Avenue.

When Preston went to investigate he was promptly knocked to the ground by a heavy pair of pliers wielded by Orin. Orin continued to beat Preston over the head and in the ensuing struggle Orin was shot twice and died some hours later.

Sukarno May Try to Form 'Rival U.N.'

By ANTOINE YARED

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian President Sukarno is expected to try to form an organization of young nations as a rival to the United Nations.

It is believed here that Indonesia's opposition to the seating of Malaysia on the U.N. Security Council was only a pretext for quitting the world organization, which the Indonesians claim has "degenerated into a mere tool" of the United States and Britain.

Sukarno is thought to envision Indonesia taking the lead in a new organization of what he calls the Nefos — new emerging forces — as against the Oldfos —old established forces. He has had no success with such ideas in the past.

In 1963, Sukarno got little support when he withdrew Indonesian athletes from the Olympic Games and set up the games of the new emerging forces — Ganefo.

Nor did he draw much support last October at the second conference of nonaligned nations in Cairo when he said their approach was outdated and should be replaced by his concept of the new emerging forces.

However, Sukarno might propose a regional grouping similar to the Organization of African Unity that would not require

By MALCOLM BARR

HONOLULU (AP) — The Government Accounting Office has suggested that if the Army can't operate a mountain recreation resort for servicemen in Hawaii at less cost, it should close it.

This would leave, in effect, only one major recreational area in the state for the 120,000 military people and their families who are stationed here. It evoked severe — though off the record — criticism from officers and enlisted men.

"If they take much more away from us, we'll have nothing left to be taken," was a comment typical of many.

Most Hawaiians took only an academic interest in the recent GAO assertion that the Kilauea rest and recreation area on Hawaii Island —200 miles southeast of Honolulu — went in the red by $850,000 in 1963.

But the controversy brought to mind another military facility that has aroused state officials

New Chancellor Takes Over at U. of California

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A fast-moving new chancellor took over the strife-ridden Berkeley campus of the University of California today on the optimistic note that turmoil over student political activity can be settled by February.

Dean Martin Meyerson, 42, was elevated to acting chancellor in a surprise move by the university's Board of Regents Saturday night.

He succeeded Dr. Edward Strong, 63, who asked for and was granted an indefinite leave of absence to recuperate from a recent illness.

Immediately after his appointment, which came to him on a 24-hour notice, Meyerson telephoned an emergency faculty committee considering the campus speech situation marked by mass demonstrations and sit-in arrests and summoned them to a Sunday morning meeting at his Berkeley home.

Sunday afternoon Meyerson called a news conference and read a statement declaring: "Civil disobedience is warranted only when there is no recourse to reasonable deliberation. Avenues of recourse now are available on this campus.

"If we work together on our immediate problems we can achieve a solution by the beginning of the new term in February."

Sunday night Meyerson issued a set of campus rules covering what he called "those matters of greatest concern during the next few days."

The rules permit open discussion on the steps of the administration building, Sproul Hall; establish hours and places where students can set up tables and receive donations, distribute literature and recruit for causes, and reduce from 72 hours to 48 the advance notification required for off-campus speakers to be brought on campus.

A minority group of the 27,000-member student body demanding virtually unlimited freedom on campus to espouse off-campus causes such as civil rights, had slated a noon rally on Sproul Hall steps today.

When the rally was announced last week, rebel student leaders said it was to be a test of the right to assemble on the steps. That right was granted by Dr. Strong before he took leave, and since was reaffirmed by Dean Meyerson.

The dissidents, who adopted a wait-and-see attitude toward the new chancellor, said the rally would be held regardless.

Predictions for Year Varied for Businesses

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The business world's attention was focused this week on the prospects for 1965.

Businessmen had enjoyed a prosperous 1964.

Predictions for the new year varied. The consensus seemed to be that business will experience continued growth but perhaps at a slower rate.

The upturn entered its 47th month as the new year arrived.

Thirteen leading economists who participated in the National Industrial Conference Board's annual economic forum expressed the opinion that 1965 will be better for business than 1964 but far more obstacles will have to be hurdled.

They estimated that the Gross National Product—the total of all goods and services — will gain 5 per cent, reaching $666 billion by the end of the year.

Other forecasts by this group included a 3.7 per cent gain in industrial production, a 1 to 1½ per cent advance in the consumer price index and a slight worsening in the unemployment rate.

A survey of 300 members of the American Statistical Association indicated the economy's growth probably will be at a slower pace than in 1964.

Unfavorable factors cited most often by these economists and statisticians were labor-management relations, particularly the possibility of a steel strike; international political difficulties; tighter money and credit domestically; international financial difficulties, such as the British sterling crisis, and an increase in the U.S. balance of payments deficit.

Prof. Henry C. Wallich of Yale University, a former member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, warned that 1965 could see the end of the long expansion. He said weak points include housing starts and lack of strength in new orders.

The Johnson Administration was ready to prime the economy with excise-tax cuts and greater federal spending.

The $6-a-ton increase in the price of galvanized steel sheets initiated last week spread through the major producers this week with Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., Bethlehem Steel Corp., National Steel Corp. and Armco Steel Co. going along.

President Johnson instructed his Council of Economic Advisers to investigate the price increase and report back to him.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Robert V. Roosa warned that steel price increases could set off a fresh round of inflation next year.

The United Steel Workers reopened their contract, which means a strike could be called next May 1.

With demand for steel continuing heavy from the automobile and construction industries and some buying being done as a hedge against a possible strike, mills were hard put to fill their orders. They turned out 2,557,000 tons last week, off 3.3 per cent from the previous week which set a four-year record.

For the year, 125,768,000 tons of steel had been poured, well above the previous record of 117 million tons in 1955.

The cost of living rose in November to a record 108.7 per cent of the 1957-59 average. The Labor Department attributed the 0.2 per cent advance mainly to automobile prices.

A strike by firemen halted operations of the Southern Railway system for one day before management obtained a court order against the walkout. Negotiations on work rules will be resumed Monday.

GAY AFTERNOON LIFE

RENO, Nev. (AP) — There's one Reno chorus line which doesn't get to see much of the gay night life.

New Chancellor Takes Over at U. of California

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A fast-moving new chancellor took over the strife-ridden Berkeley campus of the University of California today on the optimistic note that turmoil over student political activity can be settled by February.

Dean Martin Meyerson, 42, was elevated to acting chancellor in a surprise move by the university's Board of Regents Saturday night.

He succeeded Dr. Edward Strong, 63, who asked for and was granted an indefinite leave of absence to recuperate from a recent illness.

Immediately after his appointment, which came to him on a 24-hour notice, Meyerson telephoned an emergency faculty committee considering the campus speech situation marked by mass demonstrations and sit-in arrests and summoned them to a Sunday morning meeting at his Berkeley home.

Sunday afternoon Meyerson called a news conference and read a statement declaring: "Civil disobedience is warranted only when there is no recourse to reasonable deliberation. Avenues of recourse now are available on this campus.

"If we work together on our immediate problems we can achieve a solution by the beginning of the new term in February."

Sunday night Meyerson issued a set of campus rules covering what he called "those matters of greatest concern during the next few days."

The rules permit open discussion on the steps of the administration building, Sproul Hall; establish hours and places where students can set up tables and receive donations, distribute literature and recruit for causes, and reduce from 72 hours to 48 the advance notification required for off-campus speakers to be brought on campus.

A minority group of the 27,000-member student body demanding virtually unlimited freedom on campus to espouse off-campus causes such as civil rights, had slated a noon rally on Sproul Hall steps today.

When the rally was announced last week, rebel student leaders said it was to be a test of the right to assemble on the steps. That right was granted by Dr. Strong before he took leave, and since was reaffirmed by Dean Meyerson.

The dissidents, who adopted a wait-and-see attitude toward the new chancellor, said the rally would be held regardless.

Predictions for Year Varied for Businesses

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The business world's attention was focused this week on the prospects for 1965.

Businessmen had enjoyed a prosperous 1964.

Predictions for the new year varied. The consensus seemed to be that business will experience continued growth but perhaps at a slower rate.

The upturn entered its 47th month as the new year arrived.

Thirteen leading economists who participated in the National Industrial Conference Board's annual economic forum expressed the opinion that 1965 will be better for business than 1964 but far more obstacles will have to be hurdled.

They estimated that the Gross National Product—the total of all goods and services — will gain 5 per cent, reaching $666 billion by the end of the year.

Other forecasts by this group included a 3.7 per cent gain in industrial production, a 1 to 1½ per cent advance in the consumer price index and a slight worsening in the unemployment rate.

A survey of 300 members of the American Statistical Association indicated the economy's growth probably will be at a slower pace than in 1964.

Unfavorable factors cited most often by these economists and statisticians were labor-management relations, particularly the possibility of a steel strike; international political difficulties; tighter money and credit domestically; international financial difficulties, such as the British sterling crisis, and an increase in the U.S. balance of payments deficit.

Prof. Henry C. Wallich of Yale University, a former member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, warned that 1965 could see the end of the long expansion. He said weak points include housing starts and lack of strength in new orders.

The Johnson Administration was ready to prime the economy with excise-tax cuts and greater federal spending.

The $6-a-ton increase in the price of galvanized steel sheets initiated last week spread through the major producers this week with Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., Bethlehem Steel Corp., National Steel Corp. and Armco Steel Co. going along.

President Johnson instructed his Council of Economic Advisers to investigate the price increase and report back to him.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Robert V. Roosa warned that steel price increases could set off a fresh round of inflation next year.

The United Steel Workers reopened their contract, which means a strike could be called next May 1.

With demand for steel continuing heavy from the automobile and construction industries and some buying being done as a hedge against a possible strike, mills were hard put to fill their orders. They turned out 2,557,000 tons last week, off 3.3 per cent from the previous week which set a four-year record.

For the year, 125,768,000 tons of steel had been poured, well above the previous record of 117 million tons in 1955.

The cost of living rose in November to a record 108.7 per cent of the 1957-59 average. The Labor Department attributed the 0.2 per cent advance mainly to automobile prices.

A strike by firemen halted operations of the Southern Railway system for one day before management obtained a court order against the walkout. Negotiations on work rules will be resumed Monday.

Attention, Girls! Count off, please! Give your name and height:

"Ele Dulaney, 5 fooot 2, almost."

"Sandy Jones, 5 foot 9."

"Arlene Klump 5 foot 10."

"Mary Lynne Miller, 6 foot 1."

And there we stood, I looking up; they looking down.

This is Ele today with a "tall story" to share with you. About two weeks ago, I chatted with three gals, all high school students, who were slightly taller than I. It was such a fun chat, we want you to eavesdrop in on it.

Mary Lynne started. "You know sometimes when I'm out, say at the store, I notice the same people passing by me, about three or four times. They stare at me as they pass and I just know that they're trying to figure out how tall I am. This really used to bother me. And so one day, when this lady had passed by me for the fourth time, I turned around, looked her straight in the face and told her, "I'm 6 foot 2.' That took her by complete surprise; she was so embarrassed she couldn't say anything. She just turned around and walked off meekly. That satisfied her curiosity."

Other folks just stretch their necks and stare as we go by," Arlene added. "Their faces light up with disbelief and they're probably saying to themselves, 'Gee, they're making girls big this year!'"

"And, of course, there are the corny lines people always feed as 'How's the weather up there?' and 'Say, are you having trouble breathing up at that altitude?' I usually just laugh whenever anyone teases me. If it weren't my height they'd be teasing me about something else!"

Then she moaned, "What really is problem? Sports cars! Boy, when even the smaller girls worry about getting in those midget cars gracefully, you better believe it when we slighter taller girls say we have a minor crisis trying to have a minor crisis trying to figure out which leg to stick into the car first.

"Then when we make it in," she sighed, "We wonder if we'll ever straighten up once we get out. Have you ever sat with your knees squeezed against your chest and tickling your chin?" She demonstrated.

"Amen!" chimed in the other two girls.

Arlene asked, "Have you ever been caught by hanging vines?" We laughed. "You're kidding!"

"Nope!" she joined our laughter. "There's this restaurant which has a lot of ivy hanging all over the place. And once I went there with a date, and before I knew it, there I was with all that stuff in my hair and around my neck. It ruined my hair-do! And tell me, will you, how does one appear graceful and nonchalant while peeling leaves and vines off your face? Those vines are dangerous for us tall folks!" she warned.

Dates apparently were no problem to the girls. "Fellows come taller nowadays," Mary Lynne quipped happily. There are shorter guys for shorter girls, and taller guys searching for taller girls. So things turn out pretty nicely."

"And even if you are a little taller, as long as you carry yourself proudly, most fellows don't mind it," Arlene said. "In fact, some of the fellows I date refuse to let me wear flats. They want me to wear heels for the fancier occasions; they even threaten to leave me at home if I don't."

I stood up straight to my full 5 foot 2 and boldly asked, "Do you wish you were as tall—er, rather—as short as I?"

Said they in grand unison, "no!"

They pointed at me and directed a question. "Haven't you ever wished you were a little taller, especially at parades and in large crowds where you couldnt' see anything in front of you except a sea of the backs of heads?" I had to nod my head.

"Well, that's one advantage I enjoy," Mary Lynne said. "I never have that problem. I stand up and peer over everybody."

"Another nice thing about being tall," Sandy exclaimed, is that you fit into anything! It's so easy to shop and find clothes which fit perfectly. I don't know why things fit better, but they do!"

Ariene who had had modeling experience reminded us that the demand is on for tall girls as models. Most high fashion models, she pointed out, are at least 5 foot 8 or 9."

"Tiny girls can be cute," Mary Lynne noted; "The tall girl can be elegant and stately."

The parting advice they gave to their tall companions was "Stand up straight and tall. Make your height an asset!"

And all Ele can add to that bit of advice is, "Ditto for the short gals, too.!"

Well, we've had our say. Now it's your turn. Do you have an etiquette problem you'd like to share? Or, maybe, you've got a solution that tops one of ours. In either case, be our guest. Just drop a line to Ele and Walt in care of this paper. We'll be waiting to hear from you.

BOSTON (AP) — Fires killed 11,900 persons in the United States in 1964 and destroyed property worth $1.67 million, the National Fire Protection Association said today. Almost 30 per cent of all fire victims were children.

The number of deaths increased 100 over the 1963 toll but was less than the record mark of 12,100 fire deaths set in 1954.

The property loss figure, $113,100,000 under the previous year's record high, reversed a three-year trend of constantly rising dollar losses from fire.

BOSTON (AP) — Fires killed 11,900 persons in the United States in 1964 and destroyed property worth $1.67 million, the National Fire Protection Association said today. Almost 30 per cent of all fire victims were children.

The number of deaths increased 100 over the 1963 toll but was less than the record mark of 12,100 fire deaths set in 1954.

The property loss figure, $113,-100,000 under the previous year's record high, reversed a three-year trend of constantly rising dollar losses from fire.

Mrs. Kennedy Ends Colorado Vacation

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy ended her eight-day Colorado ski vacation Sunday and said she hoped to return in the spring for more skiing.

Mrs. Kennedy, her brother-in-law Sen.-elect Robert F. Kennedy, D-NY, and their families flew in a chartered plane from Aspen to Denver. Mrs. Kennedy and her children, Caroline and John Jr., boarded a commercial airliner for New York City. Kennedy and his children rode a private plane to Washington, D.C.

Other members of the Kennedy family were in the group that spent nearly every day of the vacation on the ski slopes.

Mrs. Kennedy was presented a certificate of merit by the Buttermilk Mountain Ski School. It said she had shown the most improvement of any skier during the week.

eral hundred miles south for the winter.

The count was made in a 15-mile diameter circle centered at Highway 85-87 and Harrison Road.

The total was 7,174 birds with 70 species represented. This compares to 8,500 birds of 75 species in the 1963 count. The most numerous species in 1963 was the House Finch when 876 were observed.

Approximately 700 groups throughout the country took part in this activity during the latter half of December. Results are recorded by the National Audubon Society which uses them in its conservation activities.

Mahlon Speers, a member of the local society, says that "the fact that the starling was high bird in 1964 does not necessarily mean that they are our most numerous bird. Many of our native birds are more secretive and less easily seen. Probably the Oregon Junco (snowbird) out numbers the starling in this area."

In case one wonders why conservationists are apprehensive over the spreading of starlings. Speers pointed to this example: it was reported recently that an Eastern firm had been given a $50,000 government contract to rid the starlings from the parade route of the coming Presidential Inauguration.

Members here were Mrs. T. L. Adams, Mrs. Robin Bassein, Mrs. Gilbert Catlett, Mrs. Kenneth Ewing, Mrs. L. B. Field, Lt. Col. and Mrs. D. W. Galvin, Gary Gambfil,

Miss Mary Alice Hamilton, Mrs. Gayle Ireland, David Jensen, Miss Berhardina Johnson, Blaine Marshman, Mrs. Noble Miller, David Laliberte, Paul Nesbit, Mrs. William Noble, Mrs. Ruth Pickering,

Miss Ramona Pickering, Mrs. Julia Porrata, Mr. and Mrs. Speers, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Stabler, James Stabler, Mrs. Helen Thurlow, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Weberbauer, Mrs. A. D. Williams, Mrs. Harry Wills, and Richard Winternitz.

Speers noted that the number of participants was down from 42 last year to 31 which could account, in part, he said for the fewer number of birds seen during the 1964 count.

Following is a complete list of the recent survey:

State of Union Message to Be Televised

he calls his "Great Society" program.

The chief executive will touch on major legislative proposals to be submitted in the weeks ahead. But he was not expected to go into detail on these, leaving that for special messages to be sent to Congress later.

If he follows last year's pattern, he also will disclose the broad outlines of the new federal budget to be submitted later in the month. For the second straight year he was expected to announce annual federal spending at less than $100 billion.

There was a possibility, too, Johnson would put a dollar figure for the first time on the size of the excise-tax cut he will ask Congress to approve effective July 1. There has been speculation the proposed tax cut might approach $2 billion.

In addition to discussing domestic policies and programs, presidents usually devote part of their State of the Union messages to foreign affairs. There were no advance hints that Johnson planned any surprises in this area.

Johnson returned to Washington Saturday after a 13-day holiday stay at his Texas ranch. Sunday he attended morning services at the National City Christian Church and visited the grave of President John F. Kennedy in Arlington National Cemetery. Mrs. Johnson was with him, as were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Watson of Dallas. Johnson has been trying to enlist Watson, Texas Democratic chairman, as a member of the White House staff.

Holiday Traffic Deaths Surpass All Predictions

nia Highway Patrol, Kent Milton, said he is "sure alcohol will be found to be a tremendous factor" in accounting for the bleak total.

For comparative purposes, The Associated Press counted traffic deaths during a non-holiday three-day weekend last month. The total then was 396.

Last week, 578 deaths were counted during the three-day Christmas period.

California's toll far surpassed the next nearest state — Texas, with 45 fatalities. New York and Illinois followed with 24 each. Only eight states went through the holiday without a traffic death — Alaska, Delaware, Hawaii, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont and Wyoming.

The safety council said 1964 traffic deaths are expected to reach a record 48,000. The council plans to report the 12-month totals later this month.

Driver Injured As Car Hits Tree

One person was injured Sunday in a one-car accident on Mesa Avenue and 3rd Street, the State Patrol reported.

Douglas Heyliger, 16, 429 Pine Ave., sustained lacerations inside his jaw and several lost teeth, according to the report. He was taken to Penrose Hospital.

The patrol said Heyliger was eastbound on Mesa Avenue when he lost control of his car and hit a tree. Damage to his 1962 model car was estimated at $500, according to the report.

lice brutality, and the bombings and burnings of Negro homes and churches.

Hoover said final tabulations for 1964 would show the apprehension of about 13,200 fugitives and recovery of more than 20,500 stolen automobiles in FBI-investigated cases. Both figures are increases of nearly 1,000 over the previous year.

The FBI director said fines, savings and recoveries, resulting from FBI cases totaled more than $203 million, more than paying the way of the bureau. The annual FBI budget is about $150 million.

Cooley Urges Education For Private Enterprise

of her alumni are businessmen, fewer than 20 per cent of her recent graduates have entered business. It's not that business doesn't want them — the placement director of Northwestern University says that companies tried to hire 12 per cent more graduates with bachelor's degrees last spring than the year before. Today's collegian is simply not eager for a business career.

"What are college grads going into? Public service, especially. They aspire to be government employees. Idealistic youth wants to serve fellowmen and what is such an efficient way of doing this as with the taxpayers' money? But for every youth who aspires to serve the public, many, I have observed, are attracted by the promise of civil service security.

"Our colleges and universities are molding 'organization men' robots for the computer age. But who will decide what the computers are to compute? And who will interpret their computations, translating facts into decisions? Who will carry the risk of failure and enjoy the fruits of success? The future of this country and of the world, calls for bold entrepreneurs — many of them.

"Certainly there is a crying demand for a college which will take an uncompromising stand for entrepreneurship — for freedom and enterprise and ownership.

"All economic activity can be divided in two classes: that which is done on a contractual basis, with a specific reward agreed upon and promised in advance; and that which is done with the hope of profit — a reward that is wholly speculative. Owners of the first type take no primary, only secondary, risks. The owner of the second type — the entrepreneur — fights at the front line, in the very teeth of the enemy. Being willing to take the most exposed position, he becomes the commander of the action, the one who plans the basic strategy. Since he must bear the brunt of the consequences of the decisions, he makes those decisions.

"We must remember that young men and women are products of their homes and schools and for these we elders are largely responsible. Are we opening the doors to them? Are we revealing all, or just a narrow vista of the possible future.

"Some youngsters have their walk of life projected before they enter college, but most do not. Usually they make their affirmative choice while in college or soon after but as a result of the college experience. And so I say that we desperately need colleges that will tell their students what it means to be an entrepreneur, colleges that will illuminate the life of the employer—the boss—as well as of the employee, colleges that will picture the running of a business as just as exciting as the running of a race and just as social as the trying of a case.

"Give me a college which is unashamedly devoted to freedom, deliberately designed to create an environment in which young people can find aims and goals which are limitless."

Two Coats Taken From Local Cafe

Two coats valued at $45 were taken from George's Pizza, 121 E. Colorado Ave., between 7:25 p.m. and 7:45 p.m. Saturday, police reported.

An employe of George's Pizza told police the two coats, both belonging to Airmen stationed at Ent Air Force Base, had been taken from the coat rack just inside the front door of the lunch room.

Police picked up four underage males in regard to the theft after obtaining a description of them from the employe, but after questioning they were released because of lack of evidence, according to the report. The employe said the four had been standing near the coat rack in the Pizza house just before the two coats were discovered missing.

other nations to pull out of the United Nations. An occasion for him to put forth this proposal would be the second African-Asian conference in Algiers in March.

There was no word from the presidential palace in response to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's appeal to Sukarno to reconsider his withdrawal decision. Foreign Office officials were not available for comment since today is a Moslem holiday.

Indonesian diplomats at U.N. headquarters in New York, were believed preparing a formal withdrawal statement to follow up their oral declaration on Friday.

Philippine newspapers noted with concern that both Communist China and Indonesia, the Philippines' two largest neighbors, were now out of the United Nations and beyond its moderating influences. The general expectation in Manila was trouble ahead.

In Cairo, the government-controlled newspaper Al Masaa said it disapproved of Indonesia's withdrawal from the United Nations and called on Sukarno to reconsider. The paper said the move would be "tantamount to fleeing from the international battlefield where Afro-Asian nations are scoring a series of victories against imperialism."

Auto Industry In State Is In Good Health

The coming year promises to be another fine record for the U.S. auto industry.

The 1962 model year saw 6.7 million passenger cars built, a figure that was exceeded by 10 per cent one year later when 7.3 million 1963 models rolled off U.S. assembly lines. Production of 1964 model passenger cars surpassed that of a year ago with a total of 7.9 million units, an all-time record.

Truck production likewise has been setting records. More than 1,460,000 units were produced in the 1963 calendar year and this year the outlook is for a total of 1,500,000, a new record.

Many signs point toward a continuation of a high level of demand for cars and trucks in 1965.

The general economic prosperity of the nation will continue to have a favorable effect on sales. Other factors include normal population increase, the expansion of the suburbs, the upward trend in multi - car families and the increase in car ownership among families without automobiles.

A most important factor is the rising replacement demand, currently calculated for passenger cars at more than five million units annually styling features of the 1965 models themselves which are certain to influence and stimulate new car and truck buyers.

For all these reasons it is our sincere belief that the automobile business is in a state of excellent economic health and should enjoy another good year in 1965.

A record 95 million persons tucked driver's licenses into their wallets and purses during 1964, the Bureau of Public Roads says.

By the year 1980 as many as 139 million will be doing the same thing, predicts the Bureau.

One of the most inexpensive and readily obtainable documents by persons of all economic levels, the driver's license has become almost a social requirement of the modern American scene.

The 50 states can't agree on whom should get them, how much they should cost or when they should be taken away. But despite a crazy - quilt pattern of individual issuance and regulation, motor vehicle administrators use the licenses to keep tabs on an army of drivers that makes up better than half our population.

Costs vary from South Carolina's low of 50 cents for four years to the nation's most expensive license, $8 for two years in Rhode Island.

All states require driving and vision tests for applicants who have not previously been licensed to drive, but many waive the driving exam for persons holding valid licenses issued by other states. Some even issue licenses to those who can't read.

Thirty states have adopted a point system for weeding out consistent traffic violators. But the only items included on licenses in all states are name, address, signature and birth date.

On other matters there is less agreement. For instance, the licenses of Connecticut, Massachustts and Pennsylvania do not show height. Race is an item shown on those of only 29 states. And hair color has been dropped by seven states — probably because of the rise in artificial coloring.

Of the 95 million persons holding licenses in 1964, only about 40 per cent were females, the Bureau's statistics show. Males substantially outnumbered them in all states and all age groups.

Helping to bear out the Bureau's forecast of 139 million license holders by 1980 are indications that more and more persons are acquiring them each year.

In 1950, the Bureau says, there were 593 driver's licenses per 1,000 people in the 15-74 age group. By 1960 the number had increased to 741 and in 1963 to 764.

Two Car Prowls Noted Over the Weekend

Two thefts from cars were reported to the sheriff's office over the weekend.

Harold Hansen, 112 Bonfoy Ave., told Deputy Sheriff Eldon McCune that someone had stolen a .22 calibre pistol and a .32 revolver from the trunk of his car while it was parked at 1802 E. Pikes Peak Ave.

The second incident happened at the Fountain Valley Bowl where Ronald Meredith, 62 Garret Dr. had a tachometer worth $48 taken from his car.

Rescue Work Continues In Flood-Stricken Areas

said, because of silt, vermin and dampness. About 7,000 families are affected.

The Red Cross said it will be a month before these families can move back into their homes. More than 1,000 families have no homes to go back to.

The Air Force Reserve reported its Flying Boxcars and Globemasters have airlifted one million pounds of supplies since Dec. 23 into northern California's Humboldt County, described by the federal Office of Emergency Planning as the West's hardest-hit flood area.

Food and supply airlifts may continue three more weeks, the Air Force said, since smashed roads and bridges are stalling ground traffic.

About 30 Army, Marine and Air Force helicopters are also dropping relief supplies.

The Red Cross said the receded flood waters had deposited a six-inch mantle of mushy silt on many Eel River Valley homes. Orick, Calif., 50 miles north of Eureka on the Pacific Coast, reported most of its homes were mired in five feet of silt.

Red Cross recovery centers distributed food and clothing on a "no-questions asked" basis at the northern California communities of Orleans, Hoopa, Orick, Eureka, Ferndale, Fortuna, Scotia-Rio Dell, Weott, Garberville, Red Crest, Crescent City, Guerneville, Yreka and Happy Camp.

The Red Cross said its relief work was just beginning and predicted up to six months of assistance.

and private individuals over the past few years. It's Ft. de Russy in Waikiki.

Rumbles were revived about the state or private industry taking over this area, and grumbles from officers and enlisted men began from Schofield Barracks to Pearl Harbor.

Popular opinion is that sunny Hawaii is a desired station for members of the armed services. This may be true for upper echelon officers whose pay is reasonable, whose housing is generally good and whose on-base recreation facilities are excellent.

But for the young soldier, some insist, only Korea is worse — and it is designated as a hardship post. Many young officers say they'd take Seoul or Saigon to Schofield.

When the military got a pay boost last year, servicemen here lost their overseas allowance. That just about took care of the pay raise for Hawaii-based GIs.

Civilian landlords boosted rents for many servicemen living off-base because of the publicized pay increase. That made the average enlisted man worse off then before.

One of the main complaints, however, is not being able to budget their pay to Hawaii's high prices.

The single men see Ft. de Russy, particularly, as an off-base area with maximum facilities and entertainment they can afford. Married servicemen consider Kilauea an excellent vacation spot, operating at low weekly rates, to which they can take their families.

Ft. de Russy, bounded by multimillion-dollar hotels, boasts one of Waikiki's best swimming areas.

The 72-acre beachfront area is worth $72 million.

There, servicemen can buy a hamburger for a quarter, get a bed for 50 cents a night, and sunbathe a stone's throw from one of the most popular tourist spots in the world.

Dog Credited For Saving Lives of Couple

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C. (UPI)—The body heat from a pet dog was credited today with saving the lives of a couple whose automobile was marooned three and a half days in deep snow on a Vancouver island logging road.

"We would have frozen to death if it hadn't been for the warmth from our dog Sam's body," said logger Tom Hall, 43, after he and his wife, Muriel were rescued. "My wife and I cuddled under a blanket with our bodies up against Sam."

The couple left here New Year's Eve for an 80-mile drive to a logging camp at Vernon Lake. After traveling about 15 miles, their car broke down. There were only six inches of snow on the ground at the time, but by morning the car was marooned in six feet of drifted snow.

The Halls were rescued Sunday by a snowmobile and a Royal Canadian Air Force helicopter which were searching the snow-clogged road. They were examined at a hospital and pronounced in "excellent" condition.

New Year Promises Rise In Consumer Level

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The new year promises more jobs and more money to spend for goods and services that will be priced only moderately higher.

Here's the 1965 outlook for your job, pay, and taxes, and for the cost of food, clothing, shelter, cars, appliances and service jobs will increase in number but school dropouts will keep jobless ranks large.

Prosperity assures more jobs and a growing population will demand more goods and services. Retraining programs will help some of the unemployment lists, just as automation will displace still others now employed. The labor force will be growing faster next year and school dropouts will be even more of a problem. Changes in defense programs and spending will add jobs in some communities and lop them off in others.

PERSONAL INCOMES — Will go on rising, even if toe pace slackens.

Higher wage scales obtained this year and in prospect for next will assure more spendable cash for many Americans. Higher interest rates will add to incomes of savers. Pensions and similar transfer payments have risen from $33.6 billion in 1961 to $38 billion in 1964. Stockowners are collecting $5 billion more in dividends than four years ago, but rental income stays fairly stable. The total of personal income, which was $417 billion in 1961 should rise above $500 billion in 1965.

LIVING COSTS — Will be under greater pressure to rise faster.

Since 1960 the costs of goods and services has grown at an average rate of 1.2 per cent a year, and the government's index stands near 109 per cent of the 1957-59 average as 1965 starts. A further rise is taken for granted, but the pace may quicken because production costs are going up, and as excess industrial capacity shrinks, the better the chance of making price increases stick. With much of the costs now built into the economy, the trick is to keep personal incomes rising even faster.

FOOD — Abundant supplies should hold prices to seasonal pattern of changes.

But Americans will spend about $2 billion more in 1965 than in the previous year. The food industry is counting on servicing more customers and many of them with more to spend for higher quality. Farm prices have dropped but distribution costs keep retail prices high and the total bill may be around $84 billion. The unpredictable weather can affect prices of specific crops.

CLOTHING — Prices tending higher.

There is more pressure for moderate price increases in 1965 than in the recent past. Workers from the textile mills to the garment centers have been getting wage increases. Consumer demand is firmer and price boosts meet less resistance.

HOUSES — Another building boom could start before 1965 ends.

But the slower pace that developed in 1964 seems likely to hold through most of the new year with a stronger demand still in the future. About $26 billion is expected to be spent for new housing in 1965, the same as in 1964. Plenty of mortgage money should be available with rates about the same as in 1964. Building costs also should hold fairly steady.

APPLIANCES — Improvements may tempt more replacement buyers.

The industry reports sales in 1964 were up 7 per cent over the previous year and looks for at least another 5 per cent gain in 1965. New families coming into the market will be a big help. So will fatter personal incomes.

AUTOS — How long the price line will be held is the big question.

Labor costs have just gone up sharply, but the industry currently is absorbing the rise because its production efficiency has increased more than the average for all industries. If sales continue to boom, profits can be maintained. If sales falter, the rising costs could bite hard. Automakers are counting on selling at least eight million cars in 1965. The sales record should also guarantee as high or higher profits. But if costs of materials, such as steels, go up, so may car prices later in the year.

SERVICES — The rise in costs will slow but you'll be using more.

And so the percentage of consumer spending going for services will continue to rise, though not as fast as in recent years. Tax cuts may lower some utility rates, but the companies are promoting more ways to use more of their fuels or power.

RECREATION — You'll spend more of your income for this, especially travel.

Spectators sports are drawing better crowds, but participant sports are growing still faster. And the sale of equipment, whether skis or motorboats, is increasing. More people are getting longer vacations and taking more expensive trips.

TAXES — What Uncle Sam giveth, state and local collectors taketh away.

Federal income tax rates will drop another notch in 1965. Congress seems likely to cut the total that citizens pay in various sales and excise taxes, and if Treasury collections stay healthy, Congress might even cut income taxes some more. But expenses of state and local governments are rising fast and many are searching for more revenue. The taxpayer rarely wins.

ADD IT UP — The first half of 1965 looks like a shinier version of 1964.

Ross said the pickets would demand the recall of U.S. Ambassador William M. Blair Jr., who has been bitterly criticized for telling newsmen about the attempted school bombing.

The latest killing in Pampanga occurred on New Year's Day when three Huks who had surrendered to the government were ambushed and shot while riding in a jeep near Arayat. Mayor Eduardo Tiangco of Arayat had been shot and killed a week earlier.

Gen. Alfredo Santoy, armed forces chief of staff, ordered the troops into Pampanga. He said military intelligence reports indicate the Huks are trying "to disturb peace and order" during the campaign for the November national election.

Leo Harding, of 2828 N. Cascade Ave., this morning became ill of undetermined cause, while driving his car in the 1800 block East Van Buren St. He stopped the car and rang the doorbell at 1810 E. Van Buren, and then collapsed on the porch. The Fire Department was called at 9:07 a.m. and a resuscitator squad was sent in Car 100, Battalion Chief C. V. Emry in charge. Oxygen was administered for seven minutes, after which the patient was taken to St. Francis Hospital.

At 5:06 p.m. Sunday, Companies 1, 2, 3 and 4 and the aerial made runs to the Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind. Escaping steam in Palmer Hall generated heat which set off an automatic fire alarm. There was no fire. Battalion Chief L. L. Fooshee was in charge.

Company 2 and Battalion Chief Fooshee at 2:31 p.m. Sunday went to 611 N. Royer St., on a false box alarm.

Starling, Sparrow Lead in Local Count of Birds

eral hundred miles south for the winter.

The count was made in a 15-mile diameter circle centered at Highway 85-87 and Harrison Road.

The total was 7,174 birds with 70 species represented. This compares to 8,500 birds of 75 species in the 1963 count. The most numerous species in 1963 was the House Finch when 876 were observed.

Approximately 700 groups throughout the country took part in this activity during the latter half of December. Results are recorded by the National Audubon Society which uses them in its conservation activities.

Mahlon Speers, a member of the local society, says that "the fact that the starling was high bird in 1964 does not necessarily mean that they are our most numerous bird. Many of our native birds are more secretive and less easily seen. Probably the Oregon Junco (snowbird) out numbers the starling in this area."

In case one wonders why conservationists are apprehensive over the spreading of starlings, Speers pointed to this example: it was reported recently that an Eastern firm had been given a $50,000 government contract to rid the starlings from the parade route of the coming Presidential Inauguration.

Members here were Mrs. T. L. Adams, Mrs. Robin Bassein, Mrs. Gilbert Catlett, Mrs. Kenneth Ewing, Mrs. L. B. Field, Lt. Col. and Mrs. D. W. Galvin, Gary Gambfil,

Miss Mary Alice Hamilton, Mrs. Gayle Ireland, David Jensen, Miss Berhardina Johnson, Blaine Marshman, Mrs. Noble Miller, David Laliberte, Paul Nesbit, Mrs. William Noble, Mrs. Ruth Pickering,

Speers noted that the number of participants was down from 42 last year to 31 which could account, in part, he said for the fewer number of birds seen during the 1964 count.

State of Union Message to Be Televised

he calls his "Great Society" program.

The chief executive will touch on major legislative proposals to be submitted in the weeks ahead. But he was not expected to go into detail on these, leaving that for special messages to be sent to Congress later.

If he follows last year's pattern, he also will disclose the broad outlines of the new federal budget to be submitted later in the month. For the second straight year he was expected to announce annual federal spending at less than $100 billion.

There was a possibility, too, Johnson would put a dollar figure for the first time on the size of the excise-tax cut he will ask Congress to approve effective July 1. There has been speculation the proposed tax cut might approach $2 billion.

In addition to discussing domestic policies and programs, presidents usually devote part of their State of the Union messages to foreign affairs. There were no advance hints that Johnson planned any surprises in this area.

Johnson returned to Washington Saturday after a 13-day holiday stay at his Texas ranch. Sunday he attended morning services at the National City Christian Church and visited the grave of President John F. Kennedy in Arlington National Cemetery. Mrs. Johnson was with him, as were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Watson of Dallas. Johnson has been trying to enlist Watson, Texas Democratic chairman, as a member of the White House staff.

Holiday Traffic Deaths Surpass All Predictions

nia Highway Patrol, Kent Milton, said he is "sure alcohol will be found to be a tremendous factor" in accounting for the bleak total.

For comparative purposes, The Associated Press counted traffic deaths during a non-holiday three-day weekend last month. The total then was 396.

Last week, 578 deaths were counted during the three-day Christmas period.

California's toll far surpassed the next nearest state — Texas, with 45 fatalities. New York and Illinois followed with 24 each. Only eight states went through the holiday without a traffic death — Alaska, Delaware, Hawaii, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont and Wyoming.

The safety council said 1964 traffic deaths are expected to reach a record 48,000. The council plans to report the 12-month totals later this month.

Driver Injured As Car Hits Tree

One person was injured Sunday in a one-car accident on Mesa Avenue and 3rd Street, the State Patrol reported.

Douglas Heyliger, 16, 429 Pine Ave., sustained lacerations inside his jaw and several lost teeth, according to the report. He was taken to Penrose Hospital.

The patrol said Heyliger was eastbound on Mesa Avenue when he lost control of his car and hit a tree. Damage to his 1962 model car was estimated at $500, according to the report.

Iowa State scored only five touchdowns in its last five games.

lice brutality, and the bombings and burnings of Negro homes and churches.

Hoover said final tabulations for 1964 would show the apprehension of about 13,200 fugitives and recovery of more than 20,500 stolen automobiles in FBI-investigated cases. Both figures are increases of nearly 1,000 over the previous year.

The FBI director said fines, savings and recoveries, resulting from FBI cases totaled more than $203 million, more than paying the way of the bureau. The annual FBI budget is about $150 million.

Cooley Urges Education For Private Enterprise

of her alumni are businessmen, fewer than 20 per cent of her recent graduates have entered business. It's not that business doesn't want them — the placement director of Northwestern University says that companies tried to hire 12 per cent more graduates with bachelor's degrees last spring than the year before. Today's collegian is simply not eager for a business career.

"What are college grads going into? Public service, especially. They aspire to be government employees. Idealistic youth wants to serve fellowmen and what is such an efficient way of doing this as with the taxpayers' money? But for every youth who aspires to serve the public, many, I have observed, are attracted by the promise of civil service security.

"Our colleges and universities are molding 'organization men' robots for the computer age. But who will decide what the computers are to compute? And who will interpret their computations, translating facts into decisions? Who will carry the risk of failure and enjoy the fruits of success? The future of this country and of the world, calls for bold entrepreneurs — many of them.

"Certainly there is a crying demand for a college which will take an uncompromising stand for entrepreneurship — for freedom and enterprise and ownership.

"All economic activity can be divided in two classes: that which is done on a contractual basis, with a specific reward agreed upon and promised in advance; and that which is done with the hope of profit — a reward that is wholly speculative. Owners of the first type take no primary, only secondary, risks. The owner of the second type — the entrepreneur — fights at the front line, in the very teeth of the enemy. Being willing to take the most exposed position, he becomes the commander of the action, the one who plans the basic strategy. Since he must bear the brunt of the consequences of the decisions, he makes those decisions.

"We must remember that young men and women are products of their homes and schools and for these we elders are largely responsible. Are we opening the doors to them? Are we revealing all, or just a narrow vista of the possible future.

"Some youngsters have their walk of life projected before they enter college, but most do not. Usually they make their affirmative choice while in college or soon after but as a result of the college experience. And so I say that we desperately need colleges that will tell their students what it means to be an entrepreneur, colleges that will illuminate the life of the employer—the boss—as well as of the employee, colleges that will picture the running of a business as just as exciting as the running of a race and just as social as the trying of a case.

"Give me a college which is unashamedly devoted to freedom, deliberately designed to create an environment in which young people can find aims and goals which are limitless."

Two Coats Taken From Local Cafe

Two coats valued at $45 were taken from George's Pizza, 121 E. Colorado Ave., between 7:25 p.m. and 7:45 p.m. Saturday, police reported.

An employe of George's Pizza told police the two coats, both belonging to Airmen stationed at Ent Air Force Base, had been taken from the coat rack just inside the front door of the lunch room.

Police picked up four underage males in regard to the theft after obtaining a description of them from the employe, but after questioning they were released because of lack of evidence, according to the report. The employe said the four had been standing near the coat rack in the Pizza house just before the two coats were discovered missing.

other nations to pull out of the United Nations. An occasion for him to put forth this proposal would be the second African-Asian conference in Algiers in March.

There was no word from the presidential palace in response to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's appeal to Sukarno to reconsider his withdrawal decision. Foreign Office officials were not available for comment since today is a Moslem holiday.

Indonesian diplomats at U.N. headquarters in New York, were believed preparing a formal withdrawal statement to follow up their oral declaration on Friday.

Philippine newspapers noted with concern that both Communist China and Indonesia, the Philippines' two largest neighbors, were now out of the United Nations and beyond its moderating influences. The general expectation in Manila was trouble ahead.

In Cairo, the government-controlled newspaper Al Masaa said it disapproved of Indonesia's withdrawal from the United Nations and called on Sukarno to reconsider. The paper said the move would be "tantamount to fleeing from the international battlefield where Afro-Asian nations are scoring a series of victories against imperialism."

Auto Industry In State Is In Good Health

The coming year promises to be another fine record for the U.S. auto industry.

The 1962 model year saw 6.7 million passenger cars built, a figure that was exceeded by 10 per cent one year later when 7.3 million 1963 models rolled off U.S. assembly lines. Production of 1964 model passenger cars surpassed that of a year ago with a total of 7.9 million units, an all-time record.

Truck production likewise has been setting records. More than 1,460,000 units were produced in the 1963 calendar year and this year the outlook is for a total of 1,500,000, a new record.

Many signs point toward a continuation of a high level of demand for cars and trucks in 1965.

The general economic prosperity of the nation will continue to have a favorable effect on sales. Other factors include normal population increase, the expansion of the suburbs, the upward trend in multi - car families and the increase in car ownership among families without automobiles.

A most important factor is the rising replacement demand, currently calculated for passenger cars at more than five million units annually styling features of the 1965 models themselves which are certain to influence and stimulate new car and truck buyers.

For all these reasons it is our sincere belief that the automobile business is in a state of excellent economic health and should enjoy another good year in 1965.

A record 95 million persons tucked driver's licenses into their wallets and purses during 1964, the Bureau of Public Roads says.

By the year 1980 as many as 139 million will be doing the same thing, predicts the Bureau.

One of the most inexpensive and readily obtainable documents by persons of all economic levels, the driver's license has become almost a social requirement of the modern American scene.

The 50 states can't agree on whom should get them, how much they should cost or when they should be taken away. But despite a crazy - quilt pattern of individual issuance and regulation, motor vehicle administrators use the licenses to keep tabs on an army of drivers that makes up better than half our population.

Costs vary from South Carolina's low of 50 cents for four years to the nation's most expensive license, $8 for two years in Rhode Island.

All states require driving and vision tests for applicants who have not previously been licensed to drive, but many waive the driving exam for persons holding valid licenses issued by other states. Some even issue licenses to those who can't read.

Thirty states have adopted a point system for weeding out consistent traffic violators. But the only items included on licenses in all states are name, address, signature and birth date.

On other matters there is less agreement. For instance, the licenses of Connecticut, Massachustts and Pennsylvania do not show height. Race is an item shown on those of only 29 states. And hair color has been dropped by seven states — probably because of the rise in artificial coloring.

Of the 95 million persons holding licenses in 1964, only about 40 per cent were females, the Bureau's statistics show. Males substantially outnumbered them in all states and all age groups.

Helping to bear out the Bureau's forecast of 139 million license holders by 1980 are indications that more and more persons are acquiring them each year.

In 1950, the Bureau says, there were 593 driver's licenses per 1,000 people in the 15-74 age group. By 1960 the number had increased to 741 and in 1963 to 764.

Two Car Prowls Noted Over the Weekend

Two thefts from cars were reported to the sheriff's office over the weekend.

Harold Hansen, 112 Bonfoy Ave., told Deputy Sheriff Eldon McCune that someone had stolen a .22 calibre pistol and a .32 revolver from the trunk of his car while it was parked at 1802 E. Pikes Peak Ave.

The second incident happened at the Fountain Valley Bowl where Ronald Meredith, 62 Goret Dr. had a tachometer worth $48 taken from his car.

Rescue Work Continues In Flood-Stricken Areas

said, because of silt, vermin and dampness. About 7,000 families are affected.

The Red Cross said it will be a month before these families can move back into their homes. More than 1,000 families have no homes to go back to.

The Air Force Reserve reported its Flying Boxcars and Globemasters have airlifted one million pounds of supplies since Dec. 23 into northern California's Humboldt County, described by the federal Office of Emergency Planning as the West's hardest-hit flood area.

Food and supply airlifts may continue three more weeks, the Air Force said, since smashed roads and bridges are stalling ground traffic.

About 30 Army, Marine and Air Force helicopters are also dropping relief supplies.

The Red Cross said the receded flood waters had deposited a six-inch mantle of mushy silt on many Eel River Valley homes. Orick, Calif., 50 miles north of Eureka on the Pacific Coast, reported most of its homes were mired in five feet of silt.

Red Cross recovery centers distributed food and clothing on a "no-questions asked" basis at the northern California communities of Orleans, Hoopa, Orick, Eureka, Ferndale, Fortuna, Scotia-Rio Dell, Weott, Garberville, Red Crest, Crescent City, Guerneville, Yreka and Happy Camp.

The Red Cross said its relief work was just beginning and predicted up to six months of assistance.

and private individuals over the past few years. It's Ft. de Russy in Waikiki.

Rumbles were revived about the state or private industry taking over this area, and grumbles from officers and enlisted men began from Schofield Barracks to Pearl Harbor.

Popular opinion is that sunny Hawaii is a desired station for members of the armed services. This may be true for upper echelon officers whose pay is reasonable, whose housing is generally good and whose on-base recreation facilities are excellent.

But for the young soldier, some insist, only Korea is worse — and it is designated as a hardship post. Many young officers say they'd take Seoul or Saigon to Schofield.

When the military got a pay boost last year, servicemen here lost their overseas allowance. That just about took care of the pay raise for Hawaii-based GIs.

Civilian landlords boosted rents for many servicemen living off-base because of the publicized pay increase. That made the average enlisted man worse off then before.

One of the main complaints, however, is not being able to budget their pay to Hawaii's high prices.

The single men see Ft. de Russy, particularly, as an off-base area with maximum facilities and entertainment they can afford. Married servicemen consider Kilauea an excellent vacation spot, operating at low weekly rates, to which they can take their families.

Ft. de Russy, bounded by multimillion-dollar hotels, boasts one of Waikiki's best swimming areas.

The 72-acre beachfront area is worth $72 million.

Dog Credited For Saving Lives of Couple

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C. (UPI)—The body heat from a pet dog was credited today with saving the lives of a couple whose automobile was marooned three and a half days in deep snow on a Vancouver island logging road.

"We would have frozen to death if it hadn't been for the warmth from our dog Sam's body," said logger Tom Hall, 43, after he and his wife, Muriel were rescued. "My wife and I cuddled under a blanket with our bodies up against Sam."

The couple left here New Year's Eve for an 80-mile drive to a logging camp at Vernon Lake. After traveling about 15 miles, their car broke down. There were only six inches of snow on the ground at the time, but by morning the car was marooned in six feet of drifted snow.

The Halls were rescued Sunday by a snowmobile and a Royal Canadian Air Force helicopter which were searching the snow-clogged road. They were examined at a hospital and pronounced in "excellent" condition.

New Year Promises Rise In Consumer Level

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The new year promises more jobs and more money to spend for goods and services that will be priced only moderately higher.

Here's the 1965 outlook for your job, pay, and taxes, and for the cost of food, clothing, shelter, cars, appliances and service jobs will increase in number but school dropouts will keep jobless ranks large.

Prosperity assures more jobs and a growing population will demand more goods and services. Retraining programs will help some of the unemployment lists, just as automation will displace still others now employed. The labor force will be growing faster next year and school dropouts will be even more of a problem. Changes in defense programs and spending will add jobs in some communities and lop them off in others.

PERSONAL INCOMES — Will go on rising, even if toe pace slackens.

Higher wage scales obtained this year and in prospect for next will assure more spendable cash for many Americans. Higher interest rates will add to incomes of savers. Pensions and similar transfer payments have risen from $33.6 billion in 1961 to $38 billion in 1964. Stockowners are collecting $5 billion more in dividends than four years ago, but rental income stays fairly stable. The total of personal income, which was $417 billion in 1961 should rise above $500 billion in 1965.

LIVING COSTS — Will be under greater pressure to rise faster.

Since 1960 the costs of goods and services has grown at an average rate of 1.2 per cent a year, and the government's index stands near 109 per cent of the 1957-59 average as 1965 starts. A further rise is taken for granted, but the pace may quicken because production costs are going up, and as excess industrial capacity shrinks, the better the chance of making price increases stick. With much of the costs now built into the economy, the trick is to keep personal incomes rising even faster.

FOOD — Abundant supplies should hold prices to seasonal pattern of changes.

But Americans will spend about $2 billion more in 1965 than in the previous year. The food industry is counting on servicing more customers and many of them with more to spend for higher quality. Farm prices have dropped but distribution costs keep retail prices high and the total bill may be around $84 billion. The unpredictable weather can affect prices of specific crops.

CLOTHING — Prices tending higher.

There is more pressure for moderate price increases in 1965 than in the recent past. Workers from the textile mills to the garment centers have been getting wage increases. Consumer demand is firmer and price boosts meet less resistance.

HOUSES — Another building boom could start before 1965 ends.

But the slower pace that developed in 1964 seems likely to hold through most of the new year with a stronger demand still in the future. About $26 billion is expected to be spent for new housing in 1965, the same as in 1964. Plenty of mortgage money should be available with rates about the same as in 1964. Building costs also should hold fairly steady.

APPLIANCES — Improvements may tempt more replacement buyers.

The industry reports sales in 1964 were up 7 per cent over the previous year and looks for at least another 5 per cent gain in 1965. New families coming into the market will be a big help. So will fatter personal incomes.

AUTOS — How long the price line will be held is the big question.

Labor costs have just gone up sharply, but the industry currently is absorbing the rise because its production efficiency has increased more than the average for all industries. If sales continue to boom, profits can be maintained. If sales falter, the rising costs could bite hard. Automakers are counting on selling at least eight million cars in 1965. The sales record should also guarantee as high or higher profits. But if costs of materials, such as steels, go up, so may car prices later in the year.

SERVICES — The rise in costs will slow but you'll be using more.

And so the percentage of consumer spending going for services will continue to rise, though not as fast as in recent years. Tax cuts may lower some utility rates, but the companies are promoting more ways to use more of their fuels or power.

RECREATION — You'll spend more of your income for this, especially travel.

Spectators sports are drawing better crowds, but participant sports are growing still faster. And the sale of equipment, whether skis or motorboats, is increasing. More people are getting longer vacations and taking more expensive trips.

TAXES — What Uncle Sam giveth, state and local collectors taketh away.

Federal income tax rates will drop another notch in 1965. Congress seems likely to cut the total that citizens pay in various sales and excise taxes, and if Treasury collections stay healthy, Congress might even cut income taxes some more. But expenses of state and local governments are rising fast and many are searching for more revenue. The taxpayer rarely wins.

ADD IT UP — The first half of 1965 looks like a shinier version of 1964.

Filipinos Plan New Campaign Against Huks

Ross said the pickets would demand the recall of U.S. Ambassador William M. Blair Jr., who has been bitterly criticized for telling newsmen about the attempted school bombing.

The latest killing in Pampanga occurred on New Year's Day when three Huks who had surrendered to the government were ambushed and shot while riding in a jeep near Arayat. Mayor Eduardo Tiangco of Arayat had been shot and killed a week earlier.

Gen. Alfredo Santoy, armed forces chief of staff, ordered the troops into Pampanga. He said military intelligence reports indicate the Huks are trying "to disturb peace and order" during the campaign for the November national election.

Outlawed Irish Threaten Margaret

DUBLIN (AP) — Police maintained a strong guard around Princess Margaret today after threats against her by the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Two big trees were felled across the route which the princess and her husband, Lord Snowdon, normally would have taken Sunday night from Dublin to Birr Castle, their Irish holiday home.

Five other trees were partly sawed through, and broken power lines blacked out villages in the area. The royal motorcade took another route, ostensibly to avoid iced roads.

The queen's sister and her husband flew to Dublin Sunday to visit the Earl and Countess of Rosse at Birr.

Margaret's two children stayed in London.

Police said young IRA extremists were campaigning against the princess' visit with leaflets urging the people of Birr to "show your hostility." A crowd of about 200 cheered as the royal limousine entered the castle gates.

The IRA, banned in Britain and Ireland, demands renification of the Irish republic with the six counties of Northern Ireland. They are still part of the United Kingdom.

Record Earnings Are Reported BY AT and T

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Saturday reported record quarterly per share earnings, a new high in operating revenues for a 12-month period, and a record number of telephone gains for any quarter in its history.

In its share owners quarterly, AT&T reported consolidated earnings per share of 83 cents for the three months ended Nov. 30, 1964, and of $3.24 for the 12 months ended the same date, compared with 78 cents and $3.02 for comparable 1963 periods. Reporter Tells About Loss Of Entire Viet Battalion

EDITOR'S NOTE: Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett flew to a rubber plantation near battle-torn Binh Gia where Vietnamese Marines were searching today for dead and wounded. Here he tells the story of the death of a battalion.

By PETER ARNETT

BINH GIA, South Viet Nam (AP) — A young U.S. Marine Lieutenant first saw the Viet Cong through his binoculars about 1,000 yards away. There were hordes of them.

Dressed in khaki uniforms, field gear and steel helmets, they slowly moved closer, dodging through the rubber plantation from tree to tree, despite air strikes by the Vietnamese Air Force, and machinegun fire from U.S. helicopters.

"These aren't guerrillas, they are regular troops," the Marine yelled over his radio to his command in a helicopter overhead. "Bring in more air."

That was the last Lt. Col. John B. Wadsworth, senior special zone adviser, heard over that radio. It had been shot from the back of the lieutenant, though he himself was not hit.

"All we knew was that there was a hell of a battle down there," Wadsworth said. "Now we know how bad it was."

His remark was apt. Dead Vietnamese Marines were scattered over the plantation grounds.

Rows of bodies were lying in the sun beside a helicopter pad, with banana leaves thrown loosely over them.

Other Marines trundled bodies on primitive litters. Newsmen stumbled over a wounded ranger hiding in the brush with bullets in his legs. He had been there since a ranger battalion was decimated last Tuesday.

Three U.S. Marine lieutenants were near a field radio. One of them said "we got the bodies of the four Americans."

It was the search for these four, U.S. helicopter crewmen shot down in flames Wednesday night, that led to the 4th Vietnamese Marine Battalion's trek into disaster.

The dead, collected from shallow graves near the wreckage of their helicopter, had been previously listed as missing. They were WO Stephen E. Morgan of San Jose, Calif., WO Roy G. Abill of Hayward, Calif., Sgt. Franklin D. Porter of Columbiana, Ohio, and Pfc. Theodore A. Winowitch of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The price was high. About 250 marines — half the Vietnamese battalion — were casualties of Red ambush. Some U.S. officers said the marines asked for trouble by waiting 14 hours before they headed in to hunt for the wreck.

Wadsworth said "our advisers told them they might be walking into a Viet Cong trap laid with that helicopter wreck and the bodies. We went in with our eyes open."

Not open enough, apparently.

The Viet Cong sprang two traps. The first was against the 2nd Marine Company that initially moved in by itself and located the wreckage. They had partly removed the body of one American when the Viet Cong opened up on them with withering fire.

"It was every man for himself," a U.S. adviser said.

When the disorganized company reassembled later that day, 50 of its 100 men were missing. Eleven wounded had been left behind.

"We have to go in and get those 11 wounded, our own dead and the American dead," the Vietnamese high command told the battalion.

Late Thursday it started moving in.

By early evening the battalion had moved back inside the still, gloomy forest of rubber trees, the 1st Company to the right, the 3rd in the center and the 4th to the left. Survivors of the 2nd Company were guarding a helicopter pad.

The Viet Cong made their presence known with a blast of bugles.

These were the men the Marine lieutenant called regulars. They advanced slowly and deliberately.

"They did it the way it should have been done," a U.S. officer said.

A Marine adviser who was there, but who doesn't wish to be named, said:

"The Viet Cong just kept moving in on us, first from two sides and then from a third. There must have been 350 of us dug in along those rubber trees, lying prone, pouring everything we had into them.

"They were bobbing and weaving but still coming. The Viet Cong had reached to within 50 yards when I took off.

"Heavy mortar fire pinned down the 3rd Company. The battalion commander was shot dead beside me. I was with the 4th Company and we decided to attempt a breakout after fighting like hell with no effect.

"And we made it, slipping out to the west. As we were going, we could see that the 1st and 3rd Companies were hanging on and fighting the Viet Cong hand to hand.

"If you say anything, say they died like heroes."

Delaware New Year Avoids Fatalities

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Delaware, which had an all-time high of 117 traffic deaths for the state in 1964, went through the New Year's holiday period without a highway fatality reported.

State police continued stepped-up traffic enforcement during the 78-hour period which began last Thursday at 6 p.m. and ended at midnight Sunday. State police administrative and headquarters personnel made regular traffic patrols.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D.,Ph.D.

Rev. Howell wisely repeats the sound advice of our famous pioneer psychologist, Dr. William James. Declare a revolt against your nuisance habits, for they are 5th columnists that sabotage your success. Plan your work; then work you plan!

CASE U-471: Rev. Arthur Howell is a retired clergyman in Michigan.

"Dr. Crane," he said on his last visit to our home, "I wish you would encourage people to have convictions.

"Nowadays, the attitude seems to be one of passive resignation.

"But when I was a teen-ager, we were taught they we could carve out our own future, even in spite of poverty or a hostile environment.

"So we were urged to make resolutions and then try to fulfill them.

"Wasn't that sound psychology, Dr. Crane?"

Our famous pioneer American psychologist, Dr. William James, urged us to make efficient plans for our own future.

"The ideas is father to the deed," was his theory, which is quite sound.

For we cannot expect to accomplish much via our action unless we have previously formulated a constructive plan.

Far too many modern Americans seem to have thrown in the sponge for they act as if they are rudderless ships in the onward stream of civilization.

But that is not true! God Almighty gave us a brain for a rudder so we could plan our work and then work our plan!

You may be a tobacco addict today, but you can declare a revolution in just one second of time and declare yourself a free man!

Obese folks, too, are all able to slenderize if they exert enough willpower and follow a diet.

The rub comes in working yourself up to the original 100 per cent intention!

For most of us "hold back" some unexpressed item that frustrates our focussing 100 per cent on our objective.

"Oh, I'm going on a diet," we may say, "but not today. Maybe tomorrow or the first of the month."

It is this tendency to qualify and attach what Congressmen call "riders" that dissipate our 100 per cent resolution and water it down till we fail.

James Russell Lowell, however, advocates the proper psychological attitude when he warns us:

"Not failure but low aim is crime!"

Everybody should at least aim high and make New Year's Resolutions that are unimpeachable.

Declare a revolt from your major bad habits, for they are simply treacherous 5th columnists waiting to stab you in the back.

Resolve to quit tobacco, for then you will live longer, save money and not lose your kissability via stale tobacco halitosis.

Cut out liquor, for it hamstrings your effectiveness in business, at the steering wheel, and even medically.

Streamline your figure. Regain the classy chassis of your youth and then you'll begin to feel young again!

For you can't feel like a sports roadster with the chassis of a truck!

And follow a written agenda or work plan for the day or week, since then you will accomplish far more with less debate and indecision.

Read more thoroughly in this newspaper and cultural magazines. And ration your time with the "boob tube," as publisher Tom Anderson refers to TV.

Outlawed Irish Threaten Margaret

DUBLIN (AP) — Police maintained a strong guard around Princess Margaret today after threats against her by the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Two big trees were felled across the route which the princess and her husband, Lord Snowdon, normally would have taken Sunday night from Dublin to Birr Castle, their Irish holiday home.

Five other trees were partly sawed through, and broken power lines blacked out villages in the area. The royal motorcade took another route, ostensibly to avoid iced roads.

The queen's sister and her husband flew to Dublin Sunday to visit the Earl and Countess of Rosse at Birr.

Margaret's two children stayed in London.

Police said young IRA extremists were campaigning against the princes' visit with leaflets urging the people of Birr to "show your hostility." A crowd of about 200 cheered as the royal limousine entered the castle gates.

The IRA, banned in Britain and Ireland, demands renification of the Irish republic with the six counties of Northern Ireland. They are still part of the United Kingdom.

GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

'The Naked Society'

We have gladly listed ourselves as being less than enthusiastic about Vance Packard and some of his anti-capitalistic writings. In many of his early works, Mr. Packard lambasted the free market system and indicated that businessmen generally had low tastes, lower morals, and would do just about anything for a buck. This view, made popular a century ago by Karl Marx and other socialists, has just enough men of this caliber in business to make the attack credible. It certainly is true that a man in business is neither better nor worse than the rest of us.

However, it is also true that men in business, as a rule, have an enormous amount of integrity. They may not want to have it but it is the only commodity on which they can build a lasting enterprise. The market place, where we all exchange goods and services, deals rather harshly with those who forget this fact.

But Vance Packard has come up with a new book that is going to have to cause us to revise our view of him. His "The Naked Society" is prime reading and important. Mr. Packard this time, although he still reveals traces of his anti-capitalistic prejudice, spends plenty of time on the government and shows what the big bureaucrats are doing as they invade our secret lives.

Somerset Maugham was once asked: "How many of us could face having our reveries automatically registered and set before us?" His answer was: "We should be overcome with shame. We should cry that we could not really be as mean, as wicked, as petty, as selfish, as obscene, as snobbish, as vain, as sentimental as that."

Well, as things are going, and as Mr. Packard sets out the record, the reveries we have may be about the only privacy we are going to retain in the world of the future.

Big brother is prying constantly. And it is making use of the information it obtains in various and devious ways.

For example: the government "leaked" private information about a witness in the Bobby Baker case in order to discredit that witness.

The government secretly examines and catalogues our mail before it is delivered to us.

A particular state legislature has already passed a law giving any policeman the power to stop and search anybody he wishes to, any time he chooses.

Information we give to the IRS or to the census taker, or other government agencies, may come back to haunt us if we are ever found at odds with any governmental policy in court.

Government can find out what your bank balance is. It can search your safety deposit box. It can get a police record by asking for it. Government can obtain an unlisted telephone number.

There are new devices available that make it possible to record a quiet conversation as much as a block away.

Your telephone conversations can be tapped and your conversations in a hotel room can be monitored.

We are being laid bare, naked, to any and every governmental demand.

And it is true, some businessmen will, for the expenditure of a few dollars, seek to obtain the same kind of information about a business rival or competitor.

This is the kind of thing George Orwell was talking about when he wrote, with frightening pre-vision, "1984." All we need now is two-way television, wherein the government can peer at you as you watch your favorite program and possibly interrupt in an effort to convince you to be patriotic and to think thoughts which are in harmony with big brother's policies, and we'll have arrived.

The dignity of a human being can only be preserved if he is able to maintain some privacy. Totalitarian states and police states pride themselves on their ability to gather all kinds of data about everyone which can be used at the government's discretion.

Clearly, Mr. Packard sounds a warning call that we are moving in this direction.

Meditation for Extremists

We are extremely happy for the fact that we live in this country.

We are extremely glad we live in Colorado and in Colorado Springs.

We are extremely glad that we live in a city, state and nation where private enterprise still exists.

We are extremely confident that when more people understand the MERIT of private enterprise they, too, will be grateful that it is the system of private ownership of property that makes for our wonderful prosperity.

We are extremely aware of the fact that if conditions are not as we would like them to be, we can express our disappointment and, at the same time, reason as best we can so that changes can occur which will improve conditions.

We are extremely concerned with the fact that so many of our people seem to favor socialism.

We are extremely conscious of the fact that many people who favor socialism do so because they fancy that politics can set all things right.

We are extremely disillusioned about political cures.

We have noticed that when extreme politicians are encouraged, our woes increase one way or another.

We are extremely grateful that our founders, who gave us the Declaration of Independence, spelled out the fact that men have rights but that governments have nothing more than a confided power.

We are extremely willing to pay our own bills and provide our own security.

We are extremely anxious to mind our own business and to let other people mind theirs.

We are extremely aware that labor unions carry on a constant campaign seeking to vilify all things that are good and to disparage the idea that men can bargain individually on all matters affecting their wages and welfare.

We are extremely fearful of war as a method to solve problems.

We are extremely conscious that prior wars fought by this nation to set the world aright have merely served to destroy millions of lives and to worsen our chances to set things aright.

We are extremely baffled by people who complain about government forcing them to do things they don't wish to do, but who seek to obtain governmental power so they can force others to do what they don't want to do.

We are extremely heartened by the fact that more and more people assure us that all they want in this world is a chance to make their own way and to assume full responsibility for themselves.

We consider it extremely unlikely that political solutions are going to turn out to be real solutions.

We are extremely delighted that we have so many fine and wonderful friends.

We are extremely grateful that our enemies seem to oppose us because we believe in truth and in fair dealing.

We are extremely pleased with the American people who seem to be awaking to the danger of political control in SPITE of propaganda to the contrary.

We are extremely encouraged by the many good books and good articles now appearing.

We are extremely aware that there is nothing more extreme than socialism.

Presumably this makes us an extremist. If it is extreme to seek truth, then we are extreme. Any truth is an absence of falsehood. Therefore, any truth is extreme.

All science is extreme. All wisdom is extreme. All true knowledge is extreme. Joy is an extreme emotion. So is sadness.

But if one is extreme, it is because he avoids the compromise which is an attempt to merge opposite things into a single harmonious polity.

Although it is popular to imagine that only one political side is extreme, we must contend that both are. It is no more extreme to favor private ownership of property than to favor the abolition of private property.

It is no more extreme to believe in the goodness of man than to believe in the evil of men.

The nation is not divided between those who are extreme and those who are not. The nation is divided between two groups of extremists. Do you favor an extreme change in direction, or do you favor a carrying forward of socialist practices to the extreme which lies ahead?

ARTHRITIS

To the Editor:

Back in March of this year I wrote a letter to you regarding the National Foundation — March of Dimes campaign and the application of its funds in the State of Colorado in the fight against arthritis.

Now a wonderful thing has happened! Plans are underway, have been since the end of August, to make The Arthritis Foundation the one voluntary agency in the country to help the millions of Americans afflicted with this crippling disease and to support the search for a lasting cure, for it has been stated that most people will either develop some form of arthritis during their lifetime or know someone who does!

I understand that The National Foundation - March of Dimes has now withdrawn from the arthritis field. My investigation also reveals that the general structure of The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation will remain the same but that the name has been shortened to "The Arthritis Foundation." Negotiations are underway, I am told, toward an agreement whereby the American Rheumatism Association (an organization of physicians especially interested in arthritis) would join, and become the medical arm of The Arthritis Foundation.

According to news releases, The Arthritis Foundation, which is made up of 78 chapters throughout the United States, is now headed by Dr. William S. Clark, formerly director of the Medical Department of the National Foundation. The States of Colorado and Wyoming are served by the Rocky Mountain Chapter (one of the 78) from headquarters in Denver.

As I understand it, The National Foundation - March of Dimes, will continue as we know it, but concentrating now on research in birth defects and supporting a clinic for birth defects at Colorado General Hospital in Denver.

With the finest governmental research setup in the world, the National Institutes of Health (Public Health Service) located in Bethesda, Maryland, in which there is a department entitled, "The National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases," created by Congress only a short 14 years ago, intensive studies are being made of arthritis, clinically and in research.

We take pride in our strength and power. Here are two organizations — showing strength and power in their unity — in knowledge, wherewithal, and dedication — one cooperating with the other in determination to bring to heel the disease now affecting 12 million people.

If we expect our scientists to give their wholehearted intellectual wealth to find the answer, we too can give our wholehearted support and zeal through our contribution of time and dollars.

CIVIL RIGHTS LAW

To the Editor:

A few days ago I sent in a letter telling why the Civil Rights law was necessary and right. You of course answered me in an editorial telling why you thought it was unnecessary and wrong.

Since then in these days I have had an opportunity to listen, to read, and then afterwards draw my own conclusions about this matter. I have come to this conclusion: The Civil Rights law is unnecessary, wrong, nor will it help anyone out.

The government introduced the law as a major step toward freedom. Well, first of all, how can a law be connected so with freedom? Laws are meant to supervise, to control, to enforce, to order; how can you supervise, control, enforce, order with aggression and say you are helping freedom along? Well, I agree, you are helping freedom along: to its grave — a temporary grave, though. Freedom is never dead but it does have that untimely habit of getting lost by us, and then in the course of human events the very timely habit of getting found by us again.

I now say that the law has no purpose but to bind both races. How can a law, only a statement written by a few men, voted right by a few men, signed by one man, but forced on the millions through aggression succeed? It can only compel, not free. And if a certain measure is not born in freedom, is not operated in freedom, how can it bring about freedom? I say it cannot; in fact, I know it cannot.

I am still for equality but the kind of equality that is brought about through freedom, not law. The equality that is brought about through the education of both races. The equality that is brought about through understanding the problem, through free-thinking, through putting yourself in the other guy's place. This is, indeed, the only way you can do it, and do it right you can do it, and do it right—each of us working as individuals for individuals.

Let each of us do it now, let's get the government out of this affair. I know you might think: It's too late now. But as the editor reminded us in his answering editorial, to look at the outcome of the prohibition amendment and to see that it is never too late. I say also that it is never too late, for freedom; for correcting a mistake.

CORRECTION

To the Editor:

Correction, please!

I find that I made a mistake in my letter to Open Parliament published December 30. Let me correct it at once. Lincoln's proclamation concerning homesteads decreed even-numbered, not odd-numbered sections to the homesteaders. In each township 18 odd-numbered sections were railroad land. Nos. 16 and 36 were school land. The remaining 16 sections were for homesteaders.

THE VOTER

To the Editor:

Mr. Howard Selden, on December 22, protested the unprepared, unthinking voter; advocated making voting a privilege to be earned by preparation, and suggested examinations to determine the readiness of a prospective voter to receive his franchise.

The principle of preparedness to vote is surely desirable, but who is to prepare, administer and grade these examinations? What will he ask the examinee? How shall we insure that the examination does what we intend, as outlined by Mr. Selden?

I fear that in practice the task would fall to government officials, high or low; as a group officials are not noted for attention to much beyond their own positions: perhaps the examination for the franchise would almost immediately become an examination of the candidate's agreement with the examining power — not his qualification to vote as an informed and intelligent citizen. I doubt Mr. Selden had this in mind, for it would play right into the hands of socialists, communists or worse, and guarantee them absolute, irrevocable power and infinite tenure.

A political scientist once told a class at CC that the founding fathers had no more faith in the populace than has Mr. Selden, therefore they established not a democracy ruled by all the people, but a republic ruled by representatives of the people. They chose themselves as these representatives, and reserved to themselves the right to do as they thought the people would approve — after the fuss was over. As it happened, their despotism proved benevolent, but had they been as many present public figures, think how dreadfully that first experiment in The American Way would have failed! These gentlemen took a hideous risk with the success of the very thing they fought for, and won — perhaps because the art of official skullduggery had not yet acquired the polish it has since gained from certain scheming gentry, both Russian and pseudo-American. Would men as honest as the founding fathers attain office today, or would the leadership go to the most artful trickster, and with it the prerogative of examination for the vote?

For that matter, to which one has it gone in modern times? No, I question the desirability of examination for the franchise; perhaps we better stick with our representative form—next to the worst in the world — for everything else seems a little worse. And just perhaps we who care can ram in a few honest representatives and thereby keep up a shadow of what those early benevolent despots intended . . . and built.

The Local Scene

It Does Get Monotonous

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Just across the great divide,
And halfway down the other side,
The snow's as deep as it is wide,
And it is snowing still, beside.

For five days now the falling snow
Has had no other where to go
Except pile up on that below
And it is getting deep, you know.

Forty-eight inches on the hill
And it is snowing with a will,
The blowing wind is seldom still,
Of such weather we've had our fill.

We're dreaming now of days gone by
When roads were clear, the weather dry.
To rain or snow it didn't try—
Those days we now recall and sigh.

We don't mind snow, we don't mind rain,
When they don't happen, we complain.
But they can get to be a pain
If they do not shut off again.

This is Monday, December 28. When we got up this morning in Silverthorne, it was still snowing and I wrote the above poem before breakfast. But after breakfast, the storm broke and the sun shone briefly. I dug the car out of two feet of snow (I had already dug it out of two feet a couple of days before), loaded it with our Christmas loot, which was considerable, and we started up over Fremont pass for home.

We left four feet of snow on the level in Silverthorne — and you should see Climax and Leadville. But the pass was open, though terribly slick. We made it without mishap and arrived home in five hours, including an hour for lunch in Buena Vista. Storm clouds were still in evidence at Climax and Leadville and I told my wife it was a good thing we started home, as it looked as though it would snow again.

Arriving home about 3:30 p.m., my wife called our daughter-in-law to let her know we made it safely and, sure enough, she said it had started snowing again, furiously, about one p.m. and had already laid down several inches of new snow. This makes the sixth day.

I went up to the solar observatory with Chet on Sunday as it looked as if it might clear up. But no such luck. All we did was fight the snow with pick-ups, jeeps and a rotary plow — three solar observers and myself. I'll admit, though, that I stayed indoors more than out and read scientific treatises on solar observing and on astronomy in general. And when I grew tired of the heavy stuff, I topped off the day with the poetry of John Donne, which some scientist had thoughtfully provided in paper-back. Good reading, too.

I saw all the latest equipment for solar observing, but no sol to observe. I am going back when the weather is more salubrious and get a story and some pictures.

One thing I did learn, which is worth passing on, is that the famed sun spots occur in 22-year cycles — 11 years of increasing intensity, and then 11 years of gradual decline —and thusly, over and over throughout eternity, or at least long enough so that the observers can say when the next cycle will begin and end. A new cycle of increasing intensity is now beginning and with some marvelous new equipment installed, the observers are all enthused about what may be learned in the next few years. If the sun ever shines again up there, that is.

The observatory is located on Climax mining company ground about a mile and a half off Highway 24, off in the woods in a beautiful, sylvan spot with a small natural lake nearby. The boys had the snow all cleaned off the lake for skating last week. But they'll have to do it over now.

It, the observatory, is financed by various foundations and individuals. I copied down the 36 names listed on a copper plaque just inside the building housing the big "coronagraph" as those who had made the observatory possible. I may use them some day in an article on the place.

I asked these learned scientists if they had found any connection between the sun's "spot cycles" and our own weather cycles, which also occur in 11-year cycles, or 22 years, if you count from one low point to the next, as they do.

"We have no definite proof," they said, "but we do have our suspicions, and we are working on that subject at the present time."

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 633: "Do American Indians have the right to vote in national and state elections? If not, where are their civil rights?"

Answer: Native-born Indians are citizens of the United States, under Section 301a (2), Title III of the Immigration and Nationality Act of the United States Code. Therefore, they have the privilege of voting.

Voting is a privilege granted by government, not a right which comes from God or nature despite the claims of some persons who contend that a right can be granted by government. We contend that rights are natural and unalienable, and are never granted by government. If government can grant a privilege, it can take it away. Therefore a government can never grant a right.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

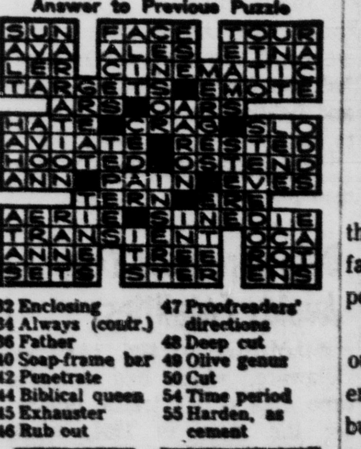
Answer to Previous Puzzle



A Tax on Farm Buildings

By AMBROSE HILLS

It would be a sad mistake for the Manitoba government to tax farm buildings as now being proposed.

Farmers, to begin with, miss out on the $500 paid by the federal government to those who build in the winter. Contractors, asked to build in farm country in winter, suddenly are too busy. It is no fun for contractors and workmen to get snowed in.

Second, the farmer gets no services, very little police protection, no water, no fire hydrant. Why should his buildings be taxed?

Third, the expense of assessing and collecting a tax on farm buildings is scarcely worth the net income that would be received.

Fourth, the tax would lead farmers to tear down homes and barns and go into town, simply mining grain from the land and abandoning cattle, pigs and poultry, which require them to be present at all times.

Politicians often dream up ways to win farm votes. Why suddenly start to tax his buildings, which have been free of such taxes from time immemorial?

Voters will take careful note of Hansard. Any MLA in government or in opposition who votes to tax farm buildings will be promptly booted out of power — not only by rural voters, for the consumer knows he will have to pay such taxes in the price of pork, poultry, eggs or beef. If governments would leave the farmer alone, he could survive. Fortunes have been wasted trying to help the farmer, when what is most required is that the farmer be left alone, and not saddled with continually rising costs.

City dwellers can group to fight bad assessments. The individual farmer, isolated, is at the assessor's mercy. Assesors are not overloaded with that particular quality!

BERRY'S WORLD

"Crazy budget session, eh?"

Inconsistency

BY GEORGE BOARDMAN

In the midst of all the election hullabaloo, promises, threats of dire events which will befall us if one candidate or the other wins, and assorted yammerings and bleatings, the consistent inconsistency of unthinkingness greeted us from the pages of almost every different type of publication. The people of this country seem to have acquired what is almost a fetish for inconsistency. Let's take a look at a sentence conceived in inconsistency which might begin, "If government is properly limited." The word limited may be defined as: to set bounds or limits; something that bounds, restrains or confines. Confines means to set bounds for. Limit implies setting a point or line in time or space, or a speed or degree beyond which something cannot or is not permitted to go. The word circumscribe stresses a restricting in every direction by clearly marked limits. Now, to govern is to exercise continuous authority; to rule; to control, direct; or restrain. It should be obvious by now that if government is limited, the restraining force must be something in the way of a super or higher government. If government becomes limited, the limiting factor becomes the governing force.

If any number of people agree to employ a certain type of service on a collective or cooperative basis, the agencies they employ voluntarily can not be logically called government by any stretch of the imagination. In other words, the employment of others to perform a service on a mutually voluntary basis is not government limited or otherwise. To talk about limiting government is simply a waste of time unless we are going to completely redefine the meaning of the words we are using.

Let's now apply the term limited to self-government. Immediately, the structure upon which we seek to build a premise has been destroyed. We could just as well say I will restrain myself some of the time and refuse to be restrained or to act in a self-restraining manner when my mood changes. This is a type of semantic juggling which results in such inconsistent statements as: government should be limited to protect the people.

Every coercive act which can be conceived of in the imaginative minds of men can be construed as protective. You might take the life of a man with one quick shot and say you have protected him from a slow death which may have been caused by an automobile accident. You may say that such thinking is completely ridiculous, but take another look at the actions of government which places you in dire jeopardy every day of the week. What kind of protection do you think you buy from government? Total protection or limited protection? And what will be the limiting factors? Do the people you employ now or think you might like to employ in a limited government dedicate their total effort to your protection? And what about you? Do you dedicate your allegiance to those you employ or do they dedicate their allegiance to you?

It is certain that government regardless of how evil it may be will not suddenly disappear from the face of the earth, but to spend time discussing ways and means to limit government is a complete waste of time. The actions of self-respecting people who do their best to avoid doing business with government reduces their participation in and sanction of the system by just that much. Government may employ ten times as many people to make work as it does now even if all of us refuse to do business with government and here we can examine the fact that each of us is responsible only for his or her actions. If we do all we can to avoid doing business with our enslavers, they may find the situation embarrassing and eventually relax the chains that bind us. The only guarantee we have when we refuse to sanction government is that we are not personally involved in being part of the problem.

Because we're the ultimate rulers of our own energy, efforts expended in governing our own lives must be ultimately more profitable than any effort we can expend trying to limit government. To those who say, well, we simply have to have some government, I repeat my frequently repeated question: How much government do you want for yourself or how much government will be required to force you to behave as a responsible, self-respecting human being? If you'll take the time to try to answer these questions, I believe you will discover that you are less concerned with controlling your own energy than you are with trying to control the actions of others.

Probably, thinking about limited government makes it possible for people to avoid careful consideration of their own responsibilities but it certainly accomplishes nothing more than that.

There is only one certain method of avoiding the effect government has upon your life and that is by limiting your participation in everything that has anything to do with government. I hope you will think about it.

Good luck and good health to you in freedom.

'The Naked Society'

We have gladly listed ourselves as being less than enthusiastic about Vance Packard and some of his anti-capitalistic writings. In many of his early works, Mr. Packard lambasted the free market system and indicated that businessmen generally had low tastes, lower morals, and would do just about anything for a buck. This view, made popular a century ago by Karl Marx and other socialists, has just enough men of this caliber in business to make the attack credible. It certainly is true that a man in business is neither better nor worse than the rest of us.

However, it is also true that men in business, as a rule, have an enormous amount of integrity. They may not want to have it but it is the only commodity on which they can build a lasting enterprise. The market place, where we all exchange goods and services, deals rather harshly with those who forget this fact.

But Vance Packard has come up with a new book that is going to have to cause us to revise our view of him. His "The Naked Society" is prime reading and important. Mr. Packard this time, although he still reveals traces of his anti-capitalistic prejudice, spends plenty of time on the government and shows what the big bureaucrats are doing as they invade our secret lives.

Somerset Maugham was once asked: "How many of us could face having our reveries automatically registered and set before us?" His answer was: "We should be overcome with shame. We should cry that we could not really be as mean, as wicked, as petty, as selfish, as obscene, as snobbish, as vain, as sentimental as that."

Well, as things are going, and as Mr. Packard sets out the record, the reveries we have may be about the only privacy we are going to retain in the world of the future.

Big brother is prying constantly. And it is making use of the information it obtains in various and devious ways.

For example: the government "leaked" private information about a witness in the Bobby Baker case in order to discredit that witness.

The government secretly examines and catalogues our mail before it is delivered to us.

A particular state legislature has already passed a law giving any policeman the power to stop and search anybody he wishes to, any time he chooses.

Information we give to the IRS or to the census taker, or other government agencies, may come back to haunt us if we are ever found at odds with any governmental policy in court.

Government can find out what your bank balance is. It can search your safety deposit box. It can get a police record by asking for it. Government can obtain an unlisted telephone number.

There are new devices available that make it possible to record a quiet conversation as much as a block away.

Your telephone conversations can be tapped and your conversations in a hotel room can be monitored.

We are being laid bare, naked, to any and every governmental demand.

And it is true, some businessmen will, for the expenditure of a few dollars, seek to obtain the same kind of information about a business rival or competitor.

This is the kind of thing George Orwell was talking about when he wrote, with frightening pre-vision, "1984." All we need now is two-way television, wherein the government can peer at you as you watch your favorite program and possibly interrupt in an effort to convince you to be patriotic and to think thoughts which are in harmony with big brother's policies, and we'll have arrived.

The dignity of a human being can only be preserved if he is able to maintain some privacy. Totalitarian states and police states pride themselves on their ability to gather all kinds of data about everyone which can be used at the government's discretion.

Clearly, Mr. Packard sounds a warning call that we are moving in this direction.

Meditation for Extremists

We are extremely happy for the fact that we live in this country.

We are extremely glad we live in Colorado and in Colorado Springs.

We are extremely glad that we live in a city, state and nation where private enterprise still exists.

We are extremely confident that when more people understand the MERIT of private enterprise they, too, will be grateful that it is the system of private ownership of property that makes for our wonderful prosperity.

We are extremely aware of the fact that if conditions are not as we would like them to be, we can express our disappointment and, at the same time, reason as best we can so that changes can occur which will improve conditions.

We are extremely concerned with the fact that so many of our people seem to favor socialism.

We are extremely conscious of the fact that many people who favor socialism do so because they fancy that politics can set all things right.

We are extremely disillusioned about political cures.

We have noticed that when extreme politicians are encouraged, our woes increase one way or another.

We are extremely grateful that our founders, who gave us the Declaration of Independence, spelled out the fact that men have rights but that governments have nothing more than a confided power.

We are extremely willing to pay our own bills and provide our own security.

We are extremely anxious to mind our own business and to let other people mind theirs.

We are extremely aware that labor unions carry on a constant campaign seeking to vilify all things that are good and to disparage the idea that men can bargain individually on all matters affecting their wages and welfare.

We are extremely fearful of war as a method to solve problems.

We are extremely conscious that prior wars fought by this nation to set the world aright have merely served to destroy millions of lives and to worsen our chances to set things aright.

We are extremely baffled by people who complain about government forcing them to do things they don't wish to do, but who seek to obtain governmental power so they can force others to do what they don't want to do.

We are extremely heartened by the fact that more and more people assure us that all they want in this world is a chance to make their own way and to assume full responsibility for themselves.

We consider it extremely unlikely that political solutions are going to turn out to be real solutions.

We are extremely delighted that we have so many fine and wonderful friends.

We are extremely grateful that our enemies seem to oppose us because we believe in truth and in fair dealing.

We are extremely pleased with the American people who seem to be awaking to the danger of political control in SPITE of propaganda to the contrary.

We are extremely encouraged by the many good books and good articles now appearing.

We are extremely aware that there is nothing more extreme than socialism.

Presumably this makes us an extremist. If it is extreme to seek truth, then we are extreme. Any truth is an absence of falsehood. Therefore, any truth is extreme.

All science is extreme. All wisdom is extreme. All true knowledge is extreme. Joy is an extreme emotion. So is sadness.

But if one is extreme, it is because he avoids the compromise which is an attempt to merge opposite things into a single harmonious polity.

Although it is popular to imagine that only one political side is extreme, we must contend that both are. It is no more extreme to favor private ownership of property than to favor the abolition of private property.

It is no more extreme to believe in the goodness of man than to believe in the evil of men.

The nation is not divided between those who are extreme and those who are not. The nation is divided between two groups of extremists. Do you favor an extreme change in direction, or do you favor a carrying forward of socialist practices to the extreme which lies ahead?

ARTHRITIS

To the Editor:

Back in March of this year I wrote a letter to you regarding the National Foundation — March of Dimes campaign and the application of its funds in the State of Colorado in the fight against arthritis.

Now a wonderful thing has happened! Plans are underway, have been since the end of August, to make The Arthritis Foundation the one voluntary agency in the country to help the millions of Americans afflicted with this crippling disease and to support the search for a lasting cure, for it has been stated that most people will either develop some form of arthritis during their lifetime or know someone who does!

I understand that The National Foundation - March of Dimes has now withdrawn from the arthritis field. My investigation also reveals that the general structure of The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation will remain the same but that the name has been shortened to "The Arthritis Foundation." Negotiations are underway, I am told, toward an agreement whereby the American Rheumatism Association (an organization of physicians especially interested in arthritis) would join, and become the medical arm of The Arthritis Foundation.

According to news releases, The Arthritis Foundation, which is made up of 78 chapters throughout the United States, is now headed by Dr. William S. Clark, formerly director of the Medical Department of the National Foundation. The States of Colorado and Wyoming are served by the Rocky Mountain Chapter (one of the 78) from headquarters in Denver.

As I understand it, The National Foundation - March of Dimes, will continue as we know it, but concentrating now on research in birth defects and supporting a clinic for birth defects at Colorado General Hospital in Denver.

With the finest governmental research setup in the world, the National Institutes of Health (Public Health Service) located in Bethesda, Maryland, in which there is a department entitled, "The National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases," created by Congress only a short 14 years ago, intensive studies are being made of arthritis, clinically and in research.

We take pride in our strength and power. Here are two organizations — showing strength and power in their unity — in knowledge, wherewithal, and dedication — one cooperating with the other in determination to bring to heel the disease now affecting 12 million people.

If we expect our scientists to give their wholehearted intellectual wealth to find the answer, we too can give our wholehearted support and zeal through our contribution of time and dollars.

CIVIL RIGHTS LAW

To the Editor:

A few days ago I sent in a letter telling why the Civil Rights law was necessary and right. You of course answered me in an editorial telling why you thought it was unnecessary and wrong.

Since then in these days I have had an opportunity to listen, to read, and then afterwards draw my own conclusions about this matter. I have come to this conclusion: The Civil Rights law is unnecessary, wrong, nor will it help anyone out.

The government introduced the law as a major step toward freedom. Well, first of all, how can a law be connected so with freedom? Laws are meant to supervise, to control, to enforce, to order; how can you supervise, control, enforce, order with aggression and say you are helping freedom along? Well, I agree, you are helping freedom along: to its grave — a temporary grave, though. Freedom is never dead but it does have that untimely habit of getting lost by us, and then in the course of human events the very timely habit of getting found by us again.

I now say that the law has no purpose but to bind both races. How can a law, only a statement written by a few men, voted right by a few men, signed by one man, but forced on the millions through aggression succeed? It can only compel, not free. And if a certain measure is not born in freedom, is not operated in freedom, how can it bring about freedom? I say it cannot; in fact, I know it cannot.

I am still for equality but the kind of equality that is brought about through freedom, not law. The equality that is brought about through the education of both races. The equality that is brought about through understanding the problem, through free-thinking, through putting yourself in the other guy's place. This is, indeed, the only way you can do it, and do it right you can do it, and do it right—each of us working as individuals for individuals.

Let each of us do it now, let's get the government out of this affair. I know you might think: It's too late now. But as the editor reminded us in his answering editorial, to look at the outcome of the prohibition amendment and to see that it is never too late. I say also that it is never too late, for freedom; for correcting a mistake.

CORRECTION

To the Editor:

Correction, please!

I find that I made a mistake in my letter to Open Parliament published December 30. Let me correct it at once. Lincoln's proclamation concerning homesteads decreed even-numbered, not odd-numbered sections to the homesteaders. In each township 18 odd-numbered sections were railroad land. Nos. 16 and 36 were school land. The remaining 16 sections were for homesteaders.

THE VOTER

To the Editor:

Mr. Howard Selden, on December 22, protested the unprepared, unthinking voter; advocated making voting a privilege to be earned by preparation, and suggested examinations to determine the readiness of a prospective voter to receive his franchise.

The principle of preparedness to vote is surely desirable, but who is to prepare, administer and grade these examinations? What will he ask the examinee? How shall we insure that the examination does what we intend, as outlined by Mr. Selden?

I fear that in practice the task would fall to government officials, high or low; as a group officials are not noted for attention to much beyond their own positions: perhaps the examination for the franchise would almost immediately become an examination of the candidate's agreement with the examining power — not his qualification to vote as an informed and intelligent citizen. I doubt Mr. Selden had this in mind, for it would play right into the hands of socialists, communists or worse, and guarantee them absolute, irrevocable power and infinite tenure.

A political scientist once told a class at CC that the founding fathers had no more faith in the populace than has Mr. Selden, therefore they established not a democracy ruled by all the people, but a republic ruled by representatives of the people. They chose themselves as these representatives, and reserved to themselves the right to do as they thought the people would approve — after the fuss was over. As it happened, their despotism proved benevolent, but had they been as many present public figures, think how dreadfully that first experiment in The American Way would have failed! These gentlemen took a hideous risk with the success of the very thing they fought for, and won — perhaps because the art of official skullduggery had not yet acquired the polish it has since gained from certain scheming gentry, both Russian and pseudo-American. Would men as honest as the founding fathers attain office today, or would the leadership go to the most artful trickster, and with it the prerogative of examination for the vote?

For that matter, to which one has it gone in modern times? No, I question the desirability of examination for the franchise; perhaps we better stick with our representative form—next to the worst in the world — for everything else seems a little worse. And just perhaps we who care can ram in a few honest representatives and thereby keep up a shadow of what those early benevolent despots intended . . . and built.

The Local Scene

It Does Get Monotonous

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Just across the great divide,
And halfway down the other side,
The snow's as deep as it is wide,
And it is snowing still, beside.

For five days now the falling snow
Has had no other where to go
Except pile up on that below
And it is getting deep, you know.

Forty-eight inches on the hill
And it is snowing with a will,
The blowing wind is seldom still,
Of such weather we've had our fill.

We're dreaming now of days gone by
When roads were clear, the weather dry.
To rain or snow it didn't try—
Those days we now recall and sigh.

We don't mind snow, we don't mind rain,
When they don't happen, we complain.
But they can get to be a pain
If they do not shut off again.

This is Monday, December 28. When we got up this morning in Silverthorne, it was still snowing and I wrote the above poem before breakfast. But after breakfast, the storm broke and the sun shone briefly. I dug the car out of two feet of snow (I had already dug it out of two feet a couple of days before), loaded it with our Christmas loot, which was considerable, and we started up over Fremont pass for home.

We left four feet of snow on the level in Silverthorne — and you should see Climax and Leadville. But the pass was open, though terribly slick. We made it without mishap and arrived home in five hours, including an hour for lunch in Buena Vista. Storm clouds were still in evidence at Climax and Leadville and I told my wife it was a good thing we started home, as it looked as though it would snow again.

Arriving home about 3:30 p.m., my wife called our daughter-in-law to let her know we made it safely and, sure enough, she said it had started snowing again, furiously, about one p.m. and had already laid down several inches of new snow. This makes the sixth day.

I went up to the solar observatory with Chet on Sunday as it looked as if it might clear up. But no such luck. All we did was fight the snow with pick-ups, jeeps and a rotary plow — three solar observers and myself. I'll admit, though, that I stayed indoors more than out and read scientific treatises on solar observing and on astronomy in general. And when I grew tired of the heavy stuff, I topped off the day with the poetry of John Donne, which some scientist had thoughtfully provided in paper-back. Good reading, too.

I saw all the latest equipment for solar observing, but no sol to observe. I am going back when the weather is more salubrious and get a story and some pictures.

One thing I did learn, which is worth passing on, is that the famed sun spots occur in 22-year cycles — 11 years of increasing intensity, and then 11 years of gradual decline —and thusly, over and over throughout eternity, or at least long enough so that the observers can say when the next cycle will begin and end. A new cycle of increasing intensity is now beginning and with some marvelous new equipment installed, the observers are all enthused about what may be learned in the next few years. If the sun ever shines again up there, that is.

The observatory is located on Climax mining company ground about a mile and a half off Highway 24, off in the woods in a beautiful, sylvan spot with a small natural lake nearby. The boys had the snow all cleaned off the lake for skating last week. But they'll have to do it over now.

It, the observatory, is financed by various foundations and individuals. I copied down the 36 names listed on a copper plaque just inside the building housing the big "coronagraph" as those who had made the observatory possible. I may use them some day in an article on the place.

I asked these learned scientists if they had found any connection between the sun's "spot cycles" and our own weather cycles, which also occur in 11-year cycles, or 22 years, if you count from one low point to the next, as they do.

"We have no definite proof," they said, "but we do have our suspicions, and we are working on that subject at the present time."

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 633: "Do American Indians have the right to vote in national and state elections? If not, where are their civil rights?"

Answer: Native-born Indians are citizens of the United States, under Section 301a (2), Title III of the Immigration and Nationality Act of the United States Code. Therefore, they have the privilege of voting.

Voting is a privilege granted by government, not a right which comes from God or nature despite the claims of some persons who contend that a right can be granted by government. We contend that rights are natural and unalienable, and are never granted by government. If government can grant a privilege, it can take it away. Therefore a government can never grant a right.

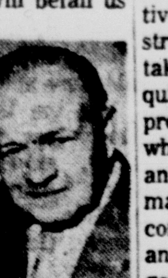
Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Crazy budget session, eh?"

Inconsistency

BY GEORGE BOARDMAN



In the midst of all the election hullabaloo, promises, threats of dire events which will befall us if one candidate or the other wins, and assorted yammerings and bleatings, the consistent inconsistency of unthinkingness greeted us from the pages of almost every different type of publication. The people of this country seem to have acquired what is almost a fetish for inconsistency. Let's take a look at a sentence conceived in inconsistency which might begin, "If government is properly limited." The word limited may be defined as: to set bounds or limits; something that bounds, restrains or confines. Confines means to set bounds for. Limit implies setting a point or line in time or space, or a speed or degree beyond which something cannot or is not permitted to go. The word circumscribe stresses a restricting in every direction by clearly marked limits. Now, to govern is to exercise continuous authority; to rule; to control, direct; or restrain. It should be obvious by now that if government is limited, the restraining force must be something in the way of a super or higher government. If government becomes limited, the limiting factor becomes the governing force.

If any number of people agree to employ a certain type of service on a collective or cooperative basis, the agencies they employ voluntarily can not be logically called government by any stretch of the imagination. In other words, the employment of others to perform a service on a mutually voluntary basis is not government limited or otherwise. To talk about limiting government is simply a waste of time unless we are going to completely redefine the meaning of the words we are using.

Let's now apply the term limited to self-government. Immediately, the structure upon which we seek to build a premise has been destroyed. We could just as well say I will restrain myself some of the time and refuse to be restrained or to act in a self-restraining manner when my mood changes. This is a type of semantic juggling which results in such inconsistent statements as: government should be limited to protect the people.

Every coercive act which can be conceived of in the imaginative minds of men can be construed as protective. You might take the life of a man with one quick shot and say you have protected him from a slow death which may have been caused by an automobile accident. You may say that such thinking is completely ridiculous, but take another look at the actions of government which places you in dire jeopardy every day of the week. What kind of protection do you think you buy from government? Total protection or limited protection? And what will be the limiting factors? Do the people you employ now or think you might like to employ in a limited government dedicate their total effort to your protection? And what about you? Do you dedicate your allegiance to those you employ or do they dedicate their allegiance to you?

It is certain that government regardless of how evil it may be will not suddenly disappear from the face of the earth, but to spend time discussing ways and means to limit government is a complete waste of time. The actions of self-respecting people who do their best to avoid doing business with government reduces their participation in and sanction of the system by just that much. Government may employ ten times as many people to make work as it does now even if all of us refuse to do business with government and here we can examine the fact that each of us is responsible only for his or her actions. If we do all we can to avoid doing business with our enslavers, they may find the situation embarrassing and eventually relax the chains that bind us. The only guarantee we have when we refuse to sanction government is that we are not personally involved in being part of the problem.

Because we're the ultimate rulers of our own energy, efforts expended in governing our own lives must be ultimately more profitable than any effort we can expend trying to limit government. To those who say, well, we simply have to have some government, I repeat my frequently repeated question: How much government do you want for yourself or how much government will be required to force you to behave as a responsible, self-respecting human being? If you'll take the time to try to answer these questions, I believe you will discover that you are less concerned with controlling your own energy than you are with trying to control the actions of others.

Probably, thinking about limited government makes it possible for people to avoid careful consideration of their own responsibilities but it certainly accomplishes nothing more than that.

There is only one certain method of avoiding the effect government has upon your life and that is by limiting your participation in everything that has anything to do with government. I hope you will think about it.

Good luck and good health to you in freedom.

A Tax on Farm Buildings

By AMBROSE HILLS

It would be a sad mistake for the Manitoba government to tax farm buildings as now being proposed.

Farmers, to begin with, miss out on the $500 paid by the federal government to those who build in the winter. Contractors, asked to build in farm country in winter, suddenly are too busy. It is no fun for contractors and workmen to get snowed in.

Second, the farmer gets no services, very little police protection, no water, no fire hydrant. Why should his buildings be taxed?

Third, the expense of assessing and collecting a tax on farm buildings is scarcely worth the net income that would be received.

Fourth, the tax would lead farmers to tear down homes and barns and go into town, simply mining grain from the land and abandoning cattle, pigs and poultry, which require them to be present at all times.

Politicians often dream up ways to win farm votes. Why suddenly start to tax his buildings, which have been free of such taxes from time immemorial?

Voters will take careful note of Hansard. Any MLA in government or in opposition who votes to tax farm buildings will be promptly booted out of power — not only by rural voters, for the consumer knows he will have to pay such taxes in the price of pork, poultry, eggs or beef. If governments would leave the farmer alone, he could survive. Fortunes have been wasted trying to help the farmer, when what is most required is that the farmer be left alone, and not saddled with continually rising costs.

City dwellers can group to fight bad assessments. The individual farmer, isolated, is at the assessor's mercy. Assesors are not overloaded with that particular quality!

World's Best Dressed Women of '64 Announced

On the 1964 international list of the world's best-dressed women, announced today, Mrs. John F. Kennedy returned to her accustomed position of fashion leadership. The honors were shared by her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, who for the first time was placed among the world's top twelve elegantes. The accolade also went to a New York socialite-actress who has spent recent months in maternity clothes designed by Mainbocher, and to two sisters who were given a shared place on the list.

Five perennial fashion pacesetters were elevated to permanent lifetime recognition in the Fashion Hall of Fame this year. Mrs. Loel (Gloria) Guinness, wife of the international banker, who has been termed "the ultimate" by the fashion press, and who polled more than twice as many votes as any other woman in the 1964 balloting, enters the Hall of Fame after five consecutive consecutive years at the top of the annual count. Joining her in permanent status are four other five-year listees, Mrs. David Bruce, wife of the U. S. Ambassador to Great Britain, Mrs. Walther Moreira Salles, a Braziolian living in Paris. Mrs. T. Charlton Henry, of Philadelphia, in her late 70s but still celebrated for her taste in dress, and Rosalind Russell, the film star.

The 1964 list of the world's best-dressed, based on ballots distributed among 2000 fashion authorities, socialites and celebrities throughout the world and finalized by a committee of well-known fashion experts, is as follows:

Queen Sirikit of Thailand; Mrs. John F. Kennedy, New York; Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, Palm Beach and Hyannisport, Mass.; Mrs. Charles Wrightsman, Palm Beach and New York; Princess Lee Radziwill, New York and London; Dina Merrill (Mrs. Stanley Rumbough, Jr.), New York and Hollywood; Mrs. Wyatt Cooper (Gloria Vanderbilt), New York; Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, New York; Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Jr., Manila, Philippine Islands; Mrs. Paul Mellon, Upperville, Virginia; Mrs. Alfred Bloomingdale, Beverly Hills; The Misses Anne and Charlotte Ford, New York and Detroit.

The annual "sister list" composed of women of distinguished good taste in the fashion world or allied to fashion through their husbands, was announced at the same time. This year the committee established a Fashion Professionals Hall of Fame where they installed nine fashion personalities. They are:

Gabrielle Chanel, the indestructible French fashion designer, Diana Vreeland, editor of Vogue, Pauline Trigere, American fashion designer, Mrs. Sophie Gimbel, designer for Saks Fifth Avenue and wife of the store's president, Adam Gimbel, Mrs. Tom May, wife of the West Coast department store executive, Mme. Helene Rochas, head of the French perfume house, Donna Simonetta Fabiani, Italian-born Paris designer, Miss Margaret Case of Vogue and Mrs. Stanley Marcus, wife of the Chairman of Neiman-Marcus, Dallas.

The 1964 list of best-dressed fashion personalities includes: Mrs. Richard Rodgers, wife of the composer, author and creator of a patented basic dress pattern; Mrs. S. I. Newhouse, wife of the head of the Conde Nast Publications;

Mrs. Frederick Eberstadt, wife of the fashion photographer;

Mme. Helena Rubinstein, head of the cosmetics Company;

Miss Geraldine Stutz, president, Henri Bendel, New York;

Mrs. William Rose, wife of a New York textile executive;

Amy (Mrs. Milton) Greene, Glamour Magazine editor; Mollie Parnis, New York fashion designer;

Mary Quant, London fashion designer;

Mrs. David Evins, wife of the shoe designer;

Mrs. Robin Butler of Christian Dior-New York;

Mrs. Gloria Schiff, member of the Vogue staff.

Queen Sirikit, who wears western dress designed by Balmain of Paris as well as her native Thai draperies, caused a sensation in the fashion world on a recent tour of Europe and America. The Queen also was described as "the most beautifully dressed person at the Greek royal wedding."

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, whom the committee omitted from the best-dressed list last January in deference to her mourning period, was characterized, together with Mrs. Joseph Kennedy, as "inspiring examples of perfect taste in dress. Their decision not to wear deep mourning over a long period reflected the same sense of discipline and contemporary dignity which the late President always displayed."

Mrs. Blair, who appears on the annual list for the first time, is the wife of the United States Ambassador to the Philippines. She was born Catherine Gerlach of Chicago. Mrs. Mellon,, wife of the industrialist and art collector, also appears for the first time, as does Mrs. Bloomingdale, wife of the California founder of the Diners' Club. She was the former Betty Newling of Beverly Hills.

The Ford sisters, who have lately been sharing the fashion spotlight with their mother, Mrs. McConnell Ford (a member of the Fashion Hall of Fame), were cited for their "typical young American look which fully understands and absorbs the best of European fashion."

Royalty, usually figuring strongly in the fashion sweepstakes, failed to return a single citation this year, although Princess Alexandra, now Mrs. Angus Ogilvy, and Princess Margaret, Countess of Snowden, polled an impressive number of votes. Princess Paola and Princess Liliane of Belgium also ranked high. The stage and screen were notably absent in the final count, although Dame Margot Fonteyn, Mrs. Gilbert Miller, wife of the producer, Mrs. Kirk Douglas and Mrs. James Stewart, wives of the film stars, came near making the top twelve.

The Hall of Fame already includes the following women of world renowned elegance: Princess Marina, Princess Grace of Monaco, Mme. Patricia Lope-Willshaw of Paris, Mrs. Bruno Pagliai (Merle Oberon), The Duchess of Windsor, Mrs. William Paley of New York, Countess Edward von Bismarck of Paris, Queen Elizabeth II, Mary Martin, Irene Dunne, Claudette Colbert, Countess Rudolfo Crespi of Rome, Mrs. McConnell Ford, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst Jr., Mrs. Winston Guest, Vicomtesse Jacqueline de Ribes, Paris, Audrey Hepburn, Mrs. Norman K. Winston, New York, Countess Ramanones, Madrid, Donna Marella Agnelli, Turin, Italy, Mrs. John Barry Ryan III, New York and Mem. Herve Alphand, wife of the French Ambassador to the United States.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She Tries to Clean Up!

DEAR ABBY: A woman who claims to be 60, but who looks and acts much younger, comes to my house on week-ends to clean and do my laundry. In bad weather I drive her home. She always invites me in for a few drinks. One night we both got high and I spent most of the night with her. Now she tells me that she is going to have my baby and she is suing me for money to pay for her doctor and hospital bills, and for sufficient funds to keep the child until it is old enough to care for itself. I consulted a doctor friend and he said that a woman that age could not have a baby. My lawyer says she has nothing on me unless she wants to press a rape charge, which would be hard to prove under the circumstances. What is your honest opinion? —ON IN YEARS

DEAR ON: A pregnancy can be affirmed by a doctor's examination. Your lawyer can tell you what your rights (and hers) are. And next time you hire a cleaning woman, send her home in a taxi or YOU'LL be the one who's taken for a ride.

DEAR ABBY: I am 32 and have fallen in love with a 49-year-old woman. We are both Christians and live simple lives. Abby, the difference in our ages does not mean a thing to me, but it bothers her. She says everyone will think we've lost our minds.

She is very nice looking and has a good figure and in my eyes she does not look her age. I love this woman dearly but she says I may not feel the same way in ten years from now. Could such a marriage work? —NO SLEEP FOR TWO

DEAR NO SLEEP: Such marriages are "working" every day. All that is required for a good marriage is that the two people really need each other. Time, however, does change people and alters their situations. When you are 53 and she is 70, your "needs" might change, and hence your feelings.

DEAR ABBY: I am 23 and the mother of three children. My problem is my hair. My husband wants me to wear it long. Just straight and hanging down to my shoulders like I wore it when he met me eight years ago. It makes me look like I'm 12 years old!

I want to wear it up, but he doesn't like it that way. We have been fighting about this for five years. He says if I really loved him I'd wear it the way he likes it. I say if he really loved me, he'd let me wear it the way I want to. What would YOU do? —HAIR PROBLEM

DEAR HAIR PROBLEM: You don't have a "hair problem"—you have a "husband" problem. I would wear my hair the way my husband liked it when I was with him. And I'd wear it the way I liked it when he wasn't around. Your husband is stubbornly trying to preserve the "image" he has of you. Don't destroy it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO " 'Compltely Disturbed:' " You are now 23, have been married six years, have two children, "hate" your husband, have been going from one affair to another in search of "love," and you say if you only had the courage you'd take your own life. Your letter should be printed on the jacket of every high school freshman's English book as a warning to teen-agers who think they are "in love," and rush into marriage. Your tragic story points out the high price of taking on the responsibilities of marriage while still too emotionally immature to handle them.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself.

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So if you still have any hair on top of our head, and would like to stop your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation. adv.

World's Best Dressed Women of '64 Announced

On the 1964 international list of the world's best-dressed women, announced today, Mrs. John F. Kennedy returned to her accustomed position of fashion leadership. The honors were shared by her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, who for the first time was placed among the world's top twelve elegantes. The accolade also went to a New York socialite-actress who has spent recent months in maternity clothes designed by Mainbocher, and to two sisters who were given a shared place on the list.

Five perennial fashion pacesetters were elevated to permanent lifetime recognition in the Fashion Hall of Fame this year. Mrs. Loel (Gloria) Guinness, wife of the international banker, who has been termed "the ultimate" by the fashion press, and who polled more than twice as many votes as any other woman in the 1964 balloting, enters the Hall of Fame after five consecutive consecutive years at the top of the annual count. Joining her in permanent status are four other five-year listees, Mrs. David Bruce, wife of the U. S. Ambassador to Great Britain, Mrs. Walther Moreira Salles, a Braziolian living in Paris. Mrs. T. Charlton Henry, of Philadelphia, in her late 70s but still celebrated for her taste in dress, and Rosalind Russell, the film star.

The 1964 list of the world's best-dressed, based on ballots distributed among 2000 fashion authorities, socialites and celebrities throughout the world and finalized by a committee of well-known fashion experts, is as follows:

Queen Sirikit of Thailand; Mrs. John F. Kennedy, New York; Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, Palm Beach and Hyannisport, Mass.; Mrs. Charles Wrightsman, Palm Beach and New York; Princess Lee Radziwill, New York and London; Dina Merrill (Mrs. Stanley Rumbough, Jr.), New York and Hollywood; Mrs. Wyatt Cooper (Gloria Vanderbilt), New York; Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, New York; Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Jr., Manila, Philippine Islands; Mrs. Paul Mellon, Upperville, Virginia; Mrs. Alfred Bloomingdale, Beverly Hills; The Misses Anne and Charlotte Ford, New York and Detroit.

The annual "sister list" composed of women of distinguished good taste in the fashion world or allied to fashion through their husbands, was announced at the same time. This year the committee established a Fashion Professionals Hall of Fame where they installed nine fashion personalities. They are:

Gabrielle Chanel, the indestructible French fashion designer, Diana Vreeland, editor of Vogue, Pauline Trigere, American fashion designer, Mrs. Sophie Gimbel, designer for Saks Fifth Avenue and wife of the store's president, Adam Gimbel, Mrs. Tom May, wife of the West Coast department store executive, Mme. Helene Rochas, head of the French perfume house, Donna Simonetta Fabiani, Italian-born Paris designer, Miss Margaret Case of Vogue and Mrs. Stanley Marcus, wife of the Chairman of Neiman-Marcus, Dallas.

The 1964 list of best-dressed fashion personalities includes: Mrs. Richard Rodgers, wife of the composer, author and creator of a patented basic dress pattern; Mrs. S. I. Newhouse, wife of the head of the Conde Nast Publications;

Mrs. Frederick Eberstadt, wife of the fashion photographer;

Mme. Helena Rubinstein, head of the cosmetics Company;

Miss Geraldine Stutz, president, Henri Bendel, New York;

Mrs. William Rose, wife of a New York textile executive;

Amy (Mrs. Milton) Greene, Glamour Magazine editor; Mollie Parnis, New York fashion designer;

Mary Quant, London fashion designer;

Mrs. David Evins, wife of the shoe designer;

Mrs. Robin Butler of Christian Dior-New York;

Mrs. Gloria Schiff, member of the Vogue staff.

Queen Sirikit, who wears western dress designed by Balmain of Paris as well as her native Thai draperies, caused a sensation in the fashion world on a recent tour of Europe and America. The Queen also was described as "the most beautifully dressed person at the Greek royal wedding."

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, whom the committee omitted from the best-dressed list last January in deference to her mourning period, was characterized, together with Mrs. Joseph Kennedy, as "inspiring examples of perfect taste in dress. Their decision not to wear deep mourning over a long period reflected the same sense of discipline and contemporary dignity which the late President always displayed."

Mrs. Blair, who appears on the annual list for the first time, is the wife of the United States Ambassador to the Philippines. She was born Catherine Gerlach of Chicago. Mrs. Mellon,, wife of the industrialist and art collector, also appears for the first time, as does Mrs. Bloomingdale, wife of the California founder of the Diners' Club. She was the former Betty Newling of Beverly Hills.

The Ford sisters, who have lately been sharing the fashion spotlight with their mother, Mrs. McConnell Ford (a member of the Fashion Hall of Fame), were cited for their "typical young American look which fully understands and absorbs the best of European fashion."

Royalty, usually figuring strongly in the fashion sweepstakes, failed to return a single citation this year, although Princess Alexandra, now Mrs. Angus Ogilvy, and Princess Margaret, Countess of Snowden, polled an impressive number of votes. Princess Paola and Princess Liliane of Belgium also ranked high. The stage and screen were notably absent in the final count, although Dame Margot Fonteyn, Mrs. Gilbert Miller, wife of the producer, Mrs. Kirk Douglas and Mrs. James Stewart, wives of the film stars, came near making the top twelve.

The Hall of Fame already includes the following women of world renowned elegance: Princess Marina, Princess Grace of Monaco, Mme. My lawyer says she has nothing on me unless she wants to press a rape charge, which would be hard to prove under the circumstances. What is your honest opinion? —ON IN YEARS

DEAR ON: A pregnancy can be affirmed by a doctor's examination. Your lawyer can tell you what your rights (and hers) are. And next time you hire a cleaning woman, send her home in a taxi or YOU'LL be the one who's taken for a ride.

DEAR ABBY: I am 32 and have fallen in love with a 49-year-old woman. We are both Christians and live simple lives. Abby, the difference in our ages does not mean a thing to me, but it bothers her. She says everyone will think we've lost our minds.

She is very nice looking and has a good figure and in my eyes she does not look her age. I love this woman dearly but she says I may not feel the same way in ten years from now. Could such a marriage work? —NO SLEEP FOR TWO

DEAR NO SLEEP: Such marriages are "working" every day. All that is required for a good marriage is that the two people really need each other. Time, however, does change people and alters their situations. When you are 53 and she is 70, your "needs" might change, and hence your feelings.

DEAR ABBY: I am 23 and the mother of three children. My problem is my hair. My husband wants me to wear it long. Just straight and hanging down to my shoulders like I wore it when he met me eight years ago. It makes me look like I'm 12 years old!

I want to wear it up, but he doesn't like it that way. We have been fighting about this for five years. He says if I really loved him I'd wear it the way he likes it. I say if he really loved me, he'd let me wear it the way I want to. What would YOU do? —HAIR PROBLEM

DEAR HAIR PROBLEM: You don't have a "hair problem"—you have a "husband" problem. I would wear my hair the way my husband liked it when I was with him. And I'd wear it the way I liked it when he wasn't around. Your husband is stubbornly trying to preserve the "image" he has of you. Don't destroy it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO " 'Compltely Disturbed:' " You are now 23, have been married six years, have two children, "hate" your husband, have been going from one affair to another in search of "love," and you say if you only had the courage you'd take your own life. Your letter should be printed on the jacket of every high school freshman's English book as a warning to teen-agers who think they are "in love," and rush into marriage. Your tragic story points out the high price of taking on the responsibilities of marriage while still too emotionally immature to handle them.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself.

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So if you still have any hair on top of our head, and would like to stop your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation. adv.

Goren on Bridge

By CHARLES H. GOREN

Q. 1—As South you hold: Spades, K-9-6; Hearts, Q-9-6-5-3; Diamonds, Q-9-7-2; Clubs, 8.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Spd.	1 N.T.	?

What do you bid?

A.—Two spades. If you don't speak now it may become inexpedient to do so later. Partner should not play you for substantial values since you failed to double one notrump.

Q. 2—As South you hold: Spades, 10; Hearts, Q-10-7-2; Diamonds, K-J-8-6-4-2; Clubs, 7-5.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Spd.	Pass	1 N.T.	Pass
3 Spds.	Pass?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner's jump rebid in spades is not forcing and you have about the least that the law will tolerate for a one notrump response. If this hand will produce a game, partner would probably have been able to bid it himself.

Q. 3—As South the dealer you hold: Spades, 9-8-4-3; Hearts, Q-J-10-3; Diammonds, A-7; Clubs, A-Q-4.

What is your opening bid?

A.—One club, a mandatory opening with 14 points. This is a prepared bid to avoid future bidding difficulties. If you open one heart and partner responds two diamonds, you will find the rebid definitely not to your taste.

Q. 4—As South you hold: Spades, K-J-3; Hearts, 8-7-4; Diamonds, K-J-3; Clubs, J-10-9-4.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Hrt.	Pass	1 N.T.	Pass
2 Hrts.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A. — You had a substantial one notrump response and we are inclined to take one further step. However, our choice is for three hearts rather than two no-shows an unblanced hand not suited for notrump play.

Q. 5—As South you hold: Spades, K-Q-10-7-4-3; Hearts, Q-10-3; Diamonds, 6-2;Clubs, 5-2.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Hrt.	Pass	1 Spd.	Pass
1 N.T.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This hand is definitely not the notrump type and preference should be given to rebidding a good six card suit over returning to partner's hearts.

Q. 6—As South you hold: Spades, Q-10-9-7-6-3; Hearts, K-J-10-5; Diamonds, 6-2; Clubs, 7.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Spd.	Dbl.	4 Spds.	5 Hrts.
5Spds.	5 N.T.	Pass	6 Clubs.
Pass	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Six spades. Your spade holding strongly suggests that no tricks can be taken in that suit against six clubs and partner's failure to double indicates that he has few defensive values on the side. The save should not prove too expensive.

Q. 7—As South you hold: Spades, A-Q-J-10-3; Hearts, 8-6-4; Diamonds, K-Q-3; Clubs, A-Q.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Spd.	Pass	2 Dia.	Pass
3 Dia.	Pass	3 Spds.	Pass
4 Clbs.	Pass	4 Spds.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Five spades. Since partner was strong enough to first bid his own suit and subsequently raise yours, hope for slam should not be abandoned. Your main concern is the heart situation and overbidding the game in spades after the other suits have been mentioned will clearly ask partner to go on if he has no more than one loser in hearts.

Q. 8—As South you hold: Spades, J-8-6-4-3; Diamonds, A-Q-4-3; Clubs, J-10-8-7.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 Spd.	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—One notrump. This hand is not strong enough to bid at the two level, yet some action must be taken. The only bid available is one notrump which designates a hand ranging from 6 to 10 points in high cards. When this bid is used as a response it does not necessarily promise a balanced hand.

ATTORNEY DIES

PUEBLO (UPI)— Earl Wettengel, two-term Denver district attorney from 1928-1936, died Saturday at Pueblo State Hospital of pneumonia. He was 76. The Republican official had a reputation for crime-busting until December, 1934, when he was indicted on perjury charges by a special grand jury. Charges were dismissed against him in March of 1936, but a month later the State Supreme Court found him guilty of fabrication of evidence and suspended him indefinitely as a lawyer. He later was reinstated.

WRONG NUMBER

PROVO, Utah (AP)—Highway patrol office dispatchers at Provo got so tired of voices on their telephone asking "Please play another Beatles number for Mary and Susie" that they complained to the phone company. A new number was assigned when it was noted their phone number was only one digit different from that of a local radio station which features "request programs."

NO NUDITY, PLEASE—Gia Scala, a beauty imported from Europe for a bit of film action in Hollywood, is no prude but she looks upon the nude photography bit as childish and nonsensical. The gals who pose in the nude are labeled, Gia feels, and adds "it's a tag they can never quite shake off."

ALL-OUT ATTACT ON PARKINSONISM

The brain operation for parkinsonism (shaking palsy) has been improved considerably in the last decade. A tribute ought to be paid to the skill and ingenuity of neurosurgeons who have devoted much of their life to making the technic effective and safe.

Tremor and muscle regidity are relieved in 80 per cent of selected cases and the mortality is less than 2 per cent. In addition, the procedure does not lead to loss of intellectual ability or damage to the personality. The results are most gratifying when symptoms are confined mainly to one side and the individual is otherwise healthy.

The operation does not cure or restore the involved muscles. It is not advised when the disease is progressing rapidly or the physical condition is poor. The decision should not be put off until the patient has passed the stage in which he can be helped.

The purpose of the operation is to destroy the small nerve center in the brain where tremor originates. This center lies deep in the brain and is slightly more than a quarter inch in diameter. Several methods are used. Some surgeons inject a chemical agent; others employ electrocoagulation, local freezing, or high frequency sound waves.

Many drugs are available to block or reduce the activity of the brain cells that produce symptoms. Some medications work better on one person than on others so that treatment must be individualized.

The patient should be urged to adjust his life to his disability by avoiding stress, anxiety, and fatigue. Phusical therapy lessens stiffness. Parkinsonism is not hopeless. When the morale of the victim and his family is low, an all-out attack is needed to avoid the secondary changes that come from neglect and inactivity.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

SWALLOWING PROBLEM

Mrs. B. writes: I am expecting my fourth child soon. In the third month of pregnancy, I developed a throat problem—difficulty in swallowing. The pills prescribed by the doctor have not helped. He says this condition often occurs during pregnancy but I never have had it before nor have my friends with large families.

REPLY

If you doubt your physician, ask for a consultation with a nose and throat specialist to determine whether an organic reason exists for this difficulty.

HOSPITAL PROCEDURE

A. T. writes: Can tonsils be removed in a doctor's office?

REPLY

Yes, but it is not advisable because most offices have neither the help nor the equipment needed should complications arise. Many years ago tonsils were removed piecemeal with a cautery as an office procedure.

HAIR DARKENING

A. B. writes: What causes blond hair to darken? Can it be caused by the use of pills containing iron?

REPLY

Blond hair usually darkens with age. The color of hair is determined by the pigment cells at the roots and has nothing to do with the iron pigment in the blood.

'Scapegoat' Policy Hit By Dean Burch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dean Burch, the embattled chairman of the Republican National Committee, said today the new year should be one of GOP unity and responsible opposition — and not "the year of the scapegoat."

"If 1965 becomes a year spent in division and recrimination," Burch told a Republican women's group, "then we will also fail our larger duty to the nation as the party of responsible opposition."

The theme of the young chairman's prepared address to the District of Columbia League of Republican Women was that Republicans must put aside their differences, re-examine the principles they hold in common and present a united challenge to the Johnson administration where its programs run counter to GOP philosophy.

Burch, a political ally of Barry Goldwater before the Arizonan selected him to head the National Committee, is the target of some Republicans who want to put the party machinery in less conservative hands.

Referring to his fight to hold on to his job, Burch commented, "perhaps the search for scapegoats is an inevitable consequence of defeat."

"But," he continued, "as I have said many times in recent weeks the real challenge for Republicans in 1965 is not what to do about Dean Burch. It is what to do in order to strengthen our party's role as the historic spokesman for responsible government and those principles which have made our country great.

"The question we should be asking if our party is to achieve unity is not: Who lost the election? It is: Why are we Republicans?"

As he examined these reasons, Burch found grounds for attacking the Johnson administration.

"We are Republicans," said Burch, "because we know that before the great society came the free society. And because we understand that what the Democrats really aim for is not a great society at all — merely greater government control over all segments of American society."

ALL-OUT ATTACT ON PARKINSONISM

The brain operation for parkinsonism (shaking palsy) has been improved considerably in the last decade. A tribute ought to be paid to the skill and ingenuity of neurosurgeons who have devoted much of their life to making the technic effective and safe.

Tremor and muscle regidity are relieved in 80 per cent of selected cases and the mortality is less than 2 per cent. In addition, the procedure does not lead to loss of intellectual ability or damage to the personality. The results are most gratifying when symptoms are confined mainly to one side and the individual is otherwise healthy.

The operation does not cure or restore the involved muscles. It is not advised when the disease is progressing rapidly or the physical condition is poor. The decision should not be put off until the patient has passed the stage in which he can be helped.

The purpose of the operation is to destroy the small nerve center in the brain where tremor originates. This center lies deep in the brain and is slightly more than a quarter inch in diameter. Several methods are used. Some surgeons inject a chemical agent; others employ electrocoagulation, local freezing, or high frequency sound waves.

Many drugs are available to block or reduce the activity of the brain cells that produce symptoms. Some medications work better on one person than on others so that treatment must be individualized.

The patient should be urged to adjust his life to his disability by avoiding stress, anxiety, and fatigue. Phusical therapy lessens stiffness. Parkinsonism is not hopeless. When the morale of the victim and his family is low, an all-out attack is needed to avoid the secondary changes that come from neglect and inactivity.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

SWALLOWING PROBLEM

Mrs. B. writes: I am expecting my fourth child soon. In the third month of pregnancy, I developed a throat problem—difficulty in swallowing. The pills prescribed by the doctor have not helped. He says this condition often occurs during pregnancy but I never have had it before nor have my friends with large families.

REPLY

If you doubt your physician, ask for a consultation with a nose and throat specialist to determine whether an organic reason exists for this difficulty.

HOSPITAL PROCEDURE

A. T. writes: Can tonsils be removed in a doctor's office?

REPLY

Yes, but it is not advisable because most offices have neither the help nor the equipment needed should complications arise. Many years ago tonsils were removed piecemeal with a cautery as an office procedure.

HAIR DARKENING

A. B. writes: What causes blond hair to darken? Can it be caused by the use of pills containing iron?

REPLY

Blond hair usually darkens with age. The color of hair is determined by the pigment cells at the roots and has nothing to do with the iron pigment in the blood.

'Scapegoat' Policy Hit By Dean Burch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dean Burch, the embattled chairman of the Republican National Committee, said today the new year should be one of GOP unity and responsible opposition — and not "the year of the scapegoat."

"If 1965 becomes a year spent in division and recrimination," Burch told a Republican women's group, "then we will also fail our larger duty to the nation as the party of responsible opposition."

The theme of the young chairman's prepared address to the District of Columbia League of Republican Women was that Republicans must put aside their differences, re-examine the principles they hold in common and present a united challenge to the Johnson administration where its programs run counter to GOP philosophy.

Burch, a political ally of Barry Goldwater before the Arizonan selected him to head the National Committee, is the target of some Republicans who want to put the party machinery in less conservative hands.

Referring to his fight to hold on to his job, Burch commented, "perhaps the search for scapegoats is an inevitable consequence of defeat."

"But," he continued, "as I have said many times in recent weeks the real challenge for Republicans in 1965 is not what to do about Dean Burch. It is what to do in order to strengthen our party's role as the historic spokesman for responsible government and those principles which have made our country great.

"The question we should be asking if our party is to achieve unity is not: Who lost the election? It is: Why are we Republicans?"

As he examined these reasons, Burch found grounds for attacking the Johnson administration.

"We are Republicans," said Burch, "because we know that before the great society came the free society. And because we understand that what the Democrats really aim for is not a great society at all — merely greater government control over all segments of American society."

Rusk Opposes 'Reckless Action' in Viet Nam War

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk has counseled against "reckless action" in Viet Nam and said he would not have the United States abandon the war or expand it.

Rusk also ruled out for the time being a political settlement of the struggle against the Viet Cong guerrillas — a drawn-out affair in which the United States has invested men, money and materials.

The South Vietnamese can turn back the Communist insurgents, President Johnson's chief foreign policy adviser maintained Sunday as he reviewed the war and the international scene generally in a yearend review on the NBC television network.

Rusk conceded he shares with many Americans "a sense of frustration that things are not somehow moving more rapidly toward a conclusion." But, he said, the situation calls for persistence and coolness, not "reckless action which would move us over thoughtlessly in either the direction of defeat or in the direction of a very great catastrophe."

Along the way, he said he does not favor expanding the struggle or having the United States pull out of it.

The first, he said, would subject Asians to devastation and lead down a trail "the end of which no one in any country could possibly see with assurance." The second, he said, would encourage Communist China to become more aggressive.

He dismissed a political settlement — a third alternative to present policy — as impossible because the Communists have refused to give up their aggressive designs.

Elsewhere the debate on Viet Nam continued as four senators urged a re-evaluation of the U.S. role in the Southeast Asian country and Japan's new prime minister, Eisaku Sato, said in a copyright interview in U.S. News & World Report that Viet Nam will be an important subject during his forthcoming talks with Johnson.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., advocated the re-evaluation in ABC's "Issues and Answers" and got agreement from Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., and Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb.

The United States, said Morse, should be fighting in Viet Nam "as part of the United Nations organization or as part of the SEATO organization or as a part of the 14-nation Geneva conference organization, but not on a unilateral basis."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana predicted on NBC's "Meet the Press" that there will be a full-scale debate in the Senate on Viet Nam and said "I think it will be a good thing."

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said on CBS' "Face the Nation" that members of Congress ought to hold up on taking a position on the war until they get the recommendations of the President.

Long said he suspects Johnson's view is that it is preferable to stay on in Viet Nam than to pull out because if the United States abandons the war "you are going to lose all of Southeast Asia."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told The Associated Press in an interview that a decision on whether to pursue the war into North Viet Nam or to continue the current "unhappy status" is not easily answered "until there is a better evaluation of all the factors that you have to take into account."

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP)—Weakness in motors and steels highlighted a lower stock market as 1965 trading began today. Trading was active early this afternoon.

The market was mixed at the start then headed lower, widening its loss on average despite a strong performance by scattered issues.

Steels sank on weekend news that President Johnson had asked his economic adviers to take a hard look at recent steel price increases to see whether they are inflationary.

General Motors declined more than 2 points, dampening other auto stocks and the list as a whole.

Oils, electrical equipments, gold mining issues, drugs, mail order-retails and aerospace issues also displayed a lower trend.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .7 at 323.4 with industrials down 1.7, and rails and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 4.63 at 869.50.

American Telephone climbed more than a point following its report of record earnings. Du Pont made a similar gain. Tobaccos were higher, with American Tobacco up about a point.

IBM slipped 4 points. Down about a point were such issues as Comsat, Sears Roebuck, Polaroid, Texaco, Jersey Standard and Texas Gulf Sulphur.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange remained generally higher in moderate trading.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were irregularly higher.

Legislature Will Meet on Wednesday

DENVER (UPI)—The speaker's gavel will ring down Wednesday, calling to order the convening session of the 1965 Colorado General Assembly.

The Assembly, the state's 45th, is expected to be the longest in history with 100 lawmakers dealing with more than 900 pieces of legislation.

Colorado Gov. John Love, a Republican, will be dealing with a divided Legislature for the first time since he took office. Republicans hold a 20-15 lead in the State Senate, but the House will be Democratic by a 42-23 margin.

Because of the divided Legislature and the increased number of bills expected to come up for action, the two houses probably will sit in session for at least 110 days— 14 longer than the 1963 record.

CONFERENCE SET

DENVER (UPI)—About 1,000 persons are expected to attend the 68th annual national Western Mining Conference in Denver Feb. 4-6. Officials said one of the speakers at the session would be U.S. Rep. Walter Rogers, D-Tex. Robert S. Palmer, manager of the Colorado Mining Association, said he expects at least seven other [illegible] men to [illegible]

Rusk Opposes 'Reckless Action' in Viet Nam War

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk has counseled against "reckless action" in Viet Nam and said he would not have the United States abandon the war or expand it.

Rusk also ruled out for the time being a political settlement of the struggle against the Viet Cong guerrillas — a drawn-out affair in which the United States has invested men, money and materials.

The South Vietnamese can turn back the Communist insurgents, President Johnson's chief foreign policy adviser maintained Sunday as he reviewed the war and the international scene generally in a yearend review on the NBC television network.

Rusk conceded he shares with many Americans "a sense of frustration that things are not somehow moving more rapidly toward a conclusion." But, he said, the situation calls for persistence and coolness, not "reckless action which would move us over thoughtlessly in either the direction of defeat or in the direction of a very great catastrophe."

Along the way, he said he does not favor expanding the struggle or having the United States pull out of it.

The first, he said, would subject Asians to devastation and lead down a trail "the end of which no one in any country could possibly see with assurance." The second, he said, would encourage Communist China to become more aggressive.

He dismissed a political settlement — a third alternative to present policy — as impossible because the Communists have refused to give up their aggressive designs.

Elsewhere the debate on Viet Nam continued as four senators urged a re-evaluation of the U.S. role in the Southeast Asian country and Japan's new prime minister, Eisaku Sato, said in a copyright interview in U.S. News & World Report that Viet Nam will be an important subject during his forthcoming talks with Johnson.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., advocated the re-evaluation in ABC's "Issues and Answers" and got agreement from Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., and Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb.

The United States, said Morse, should be fighting in Viet Nam "as part of the United Nations organization or as part of the SEATO organization or as a part of the 14-nation Geneva conference organization, but not on a unilateral basis."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana predicted on NBC's "Meet the Press" that there will be a full-scale debate in the Senate on Viet Nam and said "I think it will be a good thing."

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said on CBS' "Face the Nation" that members of Congress ought to hold up on taking a position on the war until they get the recommendations of the President.

Long said he suspects Johnson's view is that it is preferable to stay on in Viet Nam than to pull out because if the United States abandons the war "you are going to lose all of Southeast Asia."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told The Associated Press in an interview that a decision on whether to pursue the war into North Viet Nam or to continue the current "unhappy status" is not easily answered "until there is a better evaluation of all the factors that you have to take into account."

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP)—Weakness in motors and steels highlighted a lower stock market as 1965 trading began today. Trading was active early this afternoon.

The market was mixed at the start then headed lower, widening its loss on average despite a strong performance by scattered issues.

Steels sank on weekend news that President Johnson had asked his economic adviers to take a hard look at recent steel price increases to see whether they are inflationary.

General Motors declined more than 2 points, dampening other auto stocks and the list as a whole.

Oils, electrical equipments, gold mining issues, drugs, mail order-retails and aerospace issues also displayed a lower trend.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .7 at 323.4 with industrials down 1.7, and rails and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 4.63 at 869.50.

American Telephone climbed more than a point following its report of record earnings. Du Pont made a similar gain. Tobaccos were higher, with American Tobacco up about a point.

IBM slipped 4 points. Down about a point were such issues as Comsat, Sears Roebuck, Polaroid, Texaco, Jersey Standard and Texas Gulf Sulphur.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange remained generally higher in moderate trading.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were irregularly higher.

Legislature Will Meet on Wednesday

DENVER (UPI)—The speaker's gavel will ring down Wednesday, calling to order the convening session of the 1965 Colorado General Assembly.

The Assembly, the state's 45th, is expected to be the longest in history with 100 lawmakers dealing with more than 900 pieces of legislation.

Colorado Gov. John Love, a Republican, will be dealing with a divided Legislature for the first time since he took office. Republicans hold a 20-15 lead in the State Senate, but the House will be Democratic by a 42-23 margin.

Because of the divided Legislature and the increased number of bills expected to come up for action, the two houses probably will sit in session for at least 110 days— 14 longer than the 1963 record.

CONFERENCE SET

DENVER (UPI)—About 1,000 persons are expected to attend the 68th annual national Western Mining Conference in Denver Feb. 4-6. Officials said one of the speakers at the session would be U.S. Rep. Walter Rogers, D-Tex. Robert S. Palmer, manager of the Colorado Mining Association, said he expects at least seven other congressmen to attend.

Silver Price Reported in Hands of U.S. Government

London (UPI) —The price of silver in 1965 and for several years ahead is in the hands of the U. S. government, a leading London bullion firm said Sunday

Silver's price will depend on U. S. policy towards its own subsidiary coinage. If the United States decides to maintain the silver content of its coinage then the world price will rise "very sharply and in the not too distant future.

"If it decides to have a non-silver subsidiary coinage as would appear more likely in the interests of an orderly economy within the U.S., then no great change in the price should be envisaged for several years," the Dealer's Annual Review said.

Mocatta and Goldsmid, the concern which has been the official dealer in silver bullion to the bank of England since the bank's formation in 1694, said its view was that silver now presented the United States "an intricate problem."

At present the U.S. treasury is redeeming silver certificates at $1.29 per ounce while American silver coinage reaches its melting valued at $1.38 per ounce.

"When the treasury has no more silver, or if restrictions are put on the sale of the metal or on the export of it, the world price will immediately rise to above $1.38 and the U.S. subsidiary coinage would disappear into the melting pot," Mocatta's said.

The dealers noted that a U.S. committee is due to report on this problem in February. If it recommends that coinage should in future contain a smaller quantity of silver, or none at all, and Congress passes the legislation, then the problem of assuring adequate silver supplies will be solved for many years.

If a decision is taken to have a non-silver subsidiary U. S. coinage then stocks built up in London would become very expensive to finance. This in turn could produce selling & bring down the London price to a point which would allow shipments to the United States at lower than the U. S. Treasury's selling price, the firm said.

Mocatta and Goldsmid said that a look at the statistical situation showed the industrial use of metal together with coinage requirements outside the United States exceeds new production by about 100 million ounces a year.

This year a certain speculative position has been built up and at the same time industrial users, particularly in the United States, are carrying heavier - than - usual stocks. They could account for between 50 and 100 million ounces of the treasury rundown. The dealers said the balance of silver taken from the treasury is accounted for by the U. S. mint "which has been working at fuller pressure than ever before."

Virtue Will Retire From Service Co.

William D. Virtue will retire on Jan. 1 from his post as executive vice president and treasurer of Public Service Company of Colorado.

Virtue's retirement will end a career spanning more than 45 years in Colorado's utility industry. He went to work for Denver Gas and Electric Light Company, a predecessor of Public Service Company of Colorado shortly after his graduation from the University of Missouri with a degree in electrical engineering.

The executive has been PSCo's chief financial officer ever since the company's stock was sold to the public in November, 1943, and he was named Secretary and vice president of accounting.

Since that time, securities worth more than a third of a billion dollars have been sold under his direction. In addition,, he also has had responsibility for the gas and electric operations of Public Service Company and its subsidiaries.

Virtue entered into the financial area of utility operations in 1923 and in 1928 became Chief Accountant of Public Service Company of Colorado, a position he retained until 1943, when he was made vice president, accounting, and secretary. He was named an assistant secretary in 1929, a post he filled along with that of Chief Accountant.

In 1939, Virtue was elected to the board of directors of Public Service Company of Colorado when the firm was still a subsidiary of Cities Service Company. He became a board member of the independent Public Service Company in 1948.

Carson Dollars Have Impact on Local Region

Construction dollars joined regular payrolls and purchases in 1964 to dramatize Ft. Carson's economic impact on the Pikes Peak region and Colorado.

Major building projects costing more than $14 million were completed or started in 1964 and bids were opened for a $10 million barracks complex to be built in 1965.

Expenditures for payrolls and locally-purchased supplies and services were more than $55 million in 1964. Additional millions in allotments to families of Carson military came directly to the region from Army Finance Center.

Military assigned to the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized; and Ft. Carson received $39,532,458 in pay in 1964 compared with $35,665,000 in 1963. Troop strength was approximately the same — 15,500.

Civil Service payroll increased to $8,803,560 compared with $7,115,800 in 1963. Yer-end civilian strength was 1423 compared with 1400 in 1963.

Congress voted pay raises both for military and civilians in 1964 to account for the increased pay in part.

Payroll for employes of non-appropriated activities was $1,042,534 with the Exchnge system accounting for more than half. Central Post Fund, the Fort Carson Noncommissioned Officers and Officers Cubs and Ft. Carson Dads Club accounted for the other half million in pay.

Purchases made locally through purchasing and contracting with appropriated funds were estimated at $3 million while non-appropriated outlets spent $3,214,574 locally in 1964. Each area spent one million dollars more than in 1963.

Colorado Gets Lion Share of Defense Money

Colorado is one of three states getting the lion's share of defense spending in the 10-state Missouri River Basin, a Denver economist reports in the current issue of the Colorado Business Review.

An article by John S. Gilmore, industrial economist at the Denver Research Institute, is featured this month in the CBR, a publication of the University of Colorado Bureau of Business Research.

Basin states are Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming.

Gilmore discusses spending shifts within the basin during the past decade, noting that Colorado rose from sixth in the Korean War years to its prime military contract total of $389.5 million — second only to Missouri — during the 1964 fiscal year.

The 10 states together received 9.7 per cent of total U. S. defense spending.

Gilmore said defense income in Colorado comes largely from Air Force missile programs, military installations, the Atomic Energy Commission, defense construction and the sale of soft goods to the military.

Gilmore lists Kansas, Colorado and Missouri as the top three defense spending areas in the basin, and said, "Defense economic activity has becime extremely important in their total economies.

"It merits careful consideration by all those who wish to forecast their regional economies and by those who wish to maintain and develop their regional economies," he said.

Total yearly spending in each state averages $400-$500 million, he said.

Gas Industry, Sales Climb to New Records

New peaks in sales and revenues were recorded by the nation's gas industry for 1964 in a continued momentum of industry growth that projects still greater gains for the future.

Sales totalled 115.6 billion therms, a 7.4 per cent increase over sales of 107.7 billion therms in 1963. They show an 89.5 per cent gain over the industry's total sales a decade ago.

It is expected that total sales in 1965 will rise to about 122 billion therms.

Industrial sales in 1964 accounted for 58.8 billion therms, an 8.2 per cent increase in the year. Residential sales of 38.1 billion therms were up 4 per cent, and commercial sales of 12.4 billion therms rose 9.4 per cent.

The gains are a result of the rising importance of gas in a diversity of energy applications, according to Guy W. Wadsworth Jr., president of American Gas Association and of Southern Counties Gas Co., Los Angeles. He said:

"The economies and efficiency of gas are being more widely recognized. Gas is strengthening its position as the prime source for home heating, in addition to being the dominant fuel for cooking. Planners of large buildings, residential and public, increasingly are turning to gas as a total energy source. The industrial applications of gas are of major importance to our economy, and the number of these uses is broadening."

Sales of natural gas, totalling 114.1 billion therms, accounted for 98.7 per cent of the total gas sales. The remaining 1.3 per cent was mostly in sales of manufactured and mixed gas.

REVENUES ARE UP 5.4 PER CENT

The 1964 revenues of $7.1 billion were 5.4 per cent greater than revenues of $6.7 billion in 1963. Residential sales accounted for $3.9 billion, a 3.5 per cent increase in the year. Industrial use brought revenues of $2.1 billion, a 7.3 per cent gain. Commercial revenues rose 7.8 per cent to $982 million.

The nation's gas utilities in 1964 carried services to 36.6 million customers, an increase of more than a million during the year. The bulk were residential customers who totalled 33.6 million, and were 2.6 per cent more than in 1963. Commercial customers numbered 2.8 million, a 5 per cent increase, and the 165,700 industrial customers were 2.5 per cent greater.

Projections indicate that the average number of customers in 1965 will rise to about 37.5 million.

RESERVES ARE AT AN ALL-TIME PEAK

Proved reserves of natural gas continue to mount although its use in homes, industry and commercial establishments is in ascending volume. The annual A.G.A. study, announced March 26, showed 12-month discoveries of 18.4 trillion cubic feet, raising the total of proved reserves to a record 276.2 trillion cubic feet.

"It is significant that the gas discovered was 3.6 trillion cubic feet greater than the volume taken out of the ground in this 12 - month period of record consumption," Mr. Wadsworth said. "When you add to the known volume the vast unproved reserves that are estimated by sound geological methods, you have a compelling picture of the industry's great potential for expansion."

INDUSTRY HAS $27.6 BILLION PLANT INVESTMENT

Gas utility and pipeline companies spent $1.8 billion in 1964 for plant improvement and expansion of services. This raised plant value of the gas industry, the nation's sixth largest in terms of plant invtstment, to a record $27.6 billion.

New plant investment in 1964 included $787 million for distribution, $639 million for transmission, $173 million for production and local storage, and $140 million for underground storage.

A total of 31,200 miles of pipelines and mains were added in the year, extending to 741,500 miles this vast underground network that carries gas from well to consumer.

The annual A.G.A. survey, announced May 13, showed a 12-month increase of 188 billion cubic feet in underground storage capacity, raising the total to 3.7 trillion cubic feet. Total underground storage represents an industry investment of $1.2 billion. The vast storage areas, engineered from natural subterranean formations, serve as "banks" to hold gas in reserve for peak winter use.

RESEARCH IS OPENING NEW DIMENSIONS

Modern research has developed the technology of liquefying natural gas for concentrated storage near to the area of use. By this method, 600 cubic feet of natural gas condense to just one cubic foot when liquefied at a temperature of 259 degrees below zero (F). Pioneering storage areas of this type are under construction in Alabama, California and New Jersey.

At the American Gas Association laboratories and other research centers, diverse studies progressed in 1964 to advance natural gas's contributions to man's well being. They covered methods for better cooking, home heating and cooling, water heating and laundry drying, and other gas applications. In foods, for example, research is developing a high - speed infrared oven for restaurant cooking of 2,240 pancakes, 1,680 hamburgers or 288 loaves of bread in just one hour.

Laboratory developments in 1964 brought the industry nearer to its long - range goal of a compact, gas - fired fuel cell sited in the home to generate electricity for all requirements. It is expected fuel-cell units will become practical for commercial use within 10 years, and that home equipment may be a reality soon after.

WORLD'S FAIR WAS INDUSTRY SHOWCASE

The New York World's Fair demonstrated to millions the advantages of gas in adding to man's comforts. Gas was the choice for 80 per cent of the Fair's space cooling, 90 per cent of its space and water heating, and 99 per cent of its cooking. At the Festival of Gas Pavilion, 2.5 million visitors witnessed the gas total energy principle at work. The principle raises fuel power to maximum efficiency by the application of advanced techniques in recovering exhaust heat. With such a system, natural gas can provide total energy, including lighting and air conditioning, for a building or complex of buildings.

The total energy application, introduced less than five years ago, was selected by an increasing number of large - scale builders in 1964. It is estimated that natural gas total energy systems now are operating in more than 200 commercial, institutional and industrial installations in the country. The largest, complettd in the year, provides all energy needs for Rochdale Village, a complex of twenty 14 - story apartments and two shopping centers in Queens, N.Y.

The decision for gas air conditioning, reflecting its dominant use at the Fair, was made at an increasing pace in 1964. At the year's end, the total cooling capacity of gas air conditioners reached 1.8 million tons, a 20 per cent increase over 1963. About 85 per cent of the load is in commercial and industrial buildings, and the rest in homes.

Boating Industry Chalks Up TopGains in '64

For the third straight year the pleasure boating industry and sport chalked up impressive gains in almost every category during 1964.

According to the annual joint statistical report compiled by the Outboard Boating Club of America and the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, 38,500,000 persons took to the nation's waterways for fun and relaxation in 7,700,000 boats of every description, in 1964.

They invested $2,605,000,000 at retail levels for new and used boats and motors, marine accessories and services, the report reveals.

The most impressive increases of the year were scored by the outboard segment of the industry. Sales of outboard motors reached 391,000 units in 1964, 29,000 more than in 1963. Outboard boat sales in 1964 totaled 270,000 units, compared with 257,000 units last year, according to the report.

Other significant data revealed by the report:

The 1964 sailboat fleet totaled 525,000 craft, an increase of 30,000 over 1963.

The inboard boat fleet accounted for 550,000 vessels in the U.S. pleasure boat fleet, compared with 5,425,000 outboard boats and 2,200,000 miscellaneous craft (canoes, rowboats, etc.).

More than 6,560,000 outboard motors churned across the nation's waterways in 1964.

Fred B. Lifton, OBC executive director, described the 1964 report as "Impressive proof that boating has definitely emerged from the slow-down period we experienced in the early 1960's." He predicted that the industry and sport would continue to enjoy "unspectacular but solid, steady growth" in 1965.

He cited a number of factors which have contributed to the new gains boating has enjoyed since 1961, including: An unprecedented period to unbroken increases in general business activity; technological advances which are making available to the boat - buying public marine equipment that is easier to operate, more reliable, more attractive and generally lower in cost; the development of more and better facilities for launching, mooring and servicing small boats; and the nationwide growth in popularity of participant sports.

"There is every reason to expect that these important trends will continue through 1965," Lifton stated. "The entire boating industry is looking forward to the coming year with greater optimism than it has in the past four years."

As an indication of the enthusiasm prevailing in the industry, Lifton pointed out that the 1965 Chicago National Boat Show, which will open in McCormick Place March 6, already is breaking records in amount of space sold, number of exhibitors and total number of products and services to be displayed.

Advertising, Sales Outlook Good for '65

Consumer advertising and sales outlook for 1965 is healthy, according to an exclusive study by the Gallagher Report.

U.S. advertisers, the study shows, plan to raise average consumer advertising budgets 12.9 per cent to generate an extimated 7.8 per cent increase in sales. Of the 332 companies or divisions responding to the survey, 64.8 per cent plan to increase budgets in 1965. 28.5 per cent will equal 1964 expenditures. Only 6.7 per cent plan cutbacks.

In the use of media, most substantial gains will be made by newspapers. Most budget increases, The Report says, are due to higher ad rates in all media. But newspapers show the smallest increase in rates — 1.2 per cent compared to spot TV (up 6 per cent), spot radio (up 5 per cent), business publications (up 3.5 per cent and consummer magazines up 2.3 per cent.

Sales will be up in every classification, with the biggest increases expected in luxury products, the survey reveals. Radios, TV sets, phonographs, musical instruments and accessories will be up 23 per cent. Sporting goods, toys, boats will be up 21.5 per cent. Jewelry, optical goods and cameras will increase 14.7 per cent. Tobacco manufacturers foresee a 12.1 per cent rise in sales of smoking materials, despite the Surgeon General's report.

The average company will allot 2.2 per cent of sales for advertising expenditures, compared to 2.1 per cent last year.

Silver Price Reported in Hands of U.S. Government

London (UPI) —The price of silver in 1965 and for several years ahead is in the hands of the U. S. government, a leading London bullion firm said Sunday

Silver's price will depend on U. S. policy towards its own subsidiary coinage. If the United States decides to maintain the silver content of its coinage then the world price will rise "very sharply and in the not too distant future.

"If it decides to have a non-silver subsidiary coinage as would appear more likely in the interests of an orderly economy within the U.S., then no great change in the price should be envisaged for several years," the Dealer's Annual Review said.

Mocatta and Goldsmid, the concern which has been the official dealer in silver bullion to the bank of England since the bank's formation in 1694, said its view was that silver now presented the United States "an intricate problem."

At present the U.S. treasury is redeeming silver certificates at $1.29 per ounce while American silver coinage reaches its melting valued at $1.38 per ounce.

"When the treasury has no more silver, or if restrictions are put on the sale of the metal or on the export of it, the world price will immediately rise to above $1.38 and the U.S. subsidiary coinage would disappear into the melting pot," Mocatta's said.

The dealers noted that a U.S. committee is due to report on this problem in February. If it recommends that coinage should in future contain a smaller quantity of silver, or none at all, and Congress passes the legislation, then the problem of assuring adequate silver supplies will be solved for many years.

If a decision is taken to have a non - silver subsidiary U. S. coinage then stocks built up in London would become very expensive to finance. This in turn could produce selling & bring down the London price to a point which would allow shipments to the United States at lower than the U. S. Treasury's selling price, the firm said.

Mocatta and Goldsmid said that a look at the statistical situation showed the industrial use of metal together with coinage requirements outside the United States exceeds new production by about 100 million ounces a year.

This year a certain speculative position has been built up and at the same time industrial users, particularly in the United States, are carrying heavier - than - usual stocks. They could account for between 50 and 100 million ounces of the treasury rundown. The dealers said the balance of silver taken from the treasury is accounted for by the U. S. mint "which has been working at fuller pressure than ever before."

Virtue Will Retire From Service Co.

William D. Virtue will retire on Jan. 1 from his post as executive vice president and treasurer of Public Service Company of Colorado.

Virtue's retirement will end a career spanning more than 45 years in Colorado's utility industry. He went to work for Denver Gas and Electric Light Company, a predecessor of Public Service Company of Colorado shortly after his graduation from the University of Missouri with a degree in electrical engineering.

The executive has been PSCo's chief financial officer ever since the company's stock was sold to the public in November, 1943, and he was named Secretary and vice president of accounting.

Since that time, securities worth more than a third of a billion dollars have been sold under his direction. In addition,, he also has had responsibility for the gas and electric operations of Public Service Company and its subsidiaries.

Virtue entered into the financial area of utility operations in 1923 and in 1928 became Chief Accountant of Public Service Company of Colorado, a position he retained until 1943, when he was made vice president, accounting, and secretary. He was named an assistant secretary in 1929, a post he filled along with that of Chief Accountant.

In 1938, Virtue was elected to the board of directors of Public Service Company of Colorado when the firm was still a subsidiary of Cities Service Company. He became a board member of the independent Public Service Company in 1948.

Carson Dollars Have Impact on Local Region

Construction dollars joined regular payrolls and purchases in 1964 to dramatize Ft. Carson's economic impact on the Pikes Peak region and Colorado.

Major building projects costing more than $14 million were completed or started in 1964 and bids were opened for a $10 million barracks complex to be built in 1965.

Expenditures for payrolls and locally-purchased supplies and services were more than $55 million in 1964. Additional millions in allotments to families of Carson military came directly to the region from Army Finance Center.

Military assigned to the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized; and Ft. Carson received $39,532,458 in pay in 1964 compared with $35,665,000 in 1963. Troop strength was approximately the same — 15,500.

Civil Service payroll increased to $8,803,560 compared with $7,115,800 in 1963. Yer-end civilian strength was 1423 compared with 1400 in 1963.

Congress voted pay raises both for military and civilians in 1964 to account for the increased pay in part.

Payroll for employes of non-appropriated activities was $1,042,534 with the Exchnge system accounting for more than half. Central Post Fund, the Fort Carson Noncommissioned Officers and Officers Cubs and Ft. Carson Dads Club accounted for the other half million in pay.

Purchases made locally through purchasing and contracting with appropriated funds were estimated at $3 million while non-appropriated outlets spent $3,214,574 locally in 1964. Each area spent one million dollars more than in 1963.

Colorado Gets Lion Share of Defense Money

Colorado is one of three states getting the lion's share of defense spending in the 10-state Missouri River Basin, a Denver economist reports in the current issue of the Colorado Business Review.

An article by John S. Gilmore, industrial economist at the Denver Research Institute, is featured this month in the CBR, a publication of the University of Colorado Bureau of Business Research.

Basin states are Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming.

Gilmore discusses spending shifts within the basin during the past decade, noting that Colorado rose from sixth in the Korean War years to its prime military contract total of $389.5 million — second only to Missouri — during the 1964 fiscal year.

The 10 states together received 9.7 per cent of total U. S. defense spending.

Gilmore said defense income in Colorado comes largely from Air Force missile programs, military installations, the Atomic Energy Commission, defense construction and the sale of soft goods to the military.

Gilmore lists Kansas, Colorado and Missouri as the top three defense spending areas in the basin, and said, "Defense economic activity has becime extremely important in their total economies.

"It merits careful consideration by all those who wish to forecast their regional economies and by those who wish to maintain and develop their regional economies," he said.

Total yearly spending in each state averages $400-$500 million, he said.

Gas Industry, Sales Climb to New Records

New peaks in sales and revenues were recorded by the nation's gas industry for 1964 in a continued momentum of industry growth that projects still greater gains for the future.

Sales totalled 115.6 billion therms, a 7.4 per cent increase over sales of 107.7 billion therms in 1963. They show an 89.5 per cent gain over the industry's total sales a decade ago.

It is expected that total sales in 1965 will rise to about 122 billion therms.

Industrial sales in 1964 accounted for 58.8 billion therms, an 8.2 per cent increase in the year. Residential sales of 38.1 billion therms were up 4 per cent, and commercial sales of 12.4 billion therms rose 9.4 per cent.

The gains are a result of the rising importance of gas in a diversity of energy applications, according to Guy W. Wadsworth Jr., president of American Gas Association and of Southern Counties Gas Co., Los Angeles. He said:

"The economies and efficiency of gas are being more widely recognized. Gas is strengthening its position as the prime source for home heating, in addition to being the dominant fuel for cooking. Planners of large buildings, residential and public, increasingly are turning to gas as a total energy source. The industrial applications of gas are of major importance to our economy, and the number of these uses is broadening."

Sales of natural gas, totalling 114.1 billion therms, accounted for 98.7 per cent of the total gas sales. The remaining 1.3 per cent was mostly in sales of manufactured and mixed gas.

REVENUES ARE UP 5.4 PER CENT

The 1964 revenues of $7.1 billion were 5.4 per cent greater than revenues of $6.7 billion in 1963. Residential sales accounted for $3.9 billion, a 3.5 per cent increase in the year. Industrial use brought revenues of $2.1 billion, a 7.3 per cent gain. Commercial revenues rose 7.8 per cent to $982 million.

The nation's gas utilities in 1964 carried services to 36.6 million customers, an increase of more than a million during the year. The bulk were residential customers who totalled 33.6 million, and were 2.6 per cent more than in 1963. Commercial customers numbered 2.8 million, a 5 per cent increase, and the 165,700 industrial customers were 2.5 per cent greater.

Projections indicate that the average number of customers in 1965 will rise to about 37.5 million.

RESERVES ARE AT AN ALL-TIME PEAK

Proved reserves of natural gas continue to mount although its use in homes, industry and commercial establishments is in ascending volume. The annual A.G.A. study, announced March 26, showed 12-month discoveries of 18.4 trillion cubic feet, raising the total of proved reserves to a record 276.2 trillion cubic feet.

"It is significant that the gas discovered was 3.6 trillion cubic feet greater than the volume taken out of the ground in this 12 - month period of record consumption," Mr. Wadsworth said. "When you add to the known volume the vast unproved reserves that are estimated by sound geological methods, you have a compelling picture of the industry's great potential for expansion."

INDUSTRY HAS $27.6 BILLION PLANT INVESTMENT

Gas utility and pipeline companies spent $1.8 billion in 1964 for plant improvement and expansion of services. This raised plant value of the gas industry, the nation's sixth largest in terms of plant invtstment, to a record $27.6 billion.

New plant investment in 1964 included $787 million for distribution, $639 million for transmission, $173 million for production and local storage, and $140 million for underground storage.

A total of 31,200 miles of pipelines and mains were added in the year, extending to 741,500 miles this vast underground network that carries gas from well to consumer.

The annual A.G.A. survey, announced May 13, showed a 12-month increase of 188 billion cubic feet in underground storage capacity, raising the total to 3.7 trillion cubic feet. Total underground storage represents an industry investment of $1.2 billion. The vast storage areas, engineered from natural subterranean formations, serve as "banks" to hold gas in reserve for peak winter use.

RESEARCH IS OPENING NEW DIMENSIONS

Modern research has developed the technology of liquefying natural gas for concentrated storage near to the area of use. By this method, 600 cubic feet of natural gas condense to just one cubic foot when liquefied at a temperature of 259 degrees below zero (F). Pioneering storage areas of this type are under construction in Alabama, California and New Jersey.

At the American Gas Association laboratories and other research centers, diverse studies progressed in 1964 to advance natural gas's contributions to man's well being. They covered methods for better cooking, home heating and cooling, water heating and laundry drying, and other gas applications. In foods, for example, research is developing a high - speed infrared oven for restaurant cooking of 2,240 pancakes, 1,680 hamburgers or 288 loaves of bread in just one hour.

Laboratory developments in 1964 brought the industry nearer to its long - range goal of a compact, gas - fired fuel cell sited in the home to generate electricity for all requirements. It is expected fuel-cell units will become practical for commercial use within 10 years, and that home equipment may be a reality soon after.

WORLD'S FAIR WAS INDUSTRY SHOWCASE

The New York World's Fair demonstrated to millions the advantages of gas in adding to man's comforts. Gas was the choice for 80 per cent of the Fair's space cooling, 90 per cent of its space and water heating, and 99 per cent of its cooking. At the Festival of Gas Pavilion, 2.5 million visitors witnessed the gas total energy principle at work. The principle raises fuel power to maximum efficiency by the application of advanced techniques in recovering exhaust heat. With such a system, natural gas can provide total energy, including lighting and air conditioning, for a building or complex of buildings.

The total energy application, introduced less than five years ago, was selected by an increasing number of large - scale builders in 1964. It is estimated that natural gas total energy systems now are operating in more than 200 commercial, institutional and industrial installations in the country. The largest, complettd in the year, provides all energy needs for Rochdale Village, a complex of twenty 14 - story apartments and two shopping centers in Queens, N.Y.

The decision for gas air conditioning, reflecting its dominant use at the Fair, was made at an increasing pace in 1964. At the year's end, the total cooling capacity of gas air conditioners reached 1.8 million tons, a 20 per cent increase over 1963. About 85 per cent of the load is in commercial and industrial buildings, and the rest in homes.

Boating Industry Chalks Up TopGains in '64

For the third straight year the pleasure boating industry and sport chalked up impressive gains in almost every category during 1964.

According to the annual joint statistical report compiled by the Outboard Boating Club of America and the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, 38,500,000 persons took to the nation's waterways for fun and relaxation in 7,700,000 boats of every description, in 1964.

They invested $2,605,000,000 at retail levels for new and used boats and motors, marine accessories and services, the report reveals.

The most impressive increases of the year were scored by the outboard segment of the industry. Sales of outboard motors reached 391,000 units in 1964, 29,000 more than in 1963. Outboard boat sales in 1964 totaled 270,000 units, compared with 257,000 units last year, according to the report.

Other significant data revealed by the report:

The 1964 sailboat fleet totaled 525,000 craft, an increase of 30,000 over 1963.

The inboard boat fleet accounted for 550,000 vessels in the U.S. pleasure boat fleet, compared with 5,425,000 outboard boats and 2,200,000 miscellaneous craft (canoes, rowboats, etc.).

More than 6,560,000 outboard motors churned across the nation's waterways in 1964.

Fred B. Lifton, OBC executive director, described the 1964 report as "Impressive proof that boating has definitely emerged from the slow-down period we experienced in the early 1960's." He predicted that the industry and sport would continue to enjoy "unspectacular but solid, steady growth" in 1965.

He cited a number of factors which have contributed to the new gains boating has enjoyed since 1961, including: An unprecedented period to unbroken increases in general business activity; technological advances which are making available to the boat - buying public marine equipment that is easier to operate, more reliable, more attractive and generally lower in cost; the development of more and better facilities for launching, mooring and servicing small boats; and the nationwide growth in popularity of participant sports.

"There is every reason to expect that these important trends will continue through 1965," Lifton stated. "The entire boating industry is looking forward to the coming year with greater optimism than it has in the past four years."

As an indication of the enthusiasm prevailing in the industry, Lifton pointed out that the 1965 Chicago National Boat Show, which will open in McCormick Place March 6, already is breaking records in amount of space sold, number of exhibitors and total number of products and services to be displayed.

Advertising, Sales Outlook Good for '65

Consumer advertising and sales outlook for 1965 is healthy, according to an exclusive study by the Gallagher Report.

U.S. advertisers, the study shows, plan to raise average consumer advertising budgets 12.9 per cent to generate an extimated 7.8 per cent increase in sales. Of the 332 companies or divisions responding to the survey, 64.8 per cent plan to increase budgets in 1965. 28.5 per cent will equal 1964 expenditures. Only 6.7 per cent plan cutbacks.

In the use of media, most substantial gains will be made by newspapers. Most budget increases, The Report says, are due to higher ad rates in all media. But newspapers show the smallest increase in rates — 1.2 per cent compared to spot TV (up 6 per cent), spot radio (up 5 per cent), business publications (up 3.5 per cent and consummer magazines up 2.3 per cent.

Sales will be up in every classification, with the biggest increases expected in luxury products, the survey reveals. Radios, TV sets, phonographs, musical instruments and accessories will be up 23 per cent. Sporting goods, toys, boats will be up 21.5 per cent. Jewelry, optical goods and cameras will increase 14.7 per cent. Tobacco manufacturers foresee a 12.1 per cent rise in sales of smoking materials, despite the Surgeon General's report.

The average company will allot 2.2 per cent of sales for advertising expenditures, compared to 2.1 per cent last year.

Crystal Gazer Has Cinch For Year 1965

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Crystal gazing is supposed to be a chancy profession. But as 1965 dawns the crystal gazer has a lead pipe cinch. He can't go wrong if he predicts:

The coming year will be a supreme disappointment to those who hope international troubles will simmer down. The possessors of nuclear overkill—the United States and the Soviet Union — have boxed themselves into a position in which they don't dare use even a tenth part of the so-called tactical nuclear weapons they might devote to settling "brush fire" troubles. Since the two big international cats have permitted "world opinion" to extract their teeth and blunt their claws, there isn't a mouse nation from Ghana to Cambodia that does not dare roar. So, in 1965—

Egypt's Nasser will huff and puff and continue to send arms to the rebels in the Congo.

Algeria's Ben Bella will not desist in his attempts to stir up trouble to the south of the Sahara, with particular encouragement to black racists who want to end "colonialism" in Portuguese Angola and Mozambique, the only places in Africa outside of Tshombe's Congo and Nigeria in which whites and blacks do not necessarily have to eye each other with suspicion.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson will continue to deny arms to South Africa because of the latter's policy of apartheid or separation of the races. But if the South Africans are hurting for lack of guns and ammunition, they will discover they can buy Czech and Soviet arms for gold.

Soviet Russia will have at least a limited 1965 food crisin that will enable the East Europan countries to take a few more liberties with their Marxist masters. But the competition of the Red Chinese will keep the pressure on Moscow to back wars for "liberation" wherever native revolutionaries succeed in fomenting them.

Red China and Soviet Russia will not be able to get together on a unified program for world Marxism. But their agents will continue with their "antagonistic cooperation" whenever there are local victories to be won against the "neo-colonial" powers.

Cambodia will make our commitment to the South Vietnamese more perilous. We will be damned if we stay in Saigon, and damned if we don't. But we will stay because we can't afford to lose what is left of our face in Korea, Japan, the Philippines, Malaysia, India, Africa, Australia, and New Zealand.

Castro will be manipulated by his nominal underling, Che Guevara, into supporting more subversion rather than less in Venezuela, Gutatemala, British Guiana, and other shaky Latin American regions.

The Afro-Asian bloc, with some exceptions will continue to use the UN as a sounding board for anti-American propaganda. The agitatio to bring Red China into the UN, with some sort of "two-China" compromise, will continue. But the Taiwan Chinese will not flinch in their resolve to make a compromise impossible. The Soviets will not really press the issue of Red Chinese inclusion for fear of having to yield their preeminent position as champion of the UN "anti-colonialisms."

One out of every five of the nation's families are now in the $10,000-and-over per year earn-class, compared with only one out of every 12 a decade ago, according to a U.S. Department of Commerce report.

The Climb Was Perfect but Clouds Ruined the Display

By C. S. DUDLEY

The AdAmAn Club made a perfect New Years Pikes Peak Climb, though one of the hardest in years, but the climbers returned to Colorado Springs sorry that weather conditions prevented them from putting on a $500 fireworks display.

At midnight, as the new year 1965 came on, a high wind was blowing snow, and clouds hung low over the summit of the mountain. Several red and green flares, of high power, were set off from bursting shells fired from mortars. Then a pause in the program was called for telephone reports to KVOR as to whether they had been seen.

There were vague reports that thy had been glimpsed, with aid of binoculars, in Fountain and in Security. That was all.

The climbers on the summit could not themselves see the bursting shells. They discerned their color, as screened through the clouds and blowing snow. The decision to put the costly pyrotcehnics back in storage boxes in the Summit House and keep them for next year's display, hoping for better atmospheric conditions, turned out to have been a wise one, for Friday and Saturday brought no reports that the test flares had been observable from distant places. They were curtained off by clouds that hung over the top of the Peak, 14,110 feet above sea level. Higher in the sky, over Colorado Springs, stars shone brightly at midnight.

"The toughest climb I have experienced in my seven years with the AdAmAn Club," Bruce said Saturday. He had made six previous ascents as a guest of the organization. Only one new member is enrolled in the club each year.

The climb to Barr's Camp Wednesday was made without much effort, Sommers said, but the Thursday climb to the summit was accomplished in subzero temperatures, with reports at times of 15 degrees below zero, and a strong wind blowing from the southwest. The temperature moderated the higher the climbers climed, and on the summit was reported to have been four degrees below zero.

But much snow was encountered. At times it was hip deep. The climbers did not take snowshoes and had to wade through these drifts. The trail was abandoned as the upper reaches of the peak were scaled for the south ridge, which was blown pretty nearly clear of snow. The summit was reached by the foremost members of the party of 26 at 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

Sommers said there were no casualties. He said that all who made the climb were experienced for the ascet and in good physical condition, and were well equipped to stand the cold and the wind.

On the other side of Pikes Peak conditions were another story. The Four Wheel Drive Association car drivers got higher up the Pikes Peak Highway than in previous years and had the climbers back in Colorado Springs at about 2:30 a.m. New Years Day.

Film-Lecture on Switzerland Great Success

ARTS CRITIC

Travelogue fans hit another jackpot over the weekend, as Phil Walker presented his color film and comments of "Incomparable Switzerland" in the Theodore Fisher Horizons Unlimited series at the Fine Arts Center, Saturday and Sunday.

In the first place, Walker is an engaging and entertaining lecturer. His narrative flows with undiminished strength from beginning to end. Thus, he transmits some of the energy which he puts into his travels and his films to the audience, so that undoubtedly the common response is: "I wish I could have gone, too."

His filming of the beauties of Switzerland amply back up the general impression that it is glorious to be a traveler. His scenic shots of Switzerland are in the best framing of the photographic art, and the shots are judiciously selected, so that one gets the full feeling of the sweep and the grandeur of the Swiss Alps.

But more than that, Walker very cleverly includes various human interest shots, such as visiting, film camera in hand, several representative Swiss families, such as a farmer, and a clergyman, to show inside views of Swiss life.

Nor are the modern, elegant cities neglected, with great emphasis upon the continental culinary and gastronomical luxuries available for travelers; nor does he neglect the more picturesque sights of ancient houses, towers, churches and similar architectural picture - postcard views.

In other words, Walker, as in his other films, again in "Switzerland" presents a beautiful cross - section of just the sights which the visitors would want to see.

Certainly his film shots of the landscape, of the Swiss villages and Swiss life are as attractive and interesting as anything that the National Geographic could dream up, and this in life film at that.

But it is for the end of the film lecture that Walker saved the most spectacular shock of all: Namely, that of making a balloon flight from Switzerland, over six mountain ranges of the Alps, into Italy, in the vicinity of Milan. To simply state this is to use fairly tame words. The balloon flight comes as quite of a shock to the armchair traveler at the film-lecture, not only the balloon flight as such, but also the fact that such a fantastic mode of travel over the jagged peaks, the icy glaciers, and the deep plunging gorges is possible at all. He accompanies this with explanations about the dangers of balloon flight, particularly when hydrogen is used, as it has to, since helium is prohibitive in cost. There should be little doubt that the audience voiced a sigh of relief when Walker completed his balloon flight, which illustrates how dramatic a travelogue can be.

Graham Lewis Services To Be in California

Funeral services for Graham Lewis, formerly of Colorado Springs, who died Friday in Garden Grove, Calif., will be held in Garden Grove, with burial there.

Mr. Lewis was born in Cripple Creek and attended school there. When he was in Colorado Springs he was associated with his father in the Lewis Drug Co. He is survived by a brother, Frank T. Lewis, of Santa Ana, Calif.

The funeral announcement is made by Our Chapel of Memories.

READY FOR BROADCAST — Members of the AdAmAn club pause on the second day of their climb up Pikes Peak to make a radio broadcast. The stop came Thursday morning shortly after the group left Barr Camp. At right are Larry Dummer and Ed Wallick, this year's new member.

NEARLY THERE—AdAmAn club members and their guests were near the summit of 14,000 ft. Pikes Peak when they stopped for a short rest. Here Bob Ellingwood, trail master for the 1964 climb, looks back to make sure the party is sticking together. The temperature at this time was 8 above zero and the wind blowing at approximately 30 miles an hour. In the background is the Seven Lakes area and Mt. Almagre.

Scouts End Year Here With Record Enrollment

A record enrollment of boys registered in the Pikes Peak Council, Boy Scouts of America was shown at the end of the year 1964. In the Colorado Springs area, 66 per cent of all boys between the ages of 8 and 17 years of age were registered in one of the three programs of the Boy Scouts of America.

A total of 10,700 boys and adult leaders were registered in the local Scout Council during the past year. In the Colorado Springs area, 12,000 boys between the ages of 8 and 17 years were eligible to become members of the Cub Scout program for boys 8 to 11 years; for the Boy Scouts, 11 to 13 years; or Exploring for young men, 14 to 17 years. 9101 boys were registered on the official records at Boy Scout Headquarters during the year 1964.

In the Fall Round Up for new boys, which started September 1 and ended December 31, more than 2000 new boys were registered in the Boy Scout program. Dr. Lee Steele, Chairman of the Fall Round Up Committee announced "the Fall Round Up exceeded the goal by 200 boys."

Practically every one of the 157 Packs, Troops and Posts registered exceeded its Round Up goal.

At the end of the year, more than 2500 adult leaders, including 600 Den Mothers for Cub Scouts, were registered.

Mark Wild, Chairman of the Long Range Program committee for the Scout Council, announced that plans are already being made to register at least 2,000 additional boys in the Scouting program for 1965. The Scout Council should register at least 40 additional Packs, Troops and Posts immediately in order to accommodate the tremendous number of boys who will be eligible for Scouting next year.

"Every neighborhood in the seven counties of the Pikes Peak Council now has Cub Scout Packs registered," Wild said. However, there are many locations where troops and Explorer Posts are needed.

Dr. Arthur Olson, Deputy Superintendent of Schools for District 11, and a special committee of the Boy Scout Executive Board, have been authorized to make an immediate study of sponsoring institutions where additional Boy Scout and Explorer units can be organized.

Funds for the administration of the Boy Scout Program in Colorado Springs area are provided by the United Fund, members of the 100 Club and sustaining members.

The cost of administering the Scouting program averages about $10 per boy per year. Boys pay their own way for attendance at summer camp, for their own uniforms, and expenses incurred within their individual Packs and Troops by payment of weekly dues.

Every boy who desires to become a member of the Boy Scouts of America, regardless of race, creed, or financial status is eligible. "Our greatest problem is to provide sponsoring institutions and sufficient administrative funds to provide an outstanding program for the thousands of boys who look to the adults to provide the trained leadership and facilities" Wild stated.

"The Pikes Peak Scout Council was organized and chartered in 1916. For nearly 50 years, the citizens of the Pikes Peak Region have shown the finest possible cooperation in helping to develop the nation's leading Scout Council, here in Colorado Springs", Col. Howard H. Cloud, Jr., President of the local Scout Council, stated.

WASHINGTON (Special to the Gazette Telegraph) — Pentagon is expected to take a strongly worded support in Congress for favorable action on the long - pending Bolte Recommendations. The recommendations would simplify promotion of officers on active duty but the real meat of the proposal is the requirement that all retirement be in grades in which a stated amount of active duty has been performed by the individual. This would bring to an end retirement in ROPA grades of active duty Reserve officers, which is taking a slice out of the retirement budget.

The Navy is hopeful that the next Congress will approve the proposal to give naval personnel carrier flight deck jobs that fall into the "hazardous duty" category. The proposal calls for an extra $110 monthly pay for officers and $55 monthly for enlisted men.

Efforts will also be made in 1965 to have Congress exempt from federal taxes survivors' benefits under the Retired Serviceman's Act.

Rear Adm. Edward J. O'Donnell has been named superintendent of the USN Postgraduate School at Monterey, Calif. He is to replace Rear Adm. Charles K. Bergin who died Dec. 6. It is expected that Adm. O'Donnell will report to Monterey on Jan. 20. It is recalled that Adm. O'Donnell commanded at Guantanamo base during the 1962 set to with Castro.

Lt. Col. William J. Driver, Army Reserve, and a career employe of the Veterans Administration for the past 16 years, has been named administrator of the VA by President Johnson. He will succeed Maj. Gen. John S. Gleason, Army Reserve, on Jan. 1 when the latter returns to Chicago. Driver came into the VA as a member of Gen. Bradley's "task force" to reorganize and modernize the Veteran's Administration, and stayed on as a career man.

Rumors here that the swan song of Air Force Gen. Curtis LeMay will be directed at the ending of the organice air support contained in the Army are not taken too seriously. While his exit may contain some objections to the Army having air mobility, he may even write a book on this after retirement, informed sources discount any possibility that the Army will come out second best.

There may be some delay in the transfer of the Defense Information School from Ft. Slocum to its new home at Ft. Benjamin Harrison due to delay in the installation of new radio-TV equipment in the school at Ft. Benjamin Harrison. The school at Ft. Slocum has been scheduled to close down July 1 and re-open at Ft. Harrison Oct. 1.

The comptroller general has ruled that the secretary of the Navy can cancel an order for an administrative discharge at any time before it is delivered to the individual.

Some service families in making a change of station have been forced to live several days in motels until they can find permanent living quarters. The dislocation allowance is insufficient to cover this extra expense. Defense may ask Congress to authorize a "lodging allowance" to care for such situations in 1965.

The comptroller general has ruled that an enlisted man and non-regular officer, on active duty, will be entitled to per diem pay while at a temporary duty station awaiting discharge from his active duty status.

Under present law women in uniform can only hold assignments in the National Guard as nurses and medical specialists. This will stop any effort to transfer the WAC's from the Reserve into the National Guard when the merger is made. Look to see the National Guard Bureau ask for legal authority to have WAC's in the National Guard.

While the closing out of military installations will lose hospital facilities that could care for military retirees, it is expected that this loss will be compensated for by the inclusion in all new hospital construction of a definite number of beds for retirees and their dependents. There even may be some expanding of existing medical facilities to provide extra bed allocations for retirees.

Natural Trees Still Used By Most Families in Area

By HERMAN SCHEIDING
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Now, with the holiday season at an end, most persons are looking coldly on those brightly decorated small pines, spruces, or balsams in their homes that served as Christmas trees.

Many of them are probably wondering — as they face the problem of disposal, "was it worth all the trouble" or "wouldn't an artificial tree be better for next year"

According to Don Young of Canon City, district state forester, a decorated tree at Christmas, whether it is an artificial a natural spruce or pine, is part of the Yule tradition, and is likely to remain so for some time.

Just before Christmas, Young contacted 125 families in Colorado Springs and found that 87 per cent or 109 of them had Christmas trees in their homes. Young stated that those who did not have trees were older couples, single persons, or families who would be gone for the holidays.

Young conducted the survey, under the supervision of John Hunt, forest recreation specialist, for the Utah State Forest Sevice, which is attempting to determine the impact of artificial Christmas trees on the market in the intermountain region.

Of those families with trees, Young discovered that 75 per cent, or 82 families, had natural trees, which indicates that approximately one in every four families in the Colorado Springs area had artificial trees this past Christmas.

The district forester said most of those with artificial trees were owned by older couples who said they enjoyed the convenience of not having to go out each year to buy a fresh tree.

Tradition was the reason given by most families who bought natural trees instead of the artificial variety. Some families said they selected a natural tree because of its fragrance, a few because they felt natural trees were more attractive, and a small number because they believed that type of tree was more economical.

The largest single reason given by those who had bought artificial trees was that they believed the trees to be more economical. Other reasons were that artificial trees were more safe, clean, and attractive. Two persons said they were allergic to natural trees, and had to use artificial trees in their homes.

Only ten of those who had natural trees said they anticipated purchasing artificial trees in the next five years, because they believed those trees were more economical and safe.

No matter what type of tree the family owned, most Christmas trees were set up in living rooms or recreation rooms. Only two were in other places, one in a hall, and another in an upstairs room.

The average cost for natural trees by the Colorado Springs residents was $4, with a large number, at least ten per cent, Young said, cutting their own in national forests, as provided by the United States Forest Service Christmas tree program.

"It was surprising to me," Young said, "that such a large percentage of people had artificial trees. However, the survey does indicate that the natural tree holds a sentiment at Christmas, and will be part of the Yule tradition for a long time to come."

The Climb Was Perfect but Clouds Ruined the Display

By C. S. DUDLEY

The AdAmAn Club made a perfect New Years Pikes Peak Climb, though one of the hardest in years, but the climbers returned to Colorado Springs sorry that weather conditions prevented them from putting on a $500 fireworks display.

At midnight, as the new year 1965 came on, a high wind was blowing snow, and clouds hung low over the summit of the mountain. Several red and green flares, of high power, were set off from bursting shells fired from mortars. Then a pause in the program was called for telephone reports to KVOR as to whether they had been seen.

There were vague reports that thy had been glimpsed, with aid of binoculars, in Fountain and in Security. That was all.

The climbers on the summit could not themselves see the bursting shells. They discerned their color, as screened through the clouds and blowing snow. The decision to put the costly pyrotcehnics back in storage boxes in the Summit House and keep them for next year's display, hoping for better atmospheric conditions, turned out to have been a wise one, for Friday and Saturday brought no reports that the test flares had been observable from distant places. They were curtained off by clouds that hung over the top of the Peak, 14,110 feet above sea level. Higher in the sky, over Colorado Springs, stars shone brightly at midnight.

"The toughest climb I have experienced in my seven years with the AdAmAn Club," Bruce said Saturday. He had made six previous ascents as a guest of the organization. Only one new member is enrolled in the club each year.

The climb to Barr's Camp Wednesday was made without much effort, Sommers said, but the Thursday climb to the summit was accomplished in subzero temperatures, with reports at times of 15 degrees below zero, and a strong wind blowing from the southwest. The temperature moderated the higher the climbers climed, and on the summit was reported to have been four degrees below zero.

But much snow was encountered. At times it was hip deep. The climbers did not take snowshoes and had to wade through these drifts. The trail was abandoned as the upper reaches of the peak were scaled for the south ridge, which was blown pretty nearly clear of snow. The summit was reached by the foremost members of the party of 26 at 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

Sommers said there were no casualties. He said that all who made the climb were experienced for the ascet and in good physical condition, and were well equipped to stand the cold and the wind.

On the other side of Pikes Peak conditions were another story. The Four Wheel Drive Association car drivers got higher up the Pikes Peak Highway than in previous years and had the climbers back in Colorado Springs at about 2:30 a.m. New Years Day.

Film-Lecture on Switzerland Great Success

ARTS CRITIC

Travelogue fans hit another jackpot over the weekend, as Phil Walker presented his color film and comments of "Incomparable Switzerland" in the Theodore Fisher Horizons Unlimited series at the Fine Arts Center, Saturday and Sunday.

In the first place, Walker is an engaging and entertaining lecturer. His narrative flows with undiminished strength from beginning to end. Thus, he transmits some of the energy which he puts into his travels and his films to the audience, so that undoubtedly the common response is: "I wish I could have gone, too."

His filming of the beauties of Switzerland amply back up the general impression that it is glorious to be a traveler. His scenic shots of Switzerland are in the best framing of the photographic art, and the shots are judiciously selected, so that one gets the full feeling of the sweep and the grandeur of the Swiss Alps.

But more than that, Walker very cleverly includes various human interest shots, such as visiting, film camera in hand, several representative Swiss families, such as a farmer, and a clergyman, to show inside views of Swiss life.

Nor are the modern, elegant cities neglected, with great emphasis upon the continental culinary and gastronomical luxuries available for travelers; nor does he neglect the more picturesque sights of ancient houses, towers, churches and similar architectural picture - postcard views.

In other words, Walker, as in his other films, again in "Switzerland" presents a beautiful cross - section of just the sights which the visitors would want to see.

Certainly his film shots of the landscape, of the Swiss villages and Swiss life are as attractive and interesting as anything that the National Geographic could dream up, and this in life film at that.

But it is for the end of the film lecture that Walker saved the most spectacular shock of all: Namely, that of making a balloon flight from Switzerland, over six mountain ranges of the Alps, into Italy, in the vicinity of Milan. To simply state this is to use fairly tame words. The balloon flight comes as quite of a shock to the armchair traveler at the film-lecture, not only the balloon flight as such, but also the fact that such a fantastic mode of travel over the jagged peaks, the icy glaciers, and the deep plunging gorges is possible at all. He accompanies this with explanations about the dangers of balloon flight, particularly when hydrogen is used, as it has to, since helium is prohibitive in cost. There should be little doubt that the audience voiced a sigh of relief when Walker completed his balloon flight, which illustrates how dramatic a travelogue can be.

The comptroller general has ruled that an enlisted man and non-regular officer, on active duty, will be entitled to per diem pay while at a temporary duty station awaiting discharge from his active duty status.

Under present law women in uniform can only hold assignments in the National Guard as nurses and medical specialists. This will stop any effort to transfer the WAC's from the Reserve into the National Guard when the merger is made. Look to see the National Guard Bureau ask for legal authority to have WAC's in the National Guard.

While the closing out of military installations will lose hospital facilities that could care for military retirees, it is expected that this loss will be compensated for by the inclusion in all new hospital construction of a definite number of beds for retirees and their dependents. There even may be some expanding of existing medical facilities to provide extra bed allocations for retirees.

Natural Trees Still Used By Most Families in Area

By HERMAN SCHEIDING
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Now, with the holiday season at an end, most persons are looking coldly on those brightly decorated small pines, spruces, or balsams in their homes that served as Christmas trees.

Many of them are probably wondering — as they face the problem of disposal, "was it worth all the trouble" or "wouldn't an artificial tree be better for next year"

According to Don Young of Canon City, district state forester, a decorated tree at Christmas, whether it is an artificial a natural spruce or pine, is part of the Yule tradition, and is likely to remain so for some time.

Just before Christmas, Young contacted 125 families in Colorado Springs and found that 87 per cent or 109 of them had Christmas trees in their homes. Young stated that those who did not have trees were older couples, single persons, or families who would be gone for the holidays.

Young conducted the survey, under the supervision of John Hunt, forest recreation specialist, for the Utah State Forest Sevice, which is attempting to determine the impact of artificial Christmas trees on the market in the intermountain region.

Of those families with trees, Young discovered that 75 per cent, or 82 families, had natural trees, which indicates that approximately one in every four families in the Colorado Springs area had artificial trees this past Christmas.

The district forester said most of those with artificial trees were owned by older couples who said they enjoyed the convenience of not having to go out each year to buy a fresh tree.

Tradition was the reason given by most families who bought natural trees instead of the artificial variety. Some families said they selected a natural tree because of its fragrance, a few because they felt natural trees were more attractive, and a small number because they believed that type of tree was more economical.

The largest single reason given by those who had bought artificial trees was that they believed the trees to be more economical. Other reasons were that artificial trees were more safe, clean, and attractive. Two persons said they were allergic to natural trees, and had to use artificial trees in their homes.

Only ten of those who had natural trees said they anticipated purchasing artificial trees in the next five years, because they believed those trees were more economical and safe.

No matter what type of tree the family owned, most Christmas trees were set up in living rooms or recreation rooms. Only two were in other places, one in a hall, and another in an upstairs room.

The average cost for natural trees by the Colorado Springs residents was $4, with a large number, at least ten per cent, Young said, cutting their own in national forests, as provided by the United States Forest Service Christmas tree program.

"It was surprising to me," Young said, "that such a large percentage of people had artificial trees. However, the survey does indicate that the natural tree holds a sentiment at Christmas, and will be part of the Yule tradition for a long time to come."

QUESTION Must I repay an old friend and make right my stealing from him in order to enter heaven? —H. R.

ANSWER: Making amends for wrong deeds is an effect of being a Christian, not the cause. We are saved through the merits of Christ, and not by our deeds of righteousness. However, our Lord said". . . If thou bring they gift before the altar, and rememberest that they brother hath ought against thee, leavy they gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer they gift." (Mat 5:23, 24).

Christ is here speaking to His disciples, those who had chosen to follow Him. He is pointing out the importance of right-relationships with our fellow men. No person can worship God with a heart filled with resentment, a consciousness of evil in the heart, or sin in the life. He is here saying that worship is fruitless if our relationships with our fellow men are wrong. We can't be right with God and wrong with man.

But to enter the kingdom of God, you must first receive Christ. Then, making things right with your friend will follow your acceptance of the Savior. In other words, you don't confess to your neighbor your wrongdoing in order to be saved. You make the matter right because you are saved. Since God has made your heart right, it is up to you to set your affairs right.

Cardinals Clip Packers To Capture Playoff Bowl

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI (AP) — Billy (Peanut) Gambrell, one of the mallet player in the National Football League, made himself a big target for Charley Johnson's psses and the St. Louis Cardinals upset the favored Green Bay Packers in the Pro Playoff Bowl Sunday 24-17.

The 167-pound Gambrell, a free agent picked up by the Cardinals from South Carolina, caught two touchdown passes from Johnson, one an 80-yard play, as the Cardinals took a 17-3 lead in the third quarter.

A Green Bay attack in the final period put the Packers back into contention, but the threat died with Jimmy Burson's end zone interception of Paul Hornung's pass meant for Ron Kramer.

Gmbrell who had seen regular service only since mid-season when Sonny Randall was injured, was voted the most valuable player. He caught six passes for 184 yards, setting a playoff bowl record.

It was the first victory for the East in the game of NFL runners-up.

"We looked like we were sleep walking," growled Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi. "We came out of the huddle like we were dying."

The Packers, six-point favorites, moved into an early 3-0 lead on a 40-yard field goal by Paul Hornung.

In the second quarter, Gambrell got behind Jesse Whittenton, caught Johnson's perfectly placed pass over his shoulder at the Green Bay 48 and raced in for the initial touchdown.

Johnson took the Cardinals in twice in the third quarter for a field goal and a touchdown for a 17-3 margin.

A 28-yard pass from Johnson to Gambrell put St. Louis on the Green Bay seven, but when Bill Thornton was stopped at the one on his third rush, Jim Bakken was called in to kick the seven-yard field goal.

The Cardinals, who had held Green Bay passer Bart Starr in check with a fierce blitz, threw the Packers back from their own 25 to the 14 after the next kickoff and set up the second touchdown.

After the kickout to the Packer 47, Johnson ran for 15, hit Thornton for 11 and Conrad for seven, then threw 10 yards to Gambrell for the score.

Green Bay's first touchdown came easily. Burson fumbled a punt to Elijah Pitts at the St. Louis 16 and Jim Taylor got across in two plays.

Another St. Louis drive highlighted by a 49-yard pass from Johnson to Gambrell was killed by a fumble after the Cardinals reached the Packer six. Lee Roy Caffey knocked Johnson looose from the ball and recovered.

On the next play, Starr suffered his first interception after 251 throws. Jerry Stovall picked it off and ran 30 yards for a touchdown to make it 24-10.

Green bay got back in range on a one-yard touchdown lunge by Taylor after a drive in which Starr hit Taylor with a 48-yard pass. Pat Fischer stopped Taylor from groin diving stop.

With the Packers needing only a touchdown to get even, ray Nitschke gave them the chance by grabbing a Johnson pass at midfield and running back to the 23. But Burson's interception saved the game.

Undefeated Hoosiers Walk Into Illini's Den

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Back home again in Indiana — that's where the Hoosiers may wish they were tonight.

Indiana, one of the two remaining unbeaten major teams in the country, goes up against Big Ten foe Illinois in the Assembly Hall at Champaign and, as any good Illini can tell you, it's quite a job to beat Illinois at home.

Take defending national champion UCLA for example. The Uclans, making a run at collegiate basketball's top rung with an eight-game winning streak, went into Champaign early in the season and the Illini raced off to a 110-83 victory.

UCLA got out of town fast and hasn't lost since. Last week the defending champs won three games and that's considerably better than some of the other ranked teams did.

Michigan, No. 1 team in the country, barely beat Princeton with a late rally and then blew a 16-point bulge to lose the ECAC Holiday Festival in New York to St. John's 75-74.

St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, ranked No. 10, wrought a bit of havoc in the Quaker City Classic, beating first No. 6 Illinois 75-71 and then No. 2 Wichita 76-69 to take the title. Just as the Hawks looked ready to start scoring, up popped that other unbeaten team, Providence, to score a 65-61 victory.

That gave the Friars eight straight victories, one less than Indiana.

The Hoosiers, who were ranked No. 7 last week, whacked ninth-ranked St. Louis 98-68 and then belted Memphis State 91-68.

Illinois, which beat Wisconsin last month in the only Big Ten game played so far this season, moved into its brand new 16,000 seat home arena for good last season and ran up a 7-3 record. That's not bad for a club which was only 13-11 over-all. This year the Illini have won all three starts at home including the big one against UCLA

And while Illinois and Indians clash in the Big Ten's first important game, Michigan, licking its wounds after its Holiday Festival jolt, promises to be a factor in the upcoming league race too.

"We have to work," said Coach Dave Strack. "This tourney was just what we needed to get ready for what we want now — The Big Ten. We'll be back next week and we'll be better than ever."

Strack will have ample chance to prove his point Saturday when the Illinois visits Ann Arbor for another key game. Indiana hosts Northwestern the same night.

In other important games tonight. Wichita is at Bradley, Wisconsin plays at Iowa, Louisville hosts Drake, Kansas visits Nebraska, Tulsa is at St. Louis and Seattle is at Idaho State.

Palmer Returns to Meet Glads

Palmer and Widefield inaugurate 1965 and the second round of City Hockey League action today at 8:15 p.m.. at Broadmoor's World Arena.

The Terror skaters are defending champions, but split in their first four games this year. Cheyenne Mountain stands in first place at 4-0, with Wasson second at 3-1.

Widefield is fielding its first high school team and has had its troubles. The Gladiators have yet to score a goal in four games. But Don Hanson's icers have improved on defense in the last two games and could jar the teeth of a few wings in the next four outings.

Fountain Valley, the fifth member of the league, has a 1-3 mark.

Cheyenne boasts the three best scorers in the league. Twins Don and Doug Heyliger each have six goals and five assists. Center Jeff Thatcher is in third with three goals and seven assists.

Newell Weed of Fountain Valley is fourth with three goals and five assists. Top Wasson scorer is Bruce Mahanke, with five goals and two assists. Palmer's best is John Laxson with four goals and a pair of assists.

Wasson goalies John Wendt, one of two goaltenders the Thunderbirds use, has allowed one goal in 1 2-3 games. Rick Spencer, the other tender, has given up six goals in 2 1-3 games. Cheyenne's Sandy Dee, the leading tender of the four full-time goalies, has seen five goals slip past in four games.

Cheyenne, which broke for Christmas after beating Palmer, gets its second straight test for the No. 1 spot Wednesday against Wasson. Thursday Fountain Valley returns to play Widefield.

The eight jockeys who have ridden more than 3,000 winners are John Longden, Willie Shoemaker, Steve Brooks, Eddie Arcaro, Ted Atkinson,, Ralph Neves, John Adams and Bill Hartack.

Ullman Leads Detroit Win Despite Red Eye

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Norm Ullman's batting eye appeared none the worse for wear today but the Detroit Red Wings were seeing red.

Ullman fired two goals — his 17th and 18th of the National Hockey League season — Sunday night as Detroit bombed the Boston Bruins 8-1. Red Wings Coach Sid Abel, however, was still seething over the eye gash his scoring star received the previous night in a collision with Toronto defenseman Carl Brewer.

"It's a disgrace what Brewer gets away with," Abel fumed after the Wings' 3-1 loss to the Maple Leafs at Tronto Saturday.

"Let's say his face ran into my stick," was Brewer's account.

"Blood was drawn and I guess there should have been a five-minute penalty, but the referee said he didn't see it," said Ullman, whose goals total is second only to record-bent Bobby Hull of Chicago.

Hull netted his 32nd of the season — 18 short of the NHL season mark he shares with Marice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion — but the Montreal Canadiens snapped the Black Hawks' 13-game unbeaten skein 2-1 on Claude Provost's third-period breakaway goal.

The Maple Leafs and New York Rangers battled to a 3-3 tie in a game which may have cost injury-plagued Toronto the services of center Dave Keon. Keon suffered a deep skate cut inside his right thigh in the closing minutes and the wound required 10 stitches.

The Leafs played without their right-wing corps of Andy Bathgate, Ron Ellis and George Armstrong, all of whom are ailing.

Ullman's two goals and a pair by Bruce MacGregor led Detroit's 56-shot barrage on Boston goalie Ed Johnston, who made 43 saves in the Bruins' 3-1 setback at Montreal Saturday. Ullman has tallied in five successive games while MacGregor's 12 goals are a career high for the young redhead.

Pit Martin, Alex Delvecchio, Ron Murphy and Ted Lindsay completed the rout. Tom Williams connected for the last-place Bruins.

Montreal's come-from-behind victory at Chicago boosted the Canadiens' league lead to three points over the second-place Black Hawks. Afted rookie Yvan Cournoyer matched Hull's second-period goal, Provost broke loose in the final period while Chicago had a man advantage.

Montreal's Claude Larose was sitting out a penalty when Provost intercepted the puck at the Hawks' blue line, skated in unmolested on goalie denis DeJordy and snapped the tie.

Chicago's Eric Nesterenko was involved in two fights, drawing major penalties for tangling first with John Ferguson, then with Dave Balon.

Jean Ratelle's third-period goal pulled New York from behind after Britt Selby, brought up from the Maple Leafs' Toronto Marlboros junior club to help the depleted right-wing situation, had scored his first NHL goal.

Rod Gilbert and Earl Ingarfield also scored for the Rangers. Jim Pappin and Tim Horton countered for the Leafs, Horton's bounding shot from center ice eluding goalie Jacques Plante in the last minute of the middle period.

NCAA Ready to Meet Pros

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National and American Football Leagues, heading for court battles over two college players, plan no disciplinary action against Minnesota and Houston for signing four Oklahoma gridders before their college eligibility expired.

A larger problem confronting the belligerent pro leagues, though, could be whether they plan to co-operate with the schools and each other in eliminating the practices that have aroused the wrath of college officials.

Executive Director Walter Byers of the National Collegiate Athletic Association is hopeful but also realistic about the prospects of co-operation.

"We have urged these people to set their drafts back until after Jan. 1, but they have refused to do it," Byers told the Associated Press Sunday night. "We've met with them before but not with both leagues together as far as I know. To my knowledge we've never had them in the same room together."

Byers was talking about the possibility of a joint meeting at next week's NCAA convention in Chicago. Both leagues have indicated they would have representatives at the meetings.

The NCAA's concern stems from the signing of four Oklahoma players before the Sooners' Gator Bowl clash with Florida State Saturday. The AFL Houston Oilers signed tackle Ralph Neely, who later also signed with Dallas of the National League.

The Minnesota Vikings of the NFL signed fullback Jim Grisham, receiver Lance Rentzel and end Wes Skidgel.

After The AP learned the NFL would take no action against the Vikings, Assistant Commissioner Milt Woodard said the AFL also would not penalize the Oilers.

Under the AFL's by-laws, Woodard explained, the league definitely would approve Houston's contract with Neely.

"We inherited our by-laws and regulations from the NFL," Woodard said. "Both leagues allow the signing of a player once he is drafted in the selection meeting. The NFL states very specifically that a boy can sign after he is drafted although he cannot play with a club that year.

"We have to go along with that concept. If we have different rules, we're in trouble. We've got to compete with these people."

In the opinion of college officials, the leagues also must co-operate with each other.

Woodard said the AFL is ready to do just that. Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL was not .. available for comment.

"I think it would be healthy to eliminate this situation," Woodard said. "I think both leagues would have to get together and change their by-laws to eliminate it. If a suggestion is made to change the by-laws, we would co-operate fully as long as we have equity.

"But we cannot do it by ourselves. The NFL would have to go along."

The leagues apparently will get their chance to co-operate at the NCAA convention. Committees of the NCAA and the American Football Coaches Association will meet to discuss the matter of early signings and other subjects of interest to the pros and colleges.

"The only good answer," the NCAA's Byers said, "is if both leagues would agree not to draft players until after Jan. 1 and not to draft a player who has football eligibility remaining. That would solve 95 to 98 per cent of the problem."

Under the present system, both leagues can draft redshirts, players whose original classes will graduate the following June but who have one year of college eligibility left.

One such case was All-America tackle Jim Wilson of Georgia. He was drafted in 1963, then signed a contract with Boston of the AFL before last season and played the entire season for Georgia. He became the season's first double signer when he put his name on an NFL San Francisco contract after the Sun Bowl.

Neely signed with Houston Dec. 1, then decided against playing for the Oilers and signed with the Cowboys of the NFL last Friday after he had been declared ineligible for the Gator Bowl.

Both the Wilson and the Neely cases appear headed for court. They would be the first legal battles since the AFL won three cases before the 1960 season involving Billy Cannon and Johnny Robinson of Louisiana State and Charlie Flowers of Mississippi. Those have been the only court cases between the two leagues.

The Neely and Wilson cases, however, wouldn't necessarily reach the legal battle stage until next summer when they would begin practicing with one of the teams.

"If a boy went with a certain club," Woodard explained, "the other team would have to go into court and get a restraining order."

Although there have been no other double signings, there apparently have been other early signings, technical as they might have been.

Four Florida State players, witnesses by a nationwide television audience, signed contracts with AFL teams 15 seconds before the game was over. All-America end Fred Biletnikoff joined Oakland while quarterback Steve Tensi, end Don Floyd and center Jack Edwards signed with San Diego.

"It looked like a New Orleans slave market over 100 years ago," said Coach Dave Nelson of Delaware.

Pirates Post Sixth Win; Play Mt. Carmel Tuesday

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Before Dan Wright's Buccaneers open a two-game weekend stand against the top candidates for the Denver Parochial League pennant, the St. Mary's basketballers journey north Tuesday for a loop encounter with Mt. Carmel.

The St. Mary's Mt. Carmel game is scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday at the St. Joseph's Gymnasium in Denver. The Pirates play host to Regis and Mullen this weekend starting with the Raiders on Friday and tangling with Mullen on Saturday.

CLOBBERS PIRATE CAGER—Rich McGilvery, Cathedral's rugged guard, clobbers St. Mary's scoring ace Tom McCarthy during Sunday's Denver Parochial League opener in Colorado Springs. McGilvery looks as though he is going for McCarthy's eye blasses but the Cathedral guard is actually attempting to get the ball from the Pirate flash. The Pirates dumped Cathedral, 57-42, for their sixth win of the season.

Wright's chargers picked up two wins last weekend, defeating the defending State AA champion Salida, 51-46, last Saturday while the Pirates eked out their DPL campaign opener win over a weak Cathedral five, 57-42, Sunday on their home court.

Tom McCatthy, the Bucs leading scorer going into Saturday's outing via a 19.5 points per average clip, spearheaded the St. Mary's win against Salida with a 20-point performance.

However, it was the Pirates' pivot Tom Socha which enables the St. Mary's aggregation to topple the aroused Bluejays in Sunday's outing. Socha pumped in 15 points to lead the Bucs in scoring and the 6-2 junior controlled the backboards which enabled the Pirates to come from behind to post their sixth victory.

Socha pulled down 13 rebounds to give the Pirates a commanding edge in rebounding. McCarthy scored 11 points and Sam Zavatti hit for 10 points to round out the Pirate cagers scoring in the double figures.

The Pirates had difficulties finding the net in the first half of Sunday's contest as the local team had to come from behind to take a 21-19 lead at intermission. Joe Jezek came off the bench to spark the flat Pirates offense as the junior guard scored two quick buckets to push the Pirates ahead in the third period.

Along with Socha, Jezek and Zavatti's scoring the Pirates raced to a 21-point advantage before Wright cleared his bench to give the St. Mary's reserves a chance to play.

In that torrid scoring third period, the Pirates dumped in 22 points and put the game on ice with a 14-point performance in the final period.

Buffs Open Big Eight Cage Race at Columbia

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kansas's Big Eight Holiday Tourney champions open the league title race at Lincoln tonight against Nebraska, last-place team in the tournament. But it isn't a cinch for the Jayhawks. Nebraska has a perfect record at home this season, including an upset of top-ranked Michigan.

Colorado, runner-up in the tourney, opens with Missouri, its 65-61 semifinal victim, at Columbia, where the Tigers upset St. Louis. Chances for upsets seem slim in the other two games tonight — Oklahoma at Kansas State and Oklahoma State at Iowa State.

It isn't true the conference tournament means nothing in predicting the title race, although the tourney champion went on to the title only eight times in 18 years. Last week's tourney convinced most onlookers that Kansas and K-State deserved their ranking as co-favorites.

Both have young talented players who may be expected to improve during the season as much as the other clubs, if not more. Kansas takes a five-game winning streak and an 8-3 record into the race. K-State stands 7-4, including a 54-52 loss to Kansas in the semifinals and a four-point loss to unbeaten Indiana.

The Jayhawks, under new coach Ted Owens, gained extra confidence by winning the crown although 6-foot-11 Walt Wesley was held to 40 points in three games and missed much of the last half in the title game, a 53-51 squeeker past Colorado.

Owens is only the third freshman coach to win the tourney in its 19-year history. The Huskers were a disappointment in the tourney and Coach Joe Cipriano is certain to have them ready for tonight.

Kansas hasn't lost in Lincoln since the memoriable 1958 games.

In that one a tiny guard, Jim Kubacki, was in street clothes when the game started but talked the coach into a uniform late in the game when the Huskers got into foul trouble against Wilt Chamberlain and company. He got the winning goal a few seconds before the gun. The final was 43-41.

Missouri's rugged Ned Monsees, the tourney rebound champion, and his teammates will be rested for the Buffaloes this time. The Tigers lack depth and height. Colorado played steady ball throughout the tourney.

K-State's 6-foot-10 Roy Smith encouraged Tex Winter with his progress on offense during the tourney. The Wildcats should have little trouble with undersized OU. Hank Iba lacks only a good big man in his title bid with a veteran club but his OSU club has more size than Iowa State.

Kansas Publicity Man Dies After Accident

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Don Pierce Athletic Memorial Fund for a scholarship to a high school athlete of high character has been established in memory of the University of Kansas sports publicist who died Sunday.

Pierce, 45, served the past 20 years in the KU post, was the Big Eight Conference historian and one of the nation's top track experts.

He never regained consciousness after his head and neck were injured in a highway accident near Lawrence, Kan., New Year's Eve. His wife, Vivian, 43, is in fair condition at the Lawrence Hospital.

The KU Medical Center here, where he died, said it had never received such a volume of calls and wires about a patient. The family asked for memorial fund contributions in lieu of flowers. Funeral services will be at 3 p.m. Tuesday at Grace Episcopal Cathedral in Topeka, Kan.

The scholarship will go to a high school athlete who succeeded with character and competitive heart despite handicaps. Pierce was an all-Big Six linebacker and center on a last-place Kansas team in 1940 despite wearing goggles because of poor vision. This was his own harsh appraisal:

"I was so blind I couldn't make out the face of the other team's punter. I wore goggles, had asthma, hay fever, bad feet and couldn't outrun a hawg."

He made a deal with owner Dan Topping of the old Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League to split the cost of a pair of contact lenses. He was traded in 1943 to the Chicago Cardinals, who released him in mid-season.

The big, friendly cigar-chomping Pierce, called The Whate by sportswriters, was a humorist, much of it directed at himself. He often pretended to be a bumpkin. At a Los Angeles sports gathering he once said "I'd have been here sooner but I ran out of kite string.

"You know I use it to mark my way from my hotel room to the elevator."

"He simply was Mr. Jayhawk to us," said Bill Easton, track coach.

He started with the Topeka State Journal in 1938 while in KU and worked for the Topeka Capitol, Oklahoma City Oklahoman, the old Kansas City Journal and the Kansas City Star before taking the KU job in 1945.

NFL Opens Annual Golf Tournament

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — National Football League players competed in casual sportswear today instead of pads and helmets — for their annual golf championship.

Favored in the 54-hole event on the Hollywood Beach Country Club course was the San Francisco 49ers' John Brodie, a former touring golf pro.

Brodie and 1964 titlist King Hill of Philadelphia, a three-time winner, have been playing 18 holes daily since arriving at this South Florida scene of the NFL players annual convention.

On hand also was Zeke Bratkowski, twice winner of the players tournament. Bratkowski said practice with the Green Bay Packers for the Playoff Bowl at Miami Sunday made it impossible for him to prepare adequately for the golf competition.

The players association came out Sunday for a best-of-three league football championship series instead of the single East-West title contest currently held.

Ordell Braase, Baltimore Colts end who is association president, said the players want the first game to be played in the home city of the Eastern Division winner, the second in the Western Champs' city and the third, if needed, in a neutral city. The series arrangement would net more money for the players' pension fund, the association feels.

Braase said the association also adopted a resolution calling for player representation on the pension committee. Under current policy, the league handles all pension matters.

The player representative proposal, said Braase, stemmed from criticism of commissioner Pete Rozelle's administration.

CC Sextet Meets Boston In Finale of Eastern Tour

BOSTON, Mass. — After finally "breaking the ice" with their first victory of the season, but failing to defend the title in the Brown University Invitational hockey tournament, Colorado College's Tigers return here this evening for a contest with Boston University.

The Tigers won their first game of the still young season last Tuesday night here in their first appearance of the current tour of the East Coast against Boston College and then had their second straight victory in the initial round of the Brown tourney against Providence.

However, that short skein was stopped last Saturday night as CC dropped a narrow 6-5 overtime decision to Brown in the finals of the two-night tournament after building an early lead.

Now with a 2-6 record for the season, Colorado College may be faced with its most difficult task of this swing through the East as the Tigers meet Boston University. BU currently boasts a 10-1 record, with its only loss reported being to Northeastern last week.

Boston's Terriers have one of the hottest clubs in the East this winter, with their lone loss going to the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference champs. BU has nine returning lettermen and the team has been rated best in this area in a poll of coaches and officials.

Among Boston U's returnees is Jack Ferreria, who was the All - New England goalie last year. Bob Martell, last year's top scorer, is doing the same this year and through the first 10 games he had 10 goals and nine assists.

Following the game here tonight, the Bengals of coach Bob Johnson will start their trip back to Colorado Springs, stopping for a two-game series at Madison, Wis. against the University of Wisconsin, Jan. 8-9. The next home games for the Tigers will be Jan. 15-16 with Michigan State, which finished fourth in the four-team Brown tourney.

In the three Eastern games so far, Mike Carter has shown vast improvement as the CC goalie. His goals allowed average has dropped from 6.2 per game to 5.8 while his percentage of saves has increased from 82 to 84.7 per cent.

The CC team has been averaging five goals per game for the season and has been carrying the battle to all opponents. This is indicated by the 278 saves for opponent goalies to Carter's 262 stops.

Cardinals Clip Packers To Capture Playoff Bowl

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI (AP) — Billy (Peanut) Gambrell, one of the mallet player in the National Football League, made himself a big target for Charley Johnson's psses and the St. Louis Cardinals upset the favored Green Bay Packers in the Pro Playoff Bowl Sunday 24-17.

The 167-pound Gambrell, a free agent picked up by the Cardinals from South Carolina, caught two touchdown passes from Johnson, one an 80-yard play, as the Cardinals took a 17-3 lead in the third quarter.

A Green Bay attack in the final period put the Packers back into contention, but the threat died with Jimmy Burson's end zone interception of Paul Hornung's pass meant for Ron Kramer.

Gmbrell who had seen regular service only since mid-season when Sonny Randall was injured, was voted the most valuable player. He caught six passes for 184 yards, setting a playoff bowl record.

It was the first victory for the East in the game of NFL runners-up.

"We looked like we were sleep walking," growled Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi. "We came out of the huddle like we were dying."

The Packers, six-point favorites, moved into an early 3-0 lead on a 40-yard field goal by Paul Hornung.

In the second quarter, Gambrell got behind Jesse Whittenton, caught Johnson's perfectly placed pass over his shoulder at the Green Bay 48 and raced in for the initial touchdown.

Johnson took the Cardinals in twice in the third quarter for a field goal and a touchdown for a 17-3 margin.

A 28-yard pass from Johnson to Gambrell put St. Louis on the Green Bay seven, but when Bill Thornton was stopped at the one on his third rush, Jim Bakken was called in to kick the seven-yard field goal.

The Cardinals, who had held Green Bay passer Bart Starr in check with a fierce blitz, threw the Packers back from their own 25 to the 14 after the next kickoff and set up the second touchdown.

After the kickout to the Packer 47, Johnson ran for 15, hit Thornton for 11 and Conrad for seven, then threw 10 yards to Gambrell for the score.

Green Bay's first touchdown came easily. Burson fumbled a punt to Elijah Pitts at the St. Louis 16 and Jim Taylor got across in two plays.

Another St. Louis drive highlighted by a 49-yard pass from Johnson to Gambrell was killed by a fumble after the Cardinals reached the Packer six. Lee Roy Caffey knocked Johnson looose from the ball and recovered.

On the next play, Starr suffered his first interception after 251 throws. Jerry Stovall picked it off and ran 30 yards for a touchdown to make it 24-10.

Green bay got back in range on a one-yard touchdown lunge by Taylor after a drive in which Starr hit Taylor with a 48-yard pass. Pat Fischer stopped Taylor from groin diving stop.

With the Packers needing only a touchdown to get even, ray Nitschke gave them the chance by grabbing a Johnson pass at midfield and running back to the 23. But Burson's interception saved the game.

Undefeated Hoosiers Walk Into Illini's Den

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Back home again in Indiana — that's where the Hoosiers may wish they were tonight.

Indiana, one of the two remaining unbeaten major teams in the country, goes up against Big Ten foe Illinois in the Assembly Hall at Champaign and, as any good Illini can tell you, it's quite a job to beat Illinois at home.

Take defending national champion UCLA for example. The Uclans, making a run at collegiate basketball's top rung with an eight-game winning streak, went into Champaign early in the season and the Illini raced off to a 110-83 victory.

UCLA got out of town fast and hasn't lost since. Last week the defending champs won three games and that's considerably better than some of the other ranked teams did.

Michigan, No. 1 team in the country, barely beat Princeton with a late rally and then blew a 16-point bulge to lose the ECAC Holiday Festival in New York to St. John's 75-74.

St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, ranked No. 10, wrought a bit of havoc in the Quaker City Classic, beating first No. 6 Illinois 75-71 and then No. 2 Wichita 76-69 to take the title. Just as the Hawks looked ready to start scoring, up popped that other unbeaten team, Providence, to score a 65-61 victory.

That gave the Friars eight straight victories, one less than Indiana.

The Hoosiers, who were ranked No. 7 last week, whacked ninth-ranked St. Louis 98-68 and then belted Memphis State 91-68.

Illinois, which beat Wisconsin last month in the only Big Ten game played so far this season, moved into its brand new 16,000 seat home arena for good last season and ran up a 7-3 record. That's not bad for a club which was only 13-11 over-all. This year the Illini have won all three starts at home including the big one against UCLA

And while Illinois and Indians clash in the Big Ten's first important game, Michigan, licking its wounds after its Holiday Festival jolt, promises to be a factor in the upcoming league race too.

"We have to work," said Coach Dave Strack. "This tourney was just what we needed to get ready for what we want now — The Big Ten. We'll be back next week and we'll be better than ever."

Strack will have ample chance to prove his point Saturday when the Illinois visits Ann Arbor for another key game. Indiana hosts Northwestern the same night.

In other important games tonight. Wichita is at Bradley, Wisconsin plays at Iowa, Louisville hosts Drake, Kansas visits Nebraska, Tulsa is at St. Louis and Seattle is at Idaho State.

Palmer Returns to Meet Glads

Palmer and Widefield inaugurate 1965 and the second round of City Hockey League action today at 8:15 p.m.. at Broadmoor's World Arena.

The Terror skaters are defending champions, but split in their first four games this year. Cheyenne Mountain stands in first place at 4-0, with Wasson second at 3-1.

Widefield is fielding its first high school team and has had its troubles. The Gladiators have yet to score a goal in four games. But Don Hanson's icers have improved on defense in the last two games and could jar the teeth of a few wings in the next four outings.

Fountain Valley, the fifth member of the league, has a 1-3 mark.

Cheyenne boasts the three best scorers in the league. Twins Don and Doug Heyliger each have six goals and five assists. Center Jeff Thatcher is in third with three goals and seven assists.

Newell Weed of Fountain Valley is fourth with three goals and five assists. Top Wasson scorer is Bruce Mahanke, with five goals and two assists. Palmer's best is John Laxson with four goals and a pair of assists.

Wasson goalies John Wendt, one of two goaltenders the Thunderbirds use, has allowed one goal in 1 2-3 games. Rick Spencer, the other tender, has given up six goals in 2 1-3 games. Cheyenne's Sandy Dee, the leading tender of the four full-time goalies, has seen five goals slip past in four games.

Cheyenne, which broke for Christmas after beating Palmer, gets its second straight test for the No. 1 spot Wednesday against Wasson. Thursday Fountain Valley returns to play Widefield.

The eight jockeys who have ridden more than 3,000 winners are John Longden, Willie Shoemaker, Steve Brooks, Eddie Arcaro, Ted Atkinson,, Ralph Neves, John Adams and Bill Hartack.

Ullman Leads Detroit Win Despite Red Eye

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Norm Ullman's batting eye appeared none the worse for wear today but the Detroit Red Wings were seeing red.

Ullman fired two goals — his 17th and 18th of the National Hockey League season — Sunday night as Detroit bombed the Boston Bruins 8-1. Red Wings Coach Sid Abel, however, was still seething over the eye gash his scoring star received the previous night in a collision with Toronto defenseman Carl Brewer.

"It's a disgrace what Brewer gets away with," Abel fumed after the Wings' 3-1 loss to the Maple Leafs at Tronto Saturday.

"Let's say his face ran into my stick," was Brewer's account.

"Blood was drawn and I guess there should have been a five-minute penalty, but the referee said he didn't see it," said Ullman, whose goals total is second only to record-bent Bobby Hull of Chicago.

Hull netted his 32nd of the season — 18 short of the NHL season mark he shares with Marice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion — but the Montreal Canadiens snapped the Black Hawks' 13-game unbeaten skein 2-1 on Claude Provost's third-period breakaway goal.

The Maple Leafs and New York Rangers battled to a 3-3 tie in a game which may have cost injury-plagued Toronto the services of center Dave Keon. Keon suffered a deep skate cut inside his right thigh in the closing minutes and the wound required 10 stitches.

The Leafs played without their right-wing corps of Andy Bathgate, Ron Ellis and George Armstrong, all of whom are ailing.

Ullman's two goals and a pair by Bruce MacGregor led Detroit's 56-shot barrage on Boston goalie Ed Johnston, who made 43 saves in the Bruins' 3-1 setback at Montreal Saturday. Ullman has tallied in five successive games while MacGregor's 12 goals are a career high for the young redhead.

Pit Martin, Alex Delvecchio, Ron Murphy and Ted Lindsay completed the rout. Tom Williams connected for the last-place Bruins.

Montreal's come-from-behind victory at Chicago boosted the Canadiens' league lead to three points over the second-place Black Hawks. Afted rookie Yvan Cournoyer matched Hull's second-period goal, Provost broke loose in the final period while Chicago had a man advantage.

Montreal's Claude Larose was sitting out a penalty when Provost intercepted the puck at the Hawks' blue line, skated in unmolested on goalie denis DeJordy and snapped the tie.

Chicago's Eric Nesterenko was involved in two fights, drawing major penalties for tangling first with John Ferguson, then with Dave Balon.

Jean Ratelle's third-period goal pulled New York from behind after Britt Selby, brought up from the Maple Leafs' Toronto Marlboros junior club to help the depleted right-wing situation, had scored his first NHL goal.

Rod Gilbert and Earl Ingarfield also scored for the Rangers. Jim Pappin and Tim Horton countered for the Leafs, Horton's bounding shot from center ice eluding goalie Jacques Plante in the last minute of the middle period.

Wally Mahle Inks Pact With Packers

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Arnold Mahle of Erie said Sunday his son, Syracuse quarterback Wally Mahle, has signed a two-year contract with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League.

NCAA Ready to Meet Pros

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National and American Football Leagues, heading for court battles over two college players, plan no disciplinary action against Minnesota and Houston for signing four Oklahoma gridders before their college eligibility expired.

A larger problem confronting the belligerent pro leagues, though, could be whether they plan to co-operate with the schools and each other in eliminating the practices that have aroused the wrath of college officials.

Executive Director Walter Byers of the National Collegiate Athletic Association is hopeful but also realistic about the prospects of co-operation.

"We have urged these people to set their drafts back until after Jan. 1, but they have refused to do it," Byers told the Associated Press Sunday night. "We've met with them before but not with both leagues together as far as I know. To my knowledge we've never had them in the same room together."

Byers was talking about the possibility of a joint meeting at next week's NCAA convention in Chicago. Both leagues have indicated they would have representatives at the meetings.

The NCAA's concern stems from the signing of four Oklahoma players before the Sooners' Gator Bowl clash with Florida State Saturday. The AFL Houston Oilers signed tackle Ralph Neely, who later also signed with Dallas of the National League.

The Minnesota Vikings of the NFL signed fullback Jim Grisham, receiver Lance Rentzel and end Wes Skidgel.

After The AP learned the NFL would take no action against the Vikings, Assistant Commissioner Milt Woodard said the AFL also would not penalize the Oilers.

Under the AFL's by-laws, Woodard explained, the league definitely would approve Houston's contract with Neely.

"We inherited our by-laws and regulations from the NFL," Woodard said. "Both leagues allow the signing of a player once he is drafted in the selection meeting. The NFL states very specifically that a boy can sign after he is drafted although he cannot play with a club that year.

"We have to go along with that concept. If we have different rules, we're in trouble. We've got to compete with these people."

In the opinion of college officials, the leagues also must co-operate with each other.

Woodard said the AFL is ready to do just that. Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL was not .. available for comment.

"I think it would be healthy to eliminate this situation," Woodard said. "I think both leagues would have to get together and change their by-laws to eliminate it. If a suggestion is made to change the by-laws, we would co-operate fully as long as we have equity.

"But we cannot do it by ourselves. The NFL would have to go along."

The leagues apparently will get their chance to co-operate at the NCAA convention. Committees of the NCAA and the American Football Coaches Association will meet to discuss the matter of early signings and other subjects of interest to the pros and colleges.

"The only good answer," the NCAA's Byers said, "is if both leagues would agree not to draft players until after Jan. 1 and not to draft a player who has football eligibility remaining. That would solve 95 to 98 per cent of the problem."

Under the present system, both leagues can draft red-shirts, players whose original classes will graduate the following June but who have one year of college eligibility left.

One such case was All-America tackle Jim Wilson of Georgia. He was drafted in 1963, then signed a contract with Boston of the AFL before last season and played the entire season for Georgia. He became the season's first double signer when he put his name on an NFL San Francisco contract after the Sun Bowl.

Neely signed with Houston Dec. 1, then decided against playing for the Oilers and signed with the Cowboys of the NFL last Friday after he had been declared ineligible for the Gator Bowl.

Both the Wilson and the Neely cases appear headed for court. They would be the first legal battles since the AFL won three cases before the 1960 season involving Billy Cannon and Johnny Robinson of Louisiana State and Charlie Flowers of Mississippi. Those have been the only court cases between the two leagues.

The Neely and Wilson cases, however, wouldn't necessarily reach the legal battle stage until next summer when they would begin practicing with one of the teams.

"If a boy went with a certain club," Woodard explained, "the other team would have to go into court and get a restraining order."

Although there have been no other double signings, there apparently have been other early signings, technical as they might have been.

Four Florida State players, witnesses by a nationwide television audience, signed contracts with AFL teams 15 seconds before the game was over. All-America end Fred Biletnikoff joined Oakland while quarterback Steve Tensi, end Don Floyd and center Jack Edwards signed with San Diego.

"It looked like a New Orleans slave market over 100 years ago," said Coach Dave Nelson of Delaware.

Pirates Post Sixth Win; Play Mt. Carmel Tuesday

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Before Dan Wright's Buccaneers open a two-game weekend stand against the top candidates for the Denver Parochial League pennant, the St. Mary's basketballers journey north Tuesday for a loop encounter with Mt. Carmel.

The St. Mary's Mt. Carmel game is scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday at the St. Joseph's Gymnasium in Denver. The Pirates play host to Regis and Mullen this weekend starting with the Raiders on Friday and tangling with Mullen on Saturday.

CLOBBERS PIRATE CAGER—Rich McGilvery, Cathedral's rugged guard, clobbers St. Mary's scoring ace Tom McCarthy during Sunday's Denver Parochial League opener in Colorado Springs. McGilvery looks as though he is going for McCarthy's eye blasses but the Cathedral guard is actually attempting to get the ball from the Pirate flash. The Pirates dumped Cathedral, 57-42, for their sixth win of the season.

Wright's chargers picked up two wins last weekend, defeating the defending State AA champion Salida, 51-46, last Saturday while the Pirates eked out their DPL campaign opener win over a weak Cathedral five, 57-42, Sunday on their home court.

Tom McCatthy, the Bucs leading scorer going into Saturday's outing via a 19.5 points per average clip, spearheaded the St. Mary's win against Salida with a 20-point performance.

However, it was the Pirates' pivot Tom Socha which enables the St. Mary's aggregation to topple the aroused Bluejays in Sunday's outing. Socha pumped in 15 points to lead the Bucs in scoring and the 6-2 junior controlled the backboards which enabled the Pirates to come from behind to post their sixth victory.

Socha pulled down 13 rebounds to give the Pirates a commanding edge in rebounding. McCarthy scored 11 points and Sam Zavatti hit for 10 points to round out the Pirate cagers scoring in the double figures.

The Pirates had difficulties finding the net in the first half of Sunday's contest as the local team had to come from behind to take a 21-19 lead at intermission. Joe Jezek came off the bench to spark the flat Pirates offense as the junior guard scored two quick buckets to push the Pirates ahead in the third period.

Along with Socha, Jezek and Zavatti's scoring the Pirates raced to a 21-point advantage before Wright cleared his bench to give the St. Mary's reserves a chance to play.

In that torrid scoring third period, the Pirates dumped in 22 points and put the game on ice with a 14-point performance in the final period.

CC Sextet Meets Boston In Finale of Eastern Tour

BOSTON, Mass. — After finally "breaking the ice" with their first victory of the season, but failing to defend the title in the Brown University Invitational hockey tournament, Colorado College's Tigers return here this evening for a contest with Boston University.

The Tigers won their first game of the still young season last Tuesday night here in their first appearance of the current tour of the East Coast against Boston College and then had their second straight victory in the initial round of the Brown tourney against Providence.

However, that short skein was stopped last Saturday night as CC dropped a narrow 6-5 overtime decision to Brown in the finals of the two-night tournament after building an early lead.

Now with a 2-6 record for the season, Colorado College may be faced with its most difficult task of this swing through the East as the Tigers meet Boston University. BU currently boasts a 10-1 record, with its only loss reported being to Northeastern last week.

Boston's Terriers have one of the hottest clubs in the East this winter, with their lone loss going to the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference champs. BU has nine returning lettermen and the team has been rated best in this area in a poll of coaches and officials.

Among Boston U's returnees is Jack Ferreria, who was the All - New England goalie last year. Bob Martell, last year's top scorer, is doing the same this year and through the first 10 games he had 10 goals and nine assists.

Following the game here tonight, the Bengals of coach Bob Johnson will start their trip back to Colorado Springs, stopping for a two-game series at Madison, Wis. against the University of Wisconsin, Jan. 8-9. The next home games for the Tigers will be Jan. 15-16 with Michigan State, which finished fourth in the four-team Brown tourney.

In the three Eastern games so far, Mike Carter has shown vast improvement as the CC goalie. His goals allowed average has dropped from 6.2 per game to 5.8 while his percentage of saves has increased from 82 to 84.7 per cent.

The CC team has been averaging five goals per game for the season and has been carrying the battle to all opponents. This is indicated by the 278 saves for opponent goalies to Carter's 262 stops.

Buffs Open Big Eight Cage Race at Columbia

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kansas's Big Eight Holiday Tourney champions open the league title race at Lincoln tonight against Nebraska, last-place team in the tournament. But it isn't a cinch for the Jayhawks. Nebraska has a perfect record at home this season, including an upset of top-ranked Michigan.

Colorado, runner-up in the tourney, opens with Missouri, its 65-61 semifinal victim, at Columbia, where the Tigers upset St. Louis. Chances for upsets seem slim in the other two games tonight — Oklahoma at Kansas State and Oklahoma State at Iowa State.

It isn't true the conference tournament means nothing in predicting the title race, although the tourney champion went on to the title only eight times in 18 years. Last week's tourney convinced most onlookers that Kansas and K-State deserved their ranking as co-favorites.

Both have young talented players who may be expected to improve during the season as much as the other clubs, if not more. Kansas takes a five-game winning streak and an 8-3 record into the race. K-State stands 7-4, including a 54-52 loss to Kansas in the semifinals and a four-point loss to unbeaten Indiana.

The Jayhawks, under new coach Ted Owens, gained extra confidence by winning the crown although 6-foot-11 Walt Wesley was held to 40 points in three games and missed much of the last half in the title game, a 53-51 squeeker past Colorado.

Owens is only the third freshman coach to win the tourney in its 19-year history. The Huskers were a disappointment in the tourney and Coach Joe Cipriano is certain to have them ready for tonight.

Kansas hasn't lost in Lincoln since the memoriable 1958 games.

In that one a tiny guard, Jim Kubacki, was in street clothes when the game started but talked the coach into a uniform late in the game when the Huskers got into foul trouble against Wilt Chamberlain and company. He got the winning goal a few seconds before the gun. The final was 43-41.

Missouri's rugged Ned Monsees, the tourney rebound champion, and his teammates will be rested for the Buffaloes this time. The Tigers lack depth and height. Colorado played steady ball throughout the tourney.

K-State's 6-foot-10 Roy Smith encouraged Tex Winter with his progress on offense during the tourney. The Wildcats should have little trouble with undersized OU. Hank Iba lacks only a good big man in his title bid with a veteran club but his OSU club has more size than Iowa State.

Kansas Publicity Man Dies After Accident

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Don Pierce Athletic Memorial Fund for a scholarship to a high school athlete of high character has been established in memory of the University of Kansas sports publicist who died Sunday.

Pierce, 45, served the past 20 years in the KU post, was the Big Eight Conference historian and one of the nation's top track experts.

He never regained consciousness after his head and neck were injured in a highway accident near Lawrence, Kan., New Year's Eve. His wife, Vivian, 43, is in fair condition at the Lawrence Hospital.

The KU Medical Center here, where he died, said it had never received such a volume of calls and wires about a patient. The family asked for memorial fund contributions in lieu of flowers. Funeral services will be at 3 p.m. Tuesday at Grace Episcopal Cathedral in Topeka, Kan.

The scholarship will go to a high school athlete who succeeded with character and competitive heart despite handicaps. Pierce was an all-Big Six linebacker and center on a last-place Kansas team in 1940 despite wearing goggles because of poor vision. This was his own harsh appraisal:

"I was so blind I couldn't make out the face of the other team's punter. I wore goggles, had asthma, hay fever, bad feet and couldn't outrun a hawg."

He made a deal with owner Dan Topping of the old Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League to split the cost of a pair of contact lenses. He was traded in 1943 to the Chicago Cardinals, who released him in mid-season.

The big, friendly cigar-chomping Pierce, called The Whate by sportswriters, was a humorist, much of it directed at himself. He often pretended to be a bumpkin. At a Los Angeles sports gathering he once said "I'd have been here sooner but I ran out of kite string.

"You know I use it to mark my way from my hotel room to the elevator."

"He simply was Mr. Jayhawk to us," said Bill Easton, track coach.

He started with the Topeka State Journal in 1938 while in KU and worked for the Topeka Capitol, Oklahoma City Oklahoman, the old Kansas City Journal and the Kansas City Star before taking the KU job in 1945.

NFL Opens Annual Golf Tournament

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — National Football League players competed in casual sportswear today instead of pads and helmets — for their annual golf championship.

Favored in the 54-hole event on the Hollywood Beach Country Club course was the San Francisco 49ers' John Brodie, a former touring golf pro.

Brodie and 1964 titlist King Hill of Philadelphia, a three-time winner, have been playing 18 holes daily since arriving at this South Florida scene of the NFL players annual convention.

On hand also was Zeke Bratkowski, twice winner of the players tournament. Bratkowski said practice with the Green Bay Packers for the Playoff Bowl at Miami Sunday made it impossible for him to prepare adequately for the golf competition.

The players association came out Sunday for a best-of-three league football championship series instead of the single East-West title contest currently held.

Ordell Braase, Baltimore Colts end who is association president, said the players want the first game to be played in the home city of the Eastern Division winner, the second in the Western Champs' city and the third, if needed, in a neutral city. The series arrangement would net more money for the players' pension fund, the association feels.

Braase said the association also adopted a resolution calling for player representation on the pension committee. Under current policy, the league handles all pension matters.

The player representative proposal, said Braase, stemmed from criticism of commissioner Pete Rozelle's administration.

Howell Nears NBA Record; Bullets and Chamberlain Rip Past Warriors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bailey Howell is just two shots away from one National Basketball Association record and the Boston Celtics 27 games away from another.

Howell hit all 14 shots from the floor Sunday in the Baltimore Bullets' 142-132 victory over San Francisco at Baltimore, giving him 16 in a row and just two short of the NBA record held by Wilt Chamberlain.

Boston's Celtics whipped the Royals for the fifth straight time, 89-85, in Cincinnati. Los Angeles beat the Hawks 99-92 at St. Louis in the only other game scheduled.

The Celtic triumph was their eighth in a row and increased their Eastern Dvision lead to 7½ games. And, with exactly half of the season's schedule — 40 games — completed the Celts would appear to be on the way to breaking their own record of 60 victories in a single season.

They need only 27 of their last 40 to tie it, 28 to break, both figures far below their current pace of .825.

Howell finished with 37 points while teammate Don Ohl contributed 35.

The Bullets took an 81-74 lead early in the third quarter and led the rest of the way against San Francisco, which has now lost nine in a row.

Chamberlain had 53 points and 28 rebounds for the losers.

Sam Jones scored 31 points for the Celtics and Bill Russell turned in his usual fine defensive job, including two key blocked shots in the closing minutes. The Royals' Oscar Robertson scored 35.

St. Louis, behind most of the way, caught Los Angeles at 80-80 with 7:34 to play, but Jerry West pumped in two straight baskets for the Lakers and St. Louis never caught up. The victory increased the Lakers' Western lead to 3½ games.

West led all scorers with 34 points while St. Louis rookie Jeff Mullins topped the Hawks with 20.

Wichita Faces Key Week In Missouri Valley Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wichita's title favorites will find out this week what their chances of winning the Missouri Valley basketball championship will be without the services of All America Dave Stallworth for the past eight games of their 14-game Valley schedule.

If the Shockers, ranked No. 2 nationally, can get past Bradley at Peoria tonight and Cincinnati at Cincy Saturday, they will be in position to face both in Wichita the last half the of the season, without Stallworth, who graduates at mid-term.

Wichita stands 2-0 in the young league race, St. Louis 2-0 and Cincinnati 1-0 with Louisville fourth at 1-1.

Eight Valley games are scheduled this week. Besides Wichita's two big ones, Drake plays at Louisville and Tulsa at St. Louis tonight; Bradley at Tulsa Thursday; Bradley at North Texas, St. Louis at Drake and Louisville at Tulsa Saturday.

St. Louis beat Drake 62-55 last Saturday at St. Louis, even with its top scorer, Gil Beckemeier, and top rebounder, Rich Parks, fouling out early in the last half. Gary Garrison led the winners with 14 points.

Wichita romped over North Texas 107-88 at Wichita. Stallworth was a 10-for-12 floor shooter and had 24 points before fouling out with 10 minutes left. Nate Bowman, 6-10 Wichita pivot, scored 20.

Cincinnati took third place in the Holiday Festival at New York by edging Princeton and Bill Bradley 71-69. This gave the Valley a somewhat disappointing even break, 6-6, in five holiday tournaments. Even so, the Valley has a 49-18 won-lost record against outside teams, including a 32-6 mark on Valley courts. In the only non-league game this week, LaSalle plays at Louisville Wednesday.

Seven Valley teams have won more than they have lost this season, and Tulsa has broken even at 4-4. Wichita, Cincy and Bradley all have 8-2 records, Louisville 7-2, St. Louis 8-3, Drake 6-4 and North Texas 6-5.

AAWU Takes Steps to Revise Bowl Selection

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Pacific Athletic Conference — AAWU — has taken steps to revise the manner of selecting its Rose Bowl representative — a move anticipated by many sports observers after the New Year's Day carnage this year.

Robley C. Williams, president of the AAWU faculty council, announced the formation of a five-man committee Sunday to develop recommendations on the method of selection and the manner of balloting for next year's Rose Bowl contender.

A crisis brewed early last selected over Southern California despite the fact that the two teams each received four votes.

Under the current rule, the team that was last in the Rose Bowl automatically bows to the other.

Sports observers made dire predictions for Oregon State against heavily favored Michigan, and when game time rolled around, Oregon was toppled 34-7.

So it was back to the drawing boards for the AAWU, who Sunday named Washington State's athletic director Stan Bates to chair the restudy committee.

Conference Race Opens In Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP) — After a rugged non-conference schedule in which they compiled a 62-31 winning edge over outside opposition, Big Ten basketball teams plunge into the championship race this week.

Indiana, emerging as the only unbeaten team after polishing off nine non-league foes, invades tough Illinois, 8-2 over-all, tonight while Wisconsin, 5-4, is at Iowa, 5-4, in the only other Big Ten game.

A full round of title action is on tap Saturday with Northwestern, 4-6, ta Indian in a regionally televised matinee, Illinois at Michigan, 8-2, Iowa at Michigan State, 4-5, Wisconsin at Minnesota, 8-2, and Ohio State, 6-4, at Purdue, 6-3.

The race shapes up as one of the best in years. But the start is expecially rugged for the ambitious Illini, who already have one conference victory. They defeated Wisconsin 70-56 last month in the only conference game played to date.

The Illini's title dreams could soar or be roughly jolted in the first week of full-scale title firing. If they defeat both Indiana and Michigan, they will be on the inside track. Losing both might prove too much to overcome.

Pre-conference competition ended Saturday. Minnesota downed Detroit 80-66 with Lu Hudson hitting 25 points. Ohio State defeated Georgia Tech 73-68 behind the 23-point output of Jim Shaffer.

Michigan's top-ranked Wolverines were spilled 75-74 by St. John's in the finals of New York's Holiday Festival. Michigan blew a 16-point lead midway in the second half.

The Wolverines' only other loss was by one point to Nebraska and in that one they also saw a big lead vanish in the closing minutes.

Lights Out Don't Stop Bullets

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — The dim light was just what you'd expect for such an intimate gathering. But it was only an accident, not done on purpose.

Only five minutes of the National Basketball Association game at the Civic Center had been played Sunday afternoon when a short circuit blacked out half of the ceiling lights.

The mercury vapor lights went out, leaving only the incandescent bulbs in operation. The cozy gathering of 1,784 seemed to draw even closer together, with the 1,000 empty seats becoming less conspicuous.

As the players milled around, waiting help from the electrician someone yelled to 7-foot-2 Wilt Chamberlain of the Warriors:

"Hey, Wilt, reach up and change the bulbs."

"That would cost you $5,000," Chamberlain replied, sounding as if he might be willing to give it a try for that price.

Wilt then ambled over to the Baltimore bench and needled Coach Buddy Jeannette: "This is only a warning. You'd better pay your electric bill."

Bob Ferry of the Bullets couldn't understand the reason for the delay despite the power failure.

"This is just like daylight in the Cow Palace," he said, referring to the home floor of the Warriors.

By that time, the engineer had turned on a set of flouorescent lights, giving the court an eerie appearance. But it didn't affect the shooting eyes of the players because:

The two teams combined for a Civic Center record of 274 points as Baltimore won 142-132.

Chamberlain broke his own Civic Center individual high with 53 points. He even made four straight from the foul line, where he is notorious for his misses.

Bailey Howell of Baltimore sank all 14 of his shots from the floor.

Baltimore hit 56 per cent of its shots, and San Francisco connected on 51 per cent.

"The lighting was only about 70 per cent of normal for a sporting event," said Doug Tawney, the Arena director. "Maybe we should keep the lights dim all the time."

The lights were fixed by the time Baltimore and Quebec clashed in an American Hockey League game at night. But goalie Gil Banville of Quebec had more trouble under normal conditions.

He didn't see, so to speak, 20 per cent of the shots taken by Baltimore. The Clippers won 9-1.

Dognappers End Streak Of Britain's Hot Pooch

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — Psst. Anyone seen the hottest of hot dogs? Color at last sighting mainly black. Victim of Britain's first recorded dognapping.

The missing pooch answers to the name of Hi Joe. With six wins in a row on London greyhound tracks he is the bane of British bookies, which may be the cause of the dog's sudden departure.

Hi Joe was hijacked from its kennel north of London late Saturday night while its trainer, Noreen Collin, was away watching two of his stablemates perform at White City Stadium.

The thieves cut through three padlocked doors to get at their victim and took advantage of his friendly nature to spirit him away. Other valuable but less amiable animals were left untouched.

Owner Vic Chancler, himself a bookie, said he valued Hi Joe at $14,000 and immediately posted a $1,400 reward. "I'm ready to talk money," he said, "and I won't ask questions so long as I get the dog back."

Miss Collin said: "We can only hope that Hi Joe was kidnapped with a view to ransom money being paid.

"What we dread is that he was stolen from sheer jealousy or vindictiveness — to be destroyed or harmed.

Baseball Facing Another Year of Heavy Criticism

By JACK CUDDY
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Major league baseball will endure a torrent of criticism in 1965 before realignment enables it to win back its prestige as America's No. 1 sport.

That's the substance of a confidential report given to baseball clubowners this winter and currently being studied because of the necessity of naming a successor to retiring Commissioner Ford Frick next year, right after the World Series.

The report warns clubowners that 1965 will be another year of unrest in which the problems of expansion will cause heavy criticism of the game. The Milwaukee Braves' "lame duck" season in Milwaukee probably will cause the most discomfort, followed by the Indians "last-chance" year in Cleveland.

Baseball was humiliated last month when Milwaukee business men prevented the Braves from transferring the franchise to Atlanta, Ga., by obtaining a restraining order in court.

Now the Braves must play out the 1965 season under unprecedented conditions — conditions certain to win no friends for them or baseball as a whole.

The Indians flirted openly with Seattle, Wash., and then decided at the last minute to remain in Cleveland for at least another season. They, too, are likely to be subjected to heavy criticism unless they develop into a crowd-drawing pennant contender in 1965.

Frick, who is currently drawing up a report suggesting the qualifications his successor should have, told clubowners in Houston, Tex., that baseball will win back all its faborable public image once the owners have stabilized the two leagues.

This stabilization problem is the greatest facing baseball during 1965, but there are other big questionmarks hanging over personalities and clubs.

Keane On Spot

The man on the spot, of course, will be Manager Johnny Keane of the New York Yankees. Johnny was widely hailed for his courage in quitting the St. Louis Cardinals after leading them to the world championship, but he'll be hooted by the same fans if he doesn't win an American League flag with New York.

Second only to Keane as a man on the spot will be August C. Busch of the Cardinals, the man who quit on his team in August only to see it crowned world champion in October. It is almost essential that Red Schoendienst lead the Cardinals to a repeat victory if Busch is to escape such ridicule that few men in baseball ever experienced.

From the playing standpoint, a man who must deliver is Dean Chance, the brilliant 20-game-winning Los Angeles Angel with the 1.65 earned run average and 11 shutouts. Chance has talked mighty big on the winter banquet circuit and he'll have to pitch mighty big to live up to his words.

Candy Spots Top Candidate For Horse Award

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Candy Spots, who made an impressive comeback on New Year's Day after an absence of almost 16 months, may be the Horse of the Week at Santa Anita Park.

Long sidelined by a leg injury, the 5-year-old Candy is expected to run in the $50,000-added San Carlos Handicap Saturday.

He'll face rough opposition from such seasoned sprinters as Native Diver, Viking Spirit and Sledge.

The Malibu Stakes last Saturday provided a blanket finish by six horses, but the main surprise was that the solid favorite, Roman Brother, was not under it.

Most of the malibu field are pointing toward the 100,000-added Charles H. Strube Stakes for 4-year-olds Jan. 30.

Roman Brother carried high weight of 126 pounds and his rider, Manuel Ycaz$a, had no alibis.

"No excuses," said Ycaza. "I was after his left-handed down the backstretch but he didn't respond. I guess it was just one of those days for him."

Two long-shots got in first, Power of Destiny, first for $35.20, and Maker's Mark, for $32 to place.

Virginia's Cavaliers Off to Best Cage Start

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bern Meyer has the message and Virginia's Cavaliers are off to their best basketball start in years under sophomore Coach Bill Gibson.

The Cavaliers whipped previously unbeaten Connecticut 68-63 for the Queen City tournament championship at Buffalo, N.Y., last Saturday night and raised their over-all record to 4-5.

That is hardly startling, but it's good news at Charlottesville where the last winning season was in 1954 (16-11) under Evan J. (Bus) Male. The Cavaliers have finished in the Atlantic Coast conference cellar the past five seasons and never have been higher than fifth.

"I told Meyer he had to take charge of the offense if we ever were to win a game, and I think he got my message," said Gibson.

Meyer scored 11 points in Virginia's 6-461 victory over Canisius in the tourney opener, then quarterbacked the win over Connecticut as Jerry Sanders and sophomore Jim Connelly each scored 19.

"One word — desire — explains what we did at Buffalo," said Gibson. "That and our defense carried us both nights. We played it cool and cautious, and it paid off."

The tourney was a big hurdle for Gibson, under whom the Cavaliers were 8-16 last season. Prior to that, they had won 19 and lost 79 from 1960 to 1963, after an 11-14 season in 1958-59.

"This team is improving, sophomores Teed Wafle and Connelly most of all," said Gibson. "The Canisius game was our best in my time as coach."

Virginia used a highly effective zone defense to run up an early lead on Connecticut, which missed the injured Tony Kimball, the nation's third leading rebounder. The Huskies also lost leading scorer Wes Bialosuknia, a sophomore, who hurt a foot in the game and got only 13 points.

The Cavaliers, 1-2 and tied with Maryland for fifth place in the Acc, have a non-conference date at Virginia Tech tonight.

In a pair of conference games, second-place North Carolina, 2-0, 6-4 plays at Maryland, 12, 4-5, and last-place South Carolina, 0-3, 2-4, plays its first game since Dec. 17 at fourth-place N.C. State, 1-1, 6-1.

North Carolina at Duke Saturday in the week's key game.

State won its fifth in a row since press Maravich replaced Everett Case as coach, Tommy Mattock's 17 points leading the way past Yale, 91-66.

Conference-leading Duke blew a 14-point lead and had to come from behind for a 91-86 non-conference victory over Wake Forest at Greensboro. It was the seventh victory in eight games for the eighth-ranked Blue Devils, who got 32 points from Steve Vacendak and 19 from sophomore Bob Verga.

Duke had to overcome a combined 68-point performance by three Wake players. Sophomore Jim Boshardt had 24 points, Bob Leonard 23 and Ronnie Watts 21. The Deacons, third in the ACC at 3-1, slipped to 5-5 overall.

The rest of the week's schedule:

Tuesday — Furman at Clemson, Penn State at Duke.

Wednesday — N.C. State at Virginia, North Carolina at Wake Forest.

Friday — Virginia at South Carolina, Maryland at Clemson.

Saturday — North Carolina at Duke, Virginia at Clemson, Maryland at South Carolina, Wake Forest at Virginia Tech.

Three Star Backs Fill Out Landry's South Grid Squad

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Three aces make a pretty good poker hand and they won't hurt on a All-Star football team in the 16th annual Senior Bowl Saturday.

That happens to be the hand Tom Landry, Dallas Cowboy coach and mentor for the South team, has going into the opening day of practice today.

Quarterbacks Joe Namath of Alabama and Steve Tensi of Florida State and flanker back Fred Biletnikoff of Florida State are the three which have Landry looking forward to a pleasant weekend.

Namath has been a standout as quarterback at 'Bama for three seasons and signed Saturday a $400,000 contract with the New York Jets that makes him the richest recruit in professional football history.

Tensi and Biletnikoff are the aerial twins who brought the Florida State Seminoles to the attention of the nation. They carried their school into the top 10 in national rankings several times during the year and in last Saturday's Gator Bowl game, the things they did to Oklahoma came close to being brutal.

They smashed all passing records for the Gator Bowl. Tensi completed 23 out of 36 passes for 303 yards and five touchdowns, all of them bowl records, while Biletnikoff caught 13 passes for 192 yards and four touchdowns. No other player ever scored 24 points in the Jacksonville football contest.

Namath set an Orange Bowl record when he completed 18 passes against Texas in Alabama's 21-17 defeat.

This trio of record breakers give Landry a fine start toward the South's fifth consecutive win in the game's 16-year history.

The only cloud on the horizon is Namath's injured knee, but that wasn't expected to be any more of a problem to Landry and the South than it was to Coach Paul Bryant and Alabama since the fourth game of the season.

Landry said Sunday he would use Namath as much as he could but added, "I have no intention of doing anything that might endanger his professiinal career."

Landry pointed out that in Tensi he has a good backup quarterback and that he probably would be doing most of the quarterbacking, although VPI's Bob Schweikert also would be used.

Sweepers Scoop Stoopers

By STEPHENS BROENING

BALTIMORE (AP) — The stooper at the race track is becoming more and more the victim of technological revolution.

Who is a stooper?

The stooper is a man with good eyes and a good memory who profits when a rail bird discards a winning ticket on a race.

He cares not for the romance of racing, only the results. Unlike the rail bird, his eyes are not on the race, but on the ground where he makes his usually modest living, and where he looks for the pot of gold.

It used to be that the stooper had only to worry about a man with a broom who worked at a man's pace. But now most tracks have mechanical sweepers, and the stooper is finding things more difficult.

Squads of stoopers still follow the race track circuit. Some have perfected their art by attaching a think metal piece to the toe of their shoe so they can turn over mutuel tickets without stooping.

And there are still master stoopers who pay wholesale prices for blocs of tickets on forgotten races hoping to find one like the $2,029 daily double ticket still uncashed from Pimlico's winter meet.

The stooper's technological unemployment is partly responsible for the $100,000 in "outs", or unclaimed winnings, at Maryland's six thoroughbred tracks.

Laurel Race Course is the leader in outs with $30,500 at the end of November. Laurel treasurer Frank Brady says it's something less now as registered letters with valid tickets are delivered to the track and are honored.

Pimlico had $37,000 in outs after its winter meeting. Track publicist Joe Hickey said Wednesday it was down to about $18,000.

Bowie reported about $25,000 in unclaimed money and each of the three half-mile tracks reported about $10,000.

Howell Nears NBA Record; Bullets and Chamberlain Rip Past Warriors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bailey Howell is just two shots away from one National Basketball Association record and the Boston Celtics 27 games away from another.

Howell hit all 14 shots from the floor Sunday in the Baltimore Bullets' 142-132 victory over San Francisco at Baltimore, giving him 16 in a row and just two short of the NBA record held by Wilt Chamberlain.

Boston's Celtics whipped the Royals for the fifth straight time, 89-85, in Cincinnati. Los Angeles beat the Hawks 99-92 at St. Louis in the only other game scheduled.

The Celtic triumph was their eighth in a row and increased their Eastern Dvision lead to 7½ games. And, with exactly half of the season's schedule — 40 games — completed the Celts would appear to be on the way to breaking their own record of 60 victories in a single season.

They need only 27 of their last 40 to tie it, 28 to break, both figures far below their current pace of .825.

Howell finished with 37 points while teammate Don Ohl contributed 35.

The Bullets took an 81-74 lead early in the third quarter and led the rest of the way against San Francisco, which has now lost nine in a row.

Chamberlain had 53 points and 28 rebounds for the losers.

Sam Jones scored 31 points for the Celtics and Bill Russell turned in his usual fine defensive job, including two key blocked shots in the closing minutes. The Royals' Oscar Robertson scored 35.

St. Louis, behind most of the way, caught Los Angeles at 80-80 with 7:34 to play, but Jerry West pumped in two straight baskets for the Lakers and St. Louis never caught up. The victory increased the Lakers' Western lead to 3½ games.

West led all scorers with 34 points while St. Louis rookie Jeff Mullins topped the Hawks with 20.

In Saturday games, Los Angeles edged St. Louis 115-112, Baltimore whipped San Francisco 129-103 and Boston beat Detroit 101-89.

St. Louis beat Drake 62-55 last Saturday at St. Louis, even with its top scorer, Gil Beckemeier, and top rebounder, Rich Parks, fouling out early in the last half. Gary Garrison led the winners with 14 points.

Wichita romped over North Texas 107-88 at Wichita. Stallworth was a 10-for-12 floor shooter and had 24 points before fouling out with 10 minutes left. Nate Bowman, 6-10 Wichita pivot, scored 20.

Cincinnati took third place in the Holiday Festival at New York by edging Princeton and Bill Bradley 71-69. This gave the Valley a somewhat disappointing even break, 6-6, in five holiday tournaments. Even so, the Valley has a 49-18 won-lost record against outside teams, including a 32-6 mark on Valley courts. In the only non-league game this week, LaSalle plays at Louisville Wednesday.

Seven Valley teams have won more than they have lost this season, and Tulsa has broken even at 4-4. Wichita, Cincy and Bradley all have 8-2 records, Louisville 7-2, St. Louis 8-3, Drake 6-4 and North Texas 6-5.

AAWU Takes Steps to Revise Bowl Selection

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Pacific Athletic Conference — AAWU — has taken steps to revise the manner of selecting its Rose Bowl representative — a move anticipated by many sports observers after the New Year's Day carnage this year.

Robley C. Williams, president of the AAWU faculty council, announced the formation of a five-man committee Sunday to develop recommendations on the method of selection and the manner of balloting for next year's Rose Bowl contender.

A crisis brewed early last selected over Southern California despite the fact that the two teams each received four votes.

Under the current rule, the team that was last in the Rose Bowl automatically bows to the other.

Sports observers made dire predictions for Oregon State against heavily favored Michigan, and when game time rolled around, Oregon was toppled 34-7.

So it was back to the drawing boards for the AAWU, who Sunday named Washington State's athletic director Stan Bates to chair the restudy committee.

Conference Race Opens In Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP) — After a rugged non-conference schedule in which they compiled a 62-31 winning edge over outside opposition, Big Ten basketball teams plunge into the championship race this week.

Indiana, emerging as the only unbeaten team after polishing off nine non-league foes, invades tough Illinois, 8-2 over-all, tonight while Wisconsin, 5-4, is at Iowa, 5-4, in the only other Big Ten game.

A full round of title action is on tap Saturday with Northwestern, 4-6, ta Indian in a regionally televised matinee, Illinois at Michigan, 8-2, Iowa at Michigan State, 4-5, Wisconsin at Minnesota, 8-2, and Ohio State, 6-4, at Purdue, 6-3.

The race shapes up as one of the best in years. But the start is expecially rugged for the ambitious Illini, who already have one conference victory. They defeated Wisconsin 70-56 last month in the only conference game played to date.

The Illini's title dreams could soar or be roughly jolted in the first week of full-scale title firing. If they defeat both Indiana and Michigan, they will be on the inside track. Losing both might prove too much to overcome.

Pre-conference competition ended Saturday. Minnesota downed Detroit 80-66 with Lu Hudson hitting 25 points. Ohio State defeated Georgia Tech 73-68 behind the 23-point output of Jim Shaffer.

Michigan's top-ranked Wolverines were spilled 75-74 by St. John's in the finals of New York's Holiday Festival. Michigan blew a 16-point lead midway in the second half.

The Wolverines' only other loss was by one point to Nebraska and in that one they also saw a big lead vanish in the closing minutes.

Lights Out Don't Stop Bullets

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — The dim light was just what you'd expect for such an intimate gathering. But it was only an accident, not done on purpose.

Only five minutes of the National Basketball Association game at the Civic Center had been played Sunday afternoon when a short circuit blacked out half of the ceiling lights.

The mercury vapor lights went out, leaving only the incandescent bulbs in operation. The cozy gathering of 1,784 seemed to draw even closer together, with the 1,000 empty seats becoming less conspicuous.

As the players milled around, waiting help from the electrician someone yelled to 7-foot-2 Wilt Chamberlain of the Warriors:

"Hey, Wilt, reach up and change the bulbs."

"That would cost you $5,000," Chamberlain replied, sounding as if he might be willing to give it a try for that price.

Wilt then ambled over to the Baltimore bench and needled Coach Buddy Jeannette: "This is only a warning. You'd better pay your electric bill."

Bob Ferry of the Bullets couldn't understand the reason for the delay despite the power failure.

"This is just like daylight in the Cow Palace," he said, referring to the home floor of the Warriors.

By that time, the engineer had turned on a set of flouorescent lights, giving the court an eerie appearance. But it didn't affect the shooting eyes of the players because:

The two teams combined for a Civic Center record of 274 points as Baltimore won 142-132.

Chamberlain broke his own Civic Center individual high with 53 points. He even made four straight from the foul line, where he is notorious for his misses.

Bailey Howell of Baltimore sank all 14 of his shots from the floor.

Baltimore hit 56 per cent of its shots, and San Francisco connected on 51 per cent.

"The lighting was only about 70 per cent of normal for a sporting event," said Doug Tawney, the Arena director. "Maybe we should keep the lights dim all the time."

The lights were fixed by the time Baltimore and Quebec clashed in an American Hockey League game at night. But goalie Gil Banville of Quebec had more trouble under normal conditions.

He didn't see, so to speak, 20 per cent of the shots taken by Baltimore. The Clippers won 9-1.

Dognappers End Streak Of Britain's Hot Pooch

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — Psst. Anyone seen the hottest of hot dogs? Color at last sighting mainly black. Victim of Britain's first recorded dognapping.

The missing pooch answers to the name of Hi Joe. With six wins in a row on London greyhound tracks he is the bane of British bookies, which may be the cause of the dog's sudden departure.

Hi Joe was hijacked from its kennel north of London late Saturday night while its trainer, Noreen Collin, was away watching two of his stablemates perform at White City Stadium.

The thieves cut through three padlocked doors to get at their victim and took advantage of his friendly nature to spirit him away. Other valuable but less amiable animals were left untouched.

Owner Vic Chancler, himself a bookie, said he valued Hi Joe at $14,000 and immediately posted a $1,400 reward. "I'm ready to talk money," he said, "and I won't ask questions so long as I get the dog back."

Miss Collin said: "We can only hope that Hi Joe was kidnapped with a view to ransom money being paid.

"What we dread is that he was stolen from sheer jealousy or vindictiveness — to be destroyed or harmed.

Baseball Facing Another Year of Heavy Criticism

By JACK CUDDY
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Major league baseball will endure a torrent of criticism in 1965 before realignment enables it to win back its prestige as America's No. 1 sport.

That's the substance of a confidential report given to baseball clubowners this winter and currently being studied because of the necessity of naming a successor to retiring Commissioner Ford Frick next year, right after the World Series.

The report warns clubowners that 1965 will be another year of unrest in which the problems of expansion will cause heavy criticism of the game. The Milwaukee Braves' "lame duck" season in Milwaukee probably will cause the most discomfort, followed by the Indians "last-chance" year in Cleveland.

Baseball was humiliated last month when Milwaukee busi ness men prevented the Braves from transferring the franchise to Atlanta, Ga., by obtaining a restraining order in court.

Now the Braves must play out the 1965 season under unprecedented conditions — conditions certain to win no friends for them or baseball as a whole.

The Indians flirted openly with Seattle, Wash., and then decided at the last minute to remain in Cleveland for at least another season. They, too, are likely to be subjected to heavy criticism unless they develop into a crowd-drawing pennant contender in 1965.

Frick, who is currently drawing up a report suggesting the qualifications his successor should have, told clubowners in Houston, Tex., that baseball will win back all its faborable public image once the owners have stabilized the two leagues.

This stabilization problem is the greatest facing baseball during 1965, but there are other big questionmarks hanging over personalities and clubs.

Keane On Spot

The man on the spot, of course, will be Manager Johnny Keane of the New York Yankees. Johnny was widely hailed for his courage in quitting the St. Louis Cardinals after leading them to the world championship, but he'll be hooted by the same fans if he doesn't win an American League flag with New York.

Second only to Keane as a man on the spot will be August C. Busch of the Cardinals, the man who quit on his team in August only to see it crowned world champion in October. It is almost essential that Red Schoendienst lead the Cardinals to a repeat victory if Busch is to escape such ridicule that few men in baseball ever experienced.

From the playing standpoint, a man who must deliver is Dean Chance, the brilliant 20-game-winning Los Angeles Angel with the 1.65 earned run average and 11 shutouts. Chance has talked mighty big on the winter banquet circuit and he'll have to pitch mighty big to live up to his words.

Candy Spots Top Candidate For Horse Award

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Candy Spots, who made an impressive comeback on New Year's Day after an absence of almost 16 months, may be the Horse of the Week at Santa Anita Park.

Long sidelined by a leg injury, the 5-year-old Candy is expected to run in the $50,000-added San Carlos Handicap Saturday.

He'll face rough opposition from such seasoned sprinters as Native Diver, Viking Spirit and Sledge.

The Malibu Stakes last Saturday provided a blanket finish by six horses, but the main surprise was that the solid favorite, Roman Brother, was not under it.

The highly-touted Roman Brother, racing for the first time in California after a big year in the East, finished last in the 10-horse field.

Most of the malibu field are pointing toward the 100,000-added Charles H. Strube Stakes for 4-year-olds Jan. 30.

Roman Brother carried high weight of 126 pounds and his rider, Manuel Ycaz$a, had no alibis.

"No excuses," said Ycaza. "I was after his left-handed down the backstretch but he didn't respond. I guess it was just one of those days for him."

Two long-shots got in first, Power of Destiny, first for $35.20, and Maker's Mark, for $32 to place.

Hill Rise, who blossomed into prominence at Santa Anita last winter, was the second choice in the seven-furlong feature but finished third.

Virginia's Cavaliers Off to Best Cage Start

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bern Meyer has the message and Virginia's Cavaliers are off to their best basketball start in years under sophomore Coach Bill Gibson.

The Cavaliers whipped previously unbeaten Connecticut 68-63 for the Queen City tournament championship at Buffalo, N.Y., last Saturday night and raised their over-all record to 4-5.

That is hardly startling, but it's good news at Charlottesville where the last winning season was in 1954 (16-11) under Evan J. (Bus) Male. The Cavaliers have finished in the Atlantic Coast conference cellar the past five seasons and never have been higher than fifth.

"I told Meyer he had to take charge of the offense if we ever were to win a game, and I think he got my message," said Gibson.

Meyer scored 11 points in Virginia's 6-461 victory over Canisius in the tourney opener, then quarterbacked the win over Connecticut as Jerry Sanders and sophomore Jim Connelly each scored 19.

"One word — desire — explains what we did at Buffalo," said Gibson. "That and our defense carried us both nights. We played it cool and cautious, and it paid off."

The tourney was a big hurdle for Gibson, under whom the Cavaliers were 8-16 last season. Prior to that, they had won 19 and lost 79 from 1960 to 1963, after an 11-14 season in 1958-59.

"This team is improving, sophomores Teed Wafle and Connelly most of all," said Gibson. "The Canisius game was our best in my time as coach."

Virginia used a highly effective zone defense to run up an early lead on Connecticut, which missed the injured Tony Kimball, the nation's third leading rebounder. The Huskies also lost leading scorer Wes Bialosuknia, a sophomore, who hurt a foot in the game and got only 13 points.

The Cavaliers, 1-2 and tied with Maryland for fifth place in the Acc, have a non-conference date at Virginia Tech tonight.

In a pair of conference games, second-place North Carolina, 2-0, 6-4 plays at Maryland, 12, 4-5, and last-place South Carolina, 0-3, 2-4, plays its first game since Dec. 17 at fourth-place N.C. State, 1-1, 6-1.

North Carolina at Duke Saturday in the week's key game.

State won its fifth in a row since press Maravich replaced Everett Case as coach, Tommy Mattock's 17 points leading the way past Yale, 91-66.

Conference-leading Duke blew a 14-point lead and had to come from behind for a 91-86 non-conference victory over Wake Forest at Greensboro. It was the seventh victory in eight games for the eighth-ranked Blue Devils, who got 32 points from Steve Vacendak and 19 from sophomore Bob Verga.

Duke had to overcome a combined 68-point performance by three Wake players. Sophomore Jim Boshardt had 24 points, Bob Leonard 23 and Ronnie Watts 21. The Deacons, third in the ACC at 3-1, slipped to 5-5 overall.

The rest of the week's schedule:

Tuesday — Furman at Clemison, Penn State at Duke.

Wednesday — N.C. State at Virginia, North Carolina at Wake Forest.

Friday — Virginia at South Carolina, Maryland at Clemson.

Saturday — North Carolina at Duke, Virginia at Clemson, Maryland at South Carolina, Wake Forest at Virginia Tech.

Three Star Backs Fill Out Landry's South Grid Squad

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Three aces make a pretty good poker hand and they won't hurt on a All-Star football team in the 16th annual Senior Bowl Saturday.

That happens to be the hand Tom Landry, Dallas Cowboy coach and mentor for the South team, has going into the opening day of practice today.

Quarterbacks Joe Namath of Alabama and Steve Tensi of Florida State and flanker back Fred Biletnikoff of Florida State are the three which have Landry looking forward to a pleasant weekend.

Namath has been a standout as quarterback at 'Bama for three seasons and signed Saturday a $400,000 contract with the New York Jets that makes him the richest recruit in professional football history.

Tensi and Biletnikoff are the aerial twins who brought the Florida State Seminoles to the attention of the nation. They carried their school into the top 10 in national rankings several times during the year and in last Saturday's Gator Bowl game, the things they did to Oklahoma came close to being brutal.

They smashed all passing records for the Gator Bowl. Tensi completed 23 out of 36 passes for 303 yards and five touchdowns, all of them bowl records, while Biletnikoff caught 13 passes for 192 yards and four touchdowns. No other player ever scored 24 points in the Jacksonville football contest.

Namath set an Orange Bowl record when he completed 18 passes against Texas in Alabama's 21-17 defeat.

This trio of record breakers give Landry a fine start toward the South's fifth consecutive win in the game's 16-year history.

The only cloud on the horizon is Namath's injured knee, but that wasn't expected to be any more of a problem to Landry and the South than it was to Coach Paul Bryant and Alabama since the fourth game of the season.

Landry said Sunday he would use Namath as much as he could but added, "I have no intention of doing anything that might endanger his professiinal career."

Landry pointed out that in Tensi he has a good backup quarterback and that he probably would be doing most of the quarterbacking, although VPI's Bob Schweikert also would be used.

Sweepers Scoop Stoopers

By STEPHENS BROENING

BALTIMORE (AP) — The stooper at the race track is becoming more and more the victim of technological revolution.

Who is a stooper?

The stooper is a man with good eyes and a good memory who profits when a rail bird discards a winning ticket on a race.

He cares not for the romance of racing, only the results. Unlike the rail bird, his eyes are not on the race, but on the ground where he makes his usually modest living, and where he looks for the pot of gold.

It used to be that the stooper had only to worry about a man with a broom who worked at a man's pace. But now most tracks have mechanical sweepers, and the stooper is finding things more difficult.

Squads of stoopers still follow the race track circuit. Some have perfected their art by attaching a think metal piece to the toe of their shoe so they can turn over mutuel tickets without stooping.

And there are still master stoopers who pay wholesale prices for blocs of tickets on forgotten races hoping to find one like the $2,029 daily double ticket still uncashed from Pimlico's winter meet.

The stooper's technological unemployment is partly responsible for the $100,000 in "outs", or unclaimed winnings, at Maryland's six thoroughbred tracks.

Laurel Race Course is the leader in outs with $30,500 at the end of November. Laurel treasurer Frank Brady says it's something less now as registered letters with valid tickets are delivered to the track and are honored.

Pimlico had $37,000 in outs after its winter meeting. Track publicist Joe Hickey said Wednesday it was down to about $18,000.

Bowie reported about $25,000 in unclaimed money and each of the three half-mile tracks reported about $10,000.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Run, don't walk to your nearest dime store and buy a yard of rubberized skirt belting if your husband has a problem keeping his no-iron shirts tucked in.

Cut this strip of belting to fit the waistband in the "back" of the trousers (you'll probably have enough for three pairs) and sew it to the inside of the waistband, from side seam to side seam.

This should be done with a needle and thread so that the stitches won't show on the outside of the trousers. —S.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

When I was picking up pots and pans off the kitchen floor for the umpteenth time today, I had a terrific idea!

Why not put my toddler's toys in the cupboard and my cooking utensils in his toy box? —A Weary Mother

Why not, indeed? This sounds like the Hint of The Year!! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

A hint in your column suggested covering the open springs on a bed with a contour sheet to keep out the dust.

I have one bed in our home that does not have a covered box spring. Today while housecleaning, we spent several hours dusting that one spring.

Then I thought of your article. I also remembered having a mattress cover that was in its original box and had never been used.

We used it to cover the open spring entirely, and I am so pleased with the result.

Thank you for your interesting column. —Mildred L. Taylor

Dear Heloise:

If your new home does not have a dough board and you're afraid the food grinder will mar the new counter top . . . try using your ironing board.

I just cover the ironing board with a piece of plastic and clamp the grinder to the board. Works perfectly. —Marian

Dear Marian:

I am beginning to think that every home should have at least two ironing boards . . . we use them for our portable typewriters, sewing machines, for toasting sandwiches wrapped in foil, and now for grinding food!

Thank goodness for drip-dry clothes! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

If you have a deep but small closet, it is perfect for storing scatter rugs and bath mats.

Roll the rug or mat end-to-end into a tube shape and place in closet, rolled ends out. When you need a certain mat, simply grasp the end of the rug and stack will stay put. —Jean Eaton

Dear Heloise:

If you like to take your dog for a walk when you have to go to the grocery store . . .

Buy a pair of handcuffs (the dime store variety that children use for playing cops and robbers!) and hook one cuff through the loop of the dog leash and the other cuff around your wrist. This leaves both your hands free for carrying your groceries. —Reader

Dea Heloise:

To clean hard-to-get-at places (underneath kitchen appliances, for instance), wrap a dry, soft paper towel on your yard-stick. Start with one corner of the paper and work diagonally, lapping the paper over. Hold it under the faucet and squeeze it out.

The paper clings to the yardstick, and the dust clings to the paper! —Mrs. N. G.

Dear Heloise:

I have learned to reverse the age-old diapering method:

I put my baby on his stomach when I diaper him on my lap. No kicking feet or rolling sideways. —Jeraldine Welch

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Run, don't walk to your nearest dime store and buy a yard of rubberized skirt belting if your husband has a problem keeping his no-iron shirts tucked in.

Cut this strip of belting to fit the waistband in the "back" of the trousers (you'll probably have enough for three pairs) and sew it to the inside of the waistband, from side seam to side seam.

This should be done with a needle and thread so that the stitches won't show on the outside of the trousers. —S.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

When I was picking up pots and pans off the kitchen floor for the umpteenth time today, I had a terrific idea!

Why not put my toddler's toys in the cupboard and my cooking utensils in his toy box? —A Weary Mother

Why not, indeed? This sounds like the Hint of The Year!! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

A hint in your column suggested covering the open springs on a bed with a contour sheet to keep out the dust.

I have one bed in our home that does not have a covered box spring. Today while housecleaning, we spent several hours dusting that one spring.

Then I thought of your article. I also remembered having a mattress cover that was in its original box and had never been used.

We used it to cover the open spring entirely, and I am so pleased with the result.

Thank you for your interesting column. —Mildred L. Taylor

Dear Heloise:

If your new home does not have a dough board and you're afraid the food grinder will mar the new counter top . . . try using your ironing board.

I just cover the ironing board with a piece of plastic and clamp the grinder to the board. Works perfectly. —Marian

Dear Marian:

I am beginning to think that every home should have at least two ironing boards . . . we use them for our portable typewriters, sewing machines, for toasting sandwiches wrapped in foil, and now for grinding food!

Thank goodness for drip-dry clothes! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

If you have a deep but small closet, it is perfect for storing scatter rugs and bath mats.

Roll the rug or mat end-to-end into a tube shape and place in closet, rolled ends out. When you need a certain mat, simply grasp the end of the rug and stack will stay put. —Jean Eaton

Dear Heloise:

If you like to take your dog for a walk when you have to go to the grocery store . . .

Buy a pair of handcuffs (the dime store variety that children use for playing cops and robbers!) and hook one cuff through the loop of the dog leash and the other cuff around your wrist. This leaves both your hands free for carrying your groceries. —Reader

Dea Heloise:

To clean hard-to-get-at places (underneath kitchen appliances, for instance), wrap a dry, soft paper towel on your yard-stick. Start with one corner of the paper and work diagonally, lapping the paper over. Hold it under the faucet and squeeze it out.

The paper clings to the yard-stick, and the dust clings to the paper! —Mrs. N. G.

Dear Heloise:

I have learned to reverse the age-old diapering method:

I put my baby on his stomach when I diaper him on my lap. No kicking feet or rolling sideways. —Jeraldine Welch

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Kiss Me Stupid Is for Adults, Girl Declares

NEW YORK (NEA) -- After Ray Walston took his 11-year-old daughter, Kate, to see him in "Kiss Me, Stupid," he eagerly awaited her critical comment about how good daddy was. But Kate's reaction is one that has been echoed by critics across the country, "This is not a picture for children."

At 11, it's doubted Kate knew how right she was. The Billy Wilder picture is one of the two most controversial to come out of Hollywood this year (the other is "John Goldfarb, Please Come Home" and it hasn't come out yet, due to Notre Dame's injunction against release). "Kiss Me, Stupid" has been condemned by the Legion of Decency and many critics.

Walston, known to young television fans as star of My Favorite Martian, admits the picture is extraordinarily frank, but he says "there is beauty there." Calling it "dirty" he feels, "smother the mind."

When he stepped into "Kiss Me, Stupid" to replace Peter Sellers, who had completed four and a half weeks of filming before his nearly fatal heart attack, Walston had to: learn the script in a hurry ("and I am an actor who likes to digest a script and dig into a character"), have his hair dyed from the blond required by his Martian role ("Billy Wilder said I looked like a poodle"), and win over the crew, depressed by Sellers' brush with death.

"It was a strain for the first two weeks, working on the role on such short notice, and trying to justify the faith Billy Wilder had in me. After all, he had chosen me over both Danny Kaye and Bob Hope, both of whom were interested in the role.

"So, in addition to relaxing myself, I had to relax him. He settled down after two days, and I learned later that if I hadn't worked out he could have paid me off, sent me home and begun again with somebody else."

Tony Bill says it wasn't at all difficult for him to decide to toss over a promising film career and move to New York to study acting.

"I know I should have stayed in Hollywood and become a star and made a lot of money, but I knew I wanted to come to New York. So there was not much heavy deciding involved."

Bill, an intense, dark-eyed young man, was a student at Notre Dame when he got a summer job acting. He was spotted and signed to play Frank Sinatra's brother in "Come Blow Your Horn." He also appeared in "Soldiers in the Rain" and "None But the Brave," an unreleased movie produced and directed by Sinatra.

Just before he left Hollywood with his wife (also named Toni), and their 6-month-old son, Peter, Tony made two television shows. In the first, scheduled for Ben Casey on January 4, he plays a cerebral palsy victim. The second, a Mr. Novak set for January 12, casts him as a blind boy.

"Television is pretty tough. I got a telephone call on Monday at 8 p.m. asking me to play the blind boy the next morning at 7 a.m. What did I do? I got up and played a blind boy at 7 A.M."

In New York, Tony is studying acting with Stella Adler on a scholarship. His future in the theater is bright, but he is not sure it's the future he really wants.

"I haven't made up my mind yet, and I haven't made a commitment to acting. Stardom holds no allure or awe for me. It's a fascinating enjoyable business. But I didn't have stars in my eyes before I went to Hollywood and I don't now. Maybe I'm living in the wrong century. These days the thing is to be singleminded and one-directional. I'm far from that."

EXPENSIVE TICKET

LONDON (UPI) — L. A. Perry traveled Friday from Southampton to London on a railway ticket that cost his company $1,120. The ticket is good for any trip anywhere in Britain in 1965 and Perry, a shipping line representative, will use it to visit travel agents.

The company said the ticket will save it money by year's end. It is made of green leather so it will not wear out.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Getting New Year Started Wasn't Easy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With the New Year now under way, many Americans settled down to the serious business of trying to make 1965 better than 1964.

It wasn't always easy, particularly for fathers.

San Francisco school teacher Elmer Anderson Jr. got so excited over the birth of triplets right after midnight Thursday that he forgot the three girls' names he and his wife Lisa had picked out.

He had to return home to name Tracy Delia, Mia Marie and Marsha Jeaneen, who were San Francisco's first babies of 1965.

For some the New Year began with new gestures of friendship.

In Port Clinton, Ohio, a young father of three and his wife left with two truckloads of toys, food and clothing for the needy in a part of Kentucky where both grew up.

"I think the best way to start the New Year and make it happier for some back home is to show them we haven't lost the spirit of kindness and good will," said Carl Johnson, 29.

And 1965 provided a good start for a flop-eared mutt nicknamed Angel. He had moved into a Nativity scene in Gilbert, Ariz., and refused to budge for a week.

Angel was adopted by Nina Trimble and her two teen-age daughters and renamed Gabriel.

"From the way he acts," said Kathleen Trimble, 16, "you would think he had always lived here."

For many Americans, however, after the brief celebrations were over, it was business as usual.

President Johnson spent New Year's Day at his Texas ranch, working on his budget recommendations and on his State of the Union message, which he will deliver to a joint session of Congress Monday.

He also sent greetings to Americans abroad and announced that he had asked the chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers to look into recent selective steel price increases.

General Elections Put Off in Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo has put off general elections originally scheduled to be held throughout the rebellion-torn Congo during the first two weeks of February, Radio Leopoldville announced Saturday.

An Interior Ministry communique said President Joseph Kasavubu had signed a decree postponing the election to the period between March 17 and 31.

Before Christmas, Munongo had expressed his determination to stick to the original voting timetable, "except in unforeseen circumstances." But he admitted that political campaigning in the northeastern Congo was likely to be a hazardous business.

"Once you get off the main road, someone is likely to stick a spear in you," he said.

DEPRESSING MOUNTAINS

People doubtless could survive in the cold, wet, misty highlands of the Mountains of the Moon, eerie Ruwenzori ranges of east-central Africa, but the silence, dank smell and enormous size to which ordinary plants and bushes grow there have proved overwhelmingly depressing to the few hardy souls attempting the ascent.

PEOPLE PUPILS TO HORSES

SEDAN, Kan. (AP)—Students of school teacher Laveta Abboud are people in the morning and horses in the afternoon.

For the morning half of each school day, Mrs. Abboud teaches commerce and government at Peru, Kan., high school.

In the afternoons, she trains quarter horses on the Abboud Ranch near Sedan.

How to Cut Taxes; Drop Old Rules

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Forget all you learned about income tax last year.

Under no circumstances will you use last year's income tax return as a guide for this year.

These two sentences sum up the best advice that can be given as we all prepare to file our annual tax rturn by April 15, 1965. The new tax act passed by Congress in 1964 includes sweeping changes and varied benefits so that the best thing to do is to start to learn all over again.

Rates have been reduced across the board for everyone. The tax rate in the lowest bracket has been reduced from 20 per cent to 16 per cent for 1964. The rate at the top has been trimmed from 91 per cent to 77 per cent. And in 1965 these rates will be further reduced to 14 per cent at the bottom and 70 per cent at the top.

A new Minimum Standard Deduction has been introduced. This will be a break for large families with total incomes less than $10,000. Formerly the taxpayer who didn't itemize his deductions could take a standard deduction of 10 per cent of his gross income. The new Minimum Standard Deduction gives him still another option. Instead of settling on 10 per cent for deductions he may deduct $200 plus an additional $100 for each exemption.

For example, the $7,000-a-year man with four dependent children will be able to deduct $800 on his joint rturn instead of the $700 allowed a year ago.

Other revisions in the law provide new rules for reporting the income on stock dividends. For the family with modest stock holdings it probably will mean that all of its dividend income will be tax exempt. Those with substantial stock holdings and retired couples may find they will be paying a higher tax than formerly on dividends.

Golden agers were remembered in several instances by the tax law writers. They will find special provisions for them on liberalized retirement income credits new rule for medical time special tax rules they may time special tax rules they may follow when they sell their personal residence at a substantial profit.

Most of us felt the first benefits of the new tax reductions last March when a smaller bite was taken out of our pay checks for the withholding tax.

Many taxpayers will learn to their regret when they file their annual income tax return that the added take-home pay they started to receive last March was too generous. Many will have to return a part of it now with payment of additional tax when they file their returns.

This situation results because the reduced withholding tax tables are attumed to the lower 1965 rates but were to generous for the 1964 tax rates.

Never before has there been such a need for accuracy in the filing of returns.

With the requirement of suppling your social security number to banks where you have savings accounts, corporations from whom you receive dividends and all employern who pay you wages or salary the federal government has a near-perfect check on virtually all your income.

With its new electronic equipment Internal Revenue agents can feed into a computer all the cards bearing your Social Security number and determine in seconds if all these items of income are reported in your return.

In these articles we will try to point out every possible deduction and taxsaving device for you. You will report everything which must be shown on your return but will take full advantage of every tax-saving opportunity.

(NEXT: The Minimum Standard Deduction.)

You can get additional valuable tax help from a new 64-page book "Cut Your Own Taxes," available only through this newspaper.

PREDICTS PROSPERITY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Luther H. Hodges, outgoing secretary of commerce, says 1965 will be another year of prosperity.

But Hodges said Sunday, "continued wage and price restraint" by labor and management are necessary if "the greatest period of peacetime prosperity in our nation's history" is to continue for its fifth year."

Hodges made his forecast in a year-end review of the U. S. economy. He is leaving his cabinet post Jan. 15 to return to private life.

Just before he left Hollywood with his wife (also named Toni), and their 6-month-old son, Peter, Tony made two television shows. In the first, scheduled for Ben Casey on January 4, he plays a cerebral palsy victim. The second, a Mr. Novak set for January 12, casts him as a blind boy.

"Television is pretty tough. I got a telephone call on Monday at 8 p.m. asking me to play the blind boy the next morning at 7 a.m. What did I do? I got up and played a blind boy at 7 A.M."

In New York, Tony is studying acting with Stella Adler on a scholarship. His future in the theater is bright, but he is not sure it's the future he really wants.

"I haven't made up my mind yet, and I haven't made a commitment to acting. Stardom holds no allure or awe for me. It's a fascinating enjoyable business. But I didn't have stars in my eyes before I went to Hollywood and I don't now. Maybe I'm living in the wrong century. These days the thing is to be singleminded and one-directional. I'm far from that."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

EXPENSIVE TICKET

LONDON (UPI) — L. A. Perry traveled Friday from Southampton to London on a railway ticket that cost his company $1,120. The ticket is good for any trip anywhere in Britain in 1965 and Perry, a shipping line representative, will use it to visit travel agents.

The company said the ticket will save it money by year's end. It is made of green leather so it will not wear out.

How to Cut Taxes; Drop Old Rules

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Forget all you learned about income tax last year.

Under no circumstances will you use last year's income tax return as a guide for this year.

These two sentences sum up the best advice that can be given as we all prepare to file our annual tax rturn by April 15, 1965. The new tax act passed by Congress in 1964 includes sweeping changes and varied benefits so that the best thing to do is to start to learn all over again.

Rates have been reduced across the board for everyone. The tax rate in the lowest bracket has been reduced from 20 per cent to 16 per cent for 1964. The rate at the top has been trimmed from 91 per cent to 77 per cent. And in 1965 these rates will be further reduced to 14 per cent at the bottom and 70 per cent at the top.

A new Minimum Standard Deduction has been introduced. This will be a break for large families with total incomes less than $10,000. Formerly the taxpayer who didn't itemize his deductions could take a standard deduction of 10 per cent of his gross income. The new Minimum Standard Deduction gives him still another option. Instead of settling on 10 per cent for deductions he may deduct $200 plus an additional $100 for each exemption.

For example, the $7,000-a-year man with four dependent children will be able to deduct $800 on his joint rturn instead of the $700 allowed a year ago.

Other revisions in the law provide new rules for reporting the income on stock dividends. For the family with modest stock holdings it probably will mean that all of its dividend income will be tax exempt. Those with substantial stock holdings and retired couples may find they will be paying a higher tax than formerly on dividends.

Golden agers were remembered in several instances by the tax law writers. They will find special provisions for them on liberalized retirement income credits new rule for medical time special tax rules they may time special tax rules they may follow when they sell their personal residence at a substantial profit.

Most of us felt the first benefits of the new tax reductions last March when a smaller bite was taken out of our pay checks for the withholding tax.

Many taxpayers will learn to their regret when they file their annual income tax return that the added take-home pay they started to receive last March was too generous. Many will have to return a part of it now with payment of additional tax when they file their returns.

This situation results because the reduced withholding tax tables are attumed to the lower 1965 rates but were to generous for the 1964 tax rates.

Never before has there been such a need for accuracy in the filing of returns.

With the requirement of suppling your social security number to banks where you have savings accounts, corporations from whom you receive dividends and all employern who pay you wages or salary the federal government has a near-perfect check on virtually all your income.

With its new electronic equipment Internal Revenue agents can feed into a computer all the cards bearing your Social Security number and determine in seconds if all these items of income are reported in your return.

In these articles we will try to point out every possible deduction and taxsaving device for you. You will report everything which must be shown on your return but will take full advantage of every tax-saving opportunity.

PREDICTS PROSPERITY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Luther H. Hodges, outgoing secretary of commerce, says 1965 will be another year of prosperity.

But Hodges said Sunday, "continued wage and price restraint" by labor and management are necessary if "the greatest period of peacetime prosperity in our nation's history" is to continue for its fifth year."

Hodges made his forecast in a year-end review of the U. S. economy. He is leaving his cabinet post Jan. 15 to return to private life.

Getting New Year Started Wasn't Easy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With the New Year now under way, many Americans settled down to the serious business of trying to make 1965 better than 1964.

It wasn't always easy, particularly for fathers.

San Francisco school teacher Elmer Anderson Jr. got so excited over the birth of triplets right after midnight Thursday that he forgot the three girls' names he and his wife Lisa had picked out.

He had to return home to name Tracy Delia, Mia Marie and Marsha Jeaneen, who were San Francisco's first babies of 1965.

For some the New Year began with new gestures of friendship.

In Port Clinton, Ohio, a young father of three and his wife left with two truckloads of toys, food and clothing for the needy in a part of Kentucky where both grew up.

"I think the best way to start the New Year and make it happier for some back home is to show them we haven't lost the spirit of kindness and good will," said Carl Johnson, 29.

And 1965 provided a good start for a flop-eared mutt nicknamed Angel. He had moved into a Nativity scene in Gilbert, Ariz., and refused to budge for a week.

Angel was adopted by Nina Trimble and her two teen-age daughters and renamed Gabriel.

"From the way he acts," said Kathleen Trimble, 16, "you would think he had always lived here."

For many Americans, however, after the brief celebrations were over, it was business as usual.

President Johnson spent New Year's Day at his Texas ranch, working on his budget recommendations and on his State of the Union message, which he will deliver to a joint session of Congress Monday.

He also sent greetings to Americans abroad and announced that he had asked the chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers to look into recent selective steel price increases.

General Elections Put Off in Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo has put off general elections originally scheduled to be held throughout the rebellion-torn Congo during the first two weeks of February, Radio Leopoldville announced Saturday.

An Interior Ministry communique said President Joseph Kasavubu had signed a decree postponing the election to the period between March 17 and 31.

Before Christmas, Munongo had expressed his determination to stick to the original voting timetable, "except in unforeseen circumstances." But he admitted that political campaigning in the northeastern Congo was likely to be a hazardous business.

"Once you get off the main road, someone is likely to stick a spear in you," he said.

DEPRESSING MOUNTAINS

People doubtless could survive in the cold, wet, misty highlands of the Mountains of the Moon, eerie Ruwenzori ranges of east-central Africa, but the silence, dank smell and enormous size to which ordinary plants and bushes grow there have proved overwhelmingly depressing to the few hardy souls attempting the ascent.

PEOPLE PUPILS TO HORSES

SEDAN, Kan. (AP)—Students of school teacher Laveta Abboud are people in the morning and horses in the afternoon.

For the morning half of each school day, Mrs. Abboud teaches commerce and government at Peru, Kan., high school.

In the afternoons, she trains quarter horses on the Abboud Ranch near Sedan.
